This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Assembly in the year 1802, and the corporators of "The Trustees of the Everest Fund," a corporation incorporated by this Assembly in the year 1847, are annually appointed by the General Association of Connecticut, which Association has the general oversight and care of the pecuniary trusts belonging to said corporations, and said General Association desires to resign said oversight and care, and to be relieved from the duty of appointing said corporators, so that said functions may be executed by a body better adapted thereto by reason of a lay element in its constitution, and further desires that said oversight and care and duty may be conferred upon the General Conference of the Congregational Churches of Connecticut, which is now the Missionary Society of Connecticut and is an organization adapted to the purpose and to the securing the administration of the trusts in such manner that the funds shall always be and remain devoted to the pious uses to which they were appropriated by the donors; and

WHEREAS, Said General Association and General Conference have agreed, for the benefit and interests of the trusts heretofore committed to their respective care, and for the benefit and convenience of the beneficiaries of said trusts, that "The Directors of the Connecticut Home Missionary Society," incorporated in 1875, whose corporators are annually appointed by said General Conference, should be merged with said Trustees of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, and that the corporators, after such merger of said corporation, shall hereafter annually be appointed by the General Conference only; and

WHEREAS, Said Association and said Conference have also deemed it expedient that the care of the funds of "The Trustees of the Everest Fund" should also be committed to the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, and that thus a merger of the three corporations should be effected, and that the invested funds of each society should be preserved distinct, and should be managed and disposed of in accordance with the respective uses for which said funds were contributed, by one corporation, as by the petition of said General Association and General Conference will more fully appear; and

WHEREAS, The allegations of said petition are found to be true, and it would be for the convenience and best interest of said three corporations and for the economical and efficient management of said funds, and would be for the benefit and advantage of said trusts and of the beneficiaries of said trusts, that said three corporations should have a single corporate existence; and

WHEREAS, By said merger the intent and purposes of the donors of said funds are to be fully preserved and carried out as heretofore, and said funds are to be and remain devoted to the pious uses to which they were set apart by the donors,

Resolved by this Assembly: SECTION 1. The corporate rights, powers, and estate of "The Directors of the Connecticut Home Missionary Society" and "The Trustees of the Everest Fund" may be merged and consolidated into and with "The Trustees of the Missionary Society of Connecticut," upon the terms and provisions which are authorized and declared in this resolution.

SEC. 2. Neither the income nor the principal of the invested funds belonging to the original corporations shall be diverted from the uses and purposes to which the same were devoted by the respective donors. Separate and distinct accounts shall be kept of the receipts and expenditures of the invested funds which belong to each of said original corporations, and also of the receipts and expenditures of money hereafter derived from annual contributions.

Resolved, (1) That we hereby tender our hearty thanks to those individuals who have so generously contributed toward the purchase of Memorial Hall, and do especially make grateful mention of Deacon John B. Eldredge of Hartford, who, by his noble and munificent gift, deserves to have his family name associated with the Hall as an affectionate memorial, on his part, of those sainted ones whose memories will thus continually be like fragrant ointment poured forth.

Resolved, (2) That we express our sense of great obligation to the committee who have had this matter in charge from the very beginning, and especially to the chairman, Rev. Lavalette Perrin, for his persistent and self-sacrificing labors in its behalf.

Resolved, (3) That, to carry out the suggestions of said committee and to fulfill the stipulations and conditions proposed in their report, we earnestly recommend to the churches of the state, and especially to those which have not as yet contributed anything, that, as speedily as possible, they give something—if it be but one dollar—to this worthy object, that the work may be soon completed, and that all may have some share in its consummation.

Resolved, (4) That the report of the committee on Memorial Hall be approved and printed (pp. 43–46), and that the following portion of it be adopted, namely:

As we have a reasonable prospect of meeting every condition upon which the subscriptions are made, we advise that, as soon as the circumstances of the case allow, Memorial Hall and the building which contains it be made the property of the churches, and be adapted to their use and benefit, upon the following stipulations and conditions by this Conference:

I. The Hall shall be known as ELDREDGE MEMORIAL HALL.

(2) To procure and arrange such books, pamphlets, records, papers, and pictures as set forth the history and commemorate the worth of the Congregational churches of Connecticut and their ministers and other members.

(3) To diffuse, by public address and by print, a knowledge of the history, polity and Christian work of the Congregational churches of this state.

(4) To encourage struggling Congregational churches in this state, and to do special Christian work in its waste places, in such modes, not otherwise provided, as shall be approved by said Directors.

(5) To promote—by any surplus not needed for the aforesaid objects—the ordinary work for this state of the Missionary Society of Connecticut.

3. This estate shall be in the care and under the management of the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, who may appoint an agent to act in their name with the advice of the finance committee; and said agent shall receive a reasonable compensation for his services and shall make annually to said Directors a full and particular report of his doings.

4. Eldredge Memorial Hall shall be open, and free, at all reasonable times, to ministers and members of Congregational churches, and such other persons as may desire to consult its records or use its facilities for collecting information, and may be used in such other ways as tend to promote the fellowship and efficiency of Christians and churches.

It was voted, That, whenever the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut shall appoint an agent, as contemplated by the action of this body respecting Eldredge Memorial Hall, the committee on Memorial Hall shall transfer their entire trust to said agent, and shall thereupon be discharged from further responsibility.

Resolved,—That, in behalf of the beneficiaries of this Fund, we gratefully recognize the kind providence of God in disposing the late Daniel Chapin, a member of the First church in East Windsor, to bequeath two thousand dollars of his estate to this board; the payment of which by his executor, William H. Thompson, enables us to afford all the aid asked for 1879.

In sixteen years, 1864-1879, all but sixteen of our 298 churches have made us offerings, and we are greatly cheered by the evidence that this worthy object is steadily winning for itself attention and support. Such kindness to aged ministers, and the widows and orphans of ministers, in want, touches our hearts as a beautiful fruit of the Holy Spirit and of a thoughtful and well applied Christianity, and is sure of the approval of our Divine Master.

We append to our report an abstract of the report of the treasurer.

The amount received by this society in legacies was $76.61 more than in 1878; the amount in contributions was $686.23 less than in 1878; and the total of legacies and contributions was $609.54 less than in 1878. The amount spent in Connecticut was $12,149.29 or $1,026.04 less than in 1878, and was an average of 22 cents for each church member.

The American Home Missionary Society received directly from Connecticut in 1879, boxes at a valuation of $13,436.48; contributions, $19,879.09, including $670.63 for the Sunday-school work; legacies, $28,444.38—$61,759.95. The amount in boxes was $2,064.61 more than in 1878; the amount in contributions was $3,273.09 more than in 1878; the amount in legacies was $4,655.22 less than in 1878; and the whole was $682.48 more than in 1878.

Both societies received from Connecticut in 1879, $74,829.21, or 7.67 more than in 1878.

In 1879, of our 298 churches, 181 gave to this society, or 15 more than in any former year; 197 gave to the American Home Missionary Society, or 21 more than in any former year; 113 gave to both, and 33 to neither. Offerings for the Sunday-school work came from 16 churches, legacies from 24 churches, and boxes from 69 churches.

The entire amount received by both societies from Connecticut makes an average of $1.34, for each church member. But this amount includes boxes, which pay none of the expenses of either society, and also legacies. The contributions of the living in money to carry on the regular operations of the two societies were $32,697.96, or an average of 59 cents for each church member; and of this sum, 39 per cent. was paid to this society, and 61 per cent. to the American Home Missionary Society.

Summary by counties.

The following table shows for each county, the number of churches aided, the amount of aid disbursed, the number of churches from which offerings, contributions, or legacies were received by this society, the amount so received, the whole number of churches giving to either society, and the whole amount received by both societies.

		Other sources,		60.00		423,67
				$13,069.26		$74,829.21

It will be noticed that this society disbursed more in New Haven, Tolland and Windham counties than it received from those counties; and more in Tolland and Windham counties than those two counties together gave for home missions.

Grants and commissions in 1879.

The following table gives the names of the churches to which grants were voted in 1879, the rate for the year in each case, the names of those who were commissioned to serve them, and their periods of service. A grant is available only while a church is served by a commissioned preacher. Grants were voted to forty churches. A grant of $150 was also voted to Eagle Rock mission, payable at the discretion of the secretary. Commissions were issued to forty-two preachers, including four licentiates, of whom two were ordained—one as pastor—before the close of the year. The service under these commissions amounted to thirty-four years and six months.

Of these forty churches, twenty-nine had funds to an aggregate of $57,703; eleven had pastors; twenty-six had acting pastors, and three had licentiates. The average salary proposed to be paid with our aid was $790. Thirty-four reported the salary paid promptly. Eleven churches reported debts to an aggregate of $4,846. The average amount of taxable property of these churches, counting only that of their resident members, was $24,458; and the average percentage paid by the churches on said property was .01281. All but four complied with the one per cent. rule, and they were made exceptions for "cause shown."

These churches had, January 1, 1880, a membership of 1,032 males and 1,973 females, in all, 3,005, including 467 absentees, or an average of 75 members for each church. In 1879, the additions were 111 by profession, and 48 by letter, in all, 159; and the removals were 54 by death, 57 by letter, and 4 by discipline, in all, 115. The additions exceeded the removals by 44, and the professions exceeded the deaths by 57. Fifty-nine adults were baptized and 12 children. Thirty churches with 2,088 members baptized no child. Seventeen churches with 1,261 members, added none by profession and lost 29 by death. The Sunday-schools enrolled 3,619, and the congregations embraced 2,076 families.

Every church had a weekly prayer-meeting—with interruptions in some cases. Twenty-nine churches had a monthly concert for a part or the whole of the year, and eleven had none. The charities were $2,210.76, or 74 cents for each church member, and twenty-four per cent. of the amount disbursed to these churches in 1879.

The secretary and state missionary.

In 1879, Mr. Moore visited and addressed forty-two churches and eight Sunday-schools, and in this service made ninety-eight addresses.

Conclusion.

The financial pressure of several years standing continued through 1879, with the result that the total reported contributions of our Connecticut churches for charities were less than in any year since 1868, with an average for each member less than in any year since 1863. But we record with pleasure that the contributions for home missions, including both societies, were $2,586.80 larger than in 1878.

Though the contributions to this society were less than in 1878, yet, as our outlay was also less, the condition of our treasury was better at the close of 1879, than at the close of 1877 and 1878, and we venture to expect less pecuniary embarrassment in our state work for the future than we have encountered in the years recently gone by.

This society sent nothing to the American Home Missionary Society in 1878 and 1879, and only $12.02 in 1877; in all, only $12.02 for the three years, 1877–1879. In the preceding three years, 1874–1876, it sent to that society $11,739.68.

We are grateful that the number of churches helping us is steadily increasing. It would be cause for devout gladness if, at length, every church would make it a matter of state interest, church fellowship, and Christian honor, to sustain the society which alone is charged with supplying the home missionary needs of this small but important commonwealth.

We rejoice that Connecticut has been so generous to the west, and never more so than in the last fifteen years; and we trust, that however urgent and numerous the applicants for her benefactions may be, she will show her appreciation of the ministry and the local church as divinely appointed and honored means for the evangelization of men, by an abounding liberality to home missions, state and national.

V. REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MEMORIAL HALL.

We are able to report to the Conference at this meeting the practical accomplishment of the enterprise in our care, if the course we have pursued is approved. The expenses of the Hall for the year have been about the same as in former years, and the amount originally subscribed for the provisional arrangement, or the five years lease, has all been paid in and is mostly expended. The gift of two elegant clocks by Mr. George Wm. Gilbert, of Thomaston, is worthy of special mention here, and has called forth expressions of grateful admiration. It is not put among the cash receipts, but the price at the manufactory, we learn, is sixty-three and a half dollars. The receipts and payments for the year have been audited and approved, and are herewith submitted, together with a statement of the money in hand and promised for the Hall and Fund. [See A and B.] From this statement it will be seen that if the conditions upon which most of these pledges have been secured are approved by a vote of not less than two-thirds of this body, the way is open for the purchase of the Memorial Hall property at an early day.

When the Conference by a unanimous vote put upon us the duty of executing this difficult work, without making itself responsible for any payments of money not provided for beforehand, we felt it to be no easy task to accomplish. But with the hearty co-operation of the ministers and churches, and a hopeful outlook in the business world, it then seemed quite possible. It is not necessary to dwell upon the hindrances and discouragements which a long continued and extreme depression of business, and a widespread indifference have placed in the way of earlier success. We choose rather to acknowledge gratefully the intelligent and hearty co-operation and encouragement of those whose appreciation of the object has made them prompt and liberal in its support. We have in no case been allowed to present its claims fairly without receiving a cheerful and liberal response. We believe an intelligent recognition of the object by Christian men of wealth in the state will insure the means for its full accomplishment. It is also believed that future bequests by those who love our noble heritage of church history and life will swell the Memorial Hall Fund, and make it increasingly efficient in reclaiming and holding for Christ the waste places of the state.

As we have a reasonable prospect of meeting every condition upon which the subscriptions are made, we advise that, as soon as the circumstances of the case allow, Memorial Hall and the building which contains it be made the property of the churches, and be adapted to their use and benefit, upon the following stipulations and conditions by this Conference.

I. The Hall shall be known as ELDREDGE MEMORIAL HALL.

II. The building, including Eldredge Memorial Hall and its contents, and all money and offerings received for this enterprise shall together be known as MEMORIAL HALL ESTATE.

III. The Conference hereby accepts this trust, and will cause it to be administered in accordance with the following conditions:

1. Memorial Hall estate shall be held by the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, in trust, for the use and benefit of the General Conference of the Congregational Churches of Connecticut and the churches therein represented.

2. A sum of money, not less in amount than five thousand dollars, shall be raised, securely invested and kept at interest, under the name of Memorial Hall Fund, which Fund may be increased from time to time by bequests or otherwise,—the annual income of which, together with rents from parts of the building not used by the Conference, shall be devoted to the following objects:

(1) To properly care for the estate, and furnish and improve the Hall, as the office, home and registry of the Conference.

(2) To procure and arrange such books, pamphlets, records, papers, and pictures as set forth the history and commemorate the worth of the Congregational churches of Connecticut and their ministers and other members.

(3) To diffuse by public address and by print, a knowledge of the history, polity and Christian work of the Congregational churches of this state.

(4) To encourage struggling Congregational churches in this state, and to do special Christian work in its waste places, in such modes, not otherwise provided, as shall be approved by said Directors.

(5) To promote—by any surplus not needed for the aforesaid objects—the ordinary work for this state of the Missionary Society of Connecticut.

3. This estate shall be in the care and under the management of the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, who may appoint an agent to act in their name with the advice of the finance committee: and said agent shall receive a reasonable compensation for his services, and shall make annually to said Directors a full and particular report of his doings.

4. Eldredge Memorial Hall shall be open, and free, at all reasonable times, to ministers and members of Congregational churches, and such other persons as may desire to consult its records or use its facilities for collecting information, and may be used in such other ways as tend to promote the fellowship and efficiency of Christians and churches.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

LAVALETTE PERRIN,
JOHN B. ELDREDGE, } Committee.

VI—REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON DENOMINATIONAL COMITY.

The committee on interdenominational comity was first appointed at the meeting of the General Conference held four years ago in New Haven, and was instructed to correspond with other evangelical religious bodies in the state "with a view to the settlement and adoption of such principles of comity as are fitted to remove all occasions of annoyance in their interdenominational relations, and as tend towards the ultimate and complete union of the people of God, of all names, in every good work."

As this committee has reported from year to year, it is unnecessary to go over the ground at this time from the beginning. We desire rather to report the conclusions arrived at, and to recommend the course which seems to us best for the ultimate disposition of the whole matter. We are more and more deeply impressed with the great importance of the object for which the committee was originally appointed; and while all has not been accomplished that could be desired or hoped for, we cannot but believe that the fact of the annual presentation of this subject before the General Conference, and the circulation in the Minutes of the reports made upon it, have had a decided effect in fastening the attention of the Christian public upon the scandalous character of a divisive sectarianism, and in turning thought upon the necessity of providing, as speedily as may be, some remedy for the consequent evils we are suffering.

I. One leading question which has occupied our attention has been that of the possibility of bringing feeble churches of different denominations existing side by side in the same community to unite. The difficulties in the way of accomplishing this are known to all who have given any thought to the subject. They may be stated as follows:

(1.) True-hearted, and especially warm-hearted Christian people have a preference for their own church, and manner of worship. A good Congregationalist, and even more a good Methodist, loves his denomination, and has faith in it. We must expect to meet this feeling when we ask a feeble church in any community to give up their separate organization in order to be merged in another church. We must expect them to say in their hearts, "What a pity that our church should have to be the one to give up when we are so superior in our order of worship and in our fitness to secure the welfare of the community."

(2.) This preference for one's own church, the value of which in some respects we are glad to recognize, is apt to be supplemented by other forces not all of which are so creditable. Especially is the property which almost every church possesses in the way of their giving up to unite with another church. Most churches possess a meeting-house, and it is generally a serious question what is to become of that. About one-half of the feeble Methodist and Congregational churches in this state have property other than the meeting-house in the form of parsonages or invested funds. This property has been generally given out of love to this particular church, and it may seem to some a perversion to turn it over to a church of another denomination. Even if this objection does not hold, it seems to most people a greater thing to bestow property than to come themselves. One reason of this may be that their property once given stays, but they have feet and can walk away if at any time they should choose.

(3.) In many cases an aggrieved feeling exists on one side or on both sides, which time tends to heal, but which takes a great deal of time to heal to the point of union. This phenomenon is too familiar to need much description. The one church grew out of a division in the other. Or if not this, it was set up when the other church was already holding the field, and is regarded by that church as an encroachment. It will sometimes happen that "things have been said," and both parties in the end come to feel that they have suffered injustice. Such breaches are slow to heal.

(4.) There remains to be mentioned the fact, at first sight curious, that in the great majority of existing cases there is just about as much reason why one church should give up as the other. The churches, in other words, are of just about equal strength, or at least they are just about equal in their ability to live, for some churches as well as some people can live on less than others. The explanation of this fact is very simple. The natural tendency where one church is decidedly inferior to another is for it gradually to run out, and in the end cease to be. Such instances are constantly occurring. "From him which hath not is taken away even that which he seemeth to have." The result is that only those that are of something like equal strength remain in the field. Such being the case, it is evident how nice a question it often becomes which church shall yield to the other. Which must we expect to be willing to die for the public good, while each is honestly of the opinion that it would be better for the public that the other should die.

The natural resource might seem to be to strike as nearly as possible an average, namely: contrive to have just about as many Congregational churches unite with Methodist as Methodist with Congregational; thus the equilibrium of the denominations will be preserved. Fortunate would be the case of the committee on comity, if this easy and simple method could be applied. But unhappily churches cannot be treated as parts of a great machine, least of all in our denomination, the very corner stone of whose polity is the independence of the local church.

Such being the hindrances in this matter, it has been the business of your committee to decide whether they could be of use in any cases to help overcome the difficulties and bring about a union. We have had it in our power to use friendly persuasion, and if thought best to advise the withdrawal of help by the Connecticut Home Missionary Society. Similar powers are held by our Methodist brethren, who now alone, for reasons mentioned in the last report, constitute with us the joint committee.

And our experience, though brief, has sufficed to bring us to the following conclusions:

It is seldom that a case arises where the committee can act to advantage. The matter is of a sort that cannot be hurried, nor does it admit, unless in very exceptional instances, of being carried by force. Circumstances must become favorable by a natural process before anything can be attempted with hope of good results. We believe, however, that when such occasion does arise friendly counsel, enforced, if necessary, by a wise pressure, may be of great use, and that some regular and understood method of affording such assistance is desirable.

2. The other important question occupying the attention of your committtee has been this: in the case of a church having become fairly established in a field which it is sufficient to cover, and which can adequately support a single church only, can anything be done to prevent the formation of a new church of a different denomination by its side?

This is the most reprehensible breach of Christian courtesy which occurs between denominations in our day. It is the most contrary to decency, and still more to religion; it is the cause of a large proportion of the evils which this committee is intended to mitigate. Fifty years ago there might have seemed some excuse for this, for denominations then had little faith in each other, and honest men felt it a duty often to set up a pure church by the side of what they regarded as a perverted one, a living by the side of a dead one. That day is now past. Far beyond what could have been expected even a quarter of a century ago, the spirit of mutual respect and good-will has come to prevail. The time then seems ripe, and doubtless is ripe, for friendly action in this matter. It is not to be supposed that every case of this species of injustice can be prevented. It is not to be supposed that the representatives of different denominations can always be agreed as to whether the establishment of a new church would be proper in given circumstances or not. They might be agreed and yet unable to prevent it. But your committee do not doubt that in a fair proportion of instances good might be accomplished. Let it be understood that a church whose interests are threatened by the formation of another of a different order in its vicinity can appeal to a committee consisting of wise and just men out of the two denominations concerned, men who can not only advise but who have the power at least to withhold missionary aid, and there is reason to hope that the influence will in many cases be sufficient to turn the scale. During the past year no such case has occurred, so far as the knowledge of your committee goes. In the only instance brought to our notice there proved to be no intention at present, and probably not at all, of establishing a church. But such cases are liable constantly to arise; in every short term of years a number of them occur; and we are of opinion that some properly organized and generally understood means should exist of friendly communication with our brethren of other denominations regarding them.

Whilst then we believe the work of this committee in both the forms suggested,—namely, the effort to bring feeble churches of different denominations in the same vicinity to unite and the using of means to prevent the formation of new churches in the neighborhood of already existing churches of other denominations sufficient to hold the field,—is important, and that it promises with patient effort a measure of success, we are persuaded that it should now be committed to our Home Missionary Society. The churches concerned are almost without exception "home missionary churches." The knowledge required to deal properly with them is precisely that which it is the business of the home missionary board and its secretary to be familiar with. It came to pass by a natural process among our Methodist brethren, that, after the first year, the matter was entrusted to their presiding elders. They were the ones in the Methodist body especially familiar with the subject, they were therefore appointed to represent them on the joint committee of comity. By a like natural fitness, it belongs among us to the home missionary board to attend to this work.

In view of these considerations your committee recommend the passage of the following resolutions (p. 21):

VII.—REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON TRANSFERS FROM THE GENERAL ASSOCIATION.

The committee appointed by the last General Conference to coöperate with the committee of the General Association in the matter of the transfer of the Missionary Society of Connecticut and the Everest Fund, from that body to the General Conference, would respectfully report:—

Your committee met the committee of the General Association at Memorial Hall, Hartford, Monday, Dec. 1, 1879, and after full discussion of the subject presented to them united with the committee of the General Association in appointing Messrs. Nathaniel Shipman, William C. Crump, Lewis E. Stanton, and Rev. William H. Moore, a sub-committee in behalf of both bodies to draft such a charter of incorporation as would secure the proper accomplishment of the transfers proposed, and to apply to the General Assembly of the commonwealth for requisite legal enactments in the premises.

At a subsequent meeting of your committee in connection with that of the General Association, held Dec. 29, 1879, the report of the sub-committee was presented and approved, and the same gentlemen were requested to take all further necessary steps to effectuate the business entrusted to them.

As the result of their application to the General Assembly, a resolution was passed at the January session in 1880, and approved by the Governor, March 12, 1880, granting the request of the petitioners and authorizing on the part of the commonwealth the proposed transfers, upon the condition of the acceptance of the new charter of incorporation by a two-thirds vote of the General Association and by a vote of the General Conference.

The General Association has already accepted the charter, at its meeting held in June last, and it only remains that similar action be taken by this body to secure a full effectuation of the transfer and merger authorized.

Your committee therefore conclude their report with proposing the following resolution for adoption by this Conference:—

Resolved,—That the resolution of the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut, Jan. session, 1880, in relation to merging the Connecticut Home Missionary Society in the Missionary Society of Connecticut, and transferring said Missionary Society of Connecticut and the Everest Fund from the General Association to the General Conference, be hereby accepted, approved, and adopted, which resolution is as follows:—pp. 14–19.

VIII.—REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FELLOWSHIP AND WORK.

The church of Christ is not an ark of safety, into which a chosen few can enter and feel secure while the angry flood is raging and howling and sweeping away lost millions. It is not a place of rest where those who have been worn and tried with the evils of a sinning world can find sweet repose. It is not merely a school for the instruction and enjoyment of its members. It is more than all these. It is the representative of a working Saviour; an efficient force put into the world for the accomplishment of God's purpose of salvation. It is the lever that is to lift up from the degradation of sin a ruined race. It is Christ's agent for carrying forward his redemptive work; the herald that is to seize the fiery cross and carry it from clan to clan, from land to land, until the whole race rises at the bidding of its King. It is the almoner that is to take the bread of life and distribute it to the hungry and fainting multitudes. It is the reforming power that must lead and always keep far ahead of the world. It is designed to be an intensely working force in every age and contains within itself a post for every man, which he abandons at his peril.

With this idea of Christ's church your committee has endeavored to gather the facts which show the present condition of the churches of this Conference. For the sake of clearness it has arranged them in five divisions.

I.

The financial condition of the churches, and its effect upon their spirituality.

It is the universal testimony that the enterprise, prosperity, and spirituality of a church are deeply affected by its financial condition. If it be rich and increased with goods, it is in danger of thinking that it has need of nothing, though it may be wretched and miserable and poor and blind and naked. If it be poor, it is tempted and almost necessitated to "steal" the time and strength and labors that belong to its spiritual work, in order to gain its daily bread.

One half of the churches of our Conference are in good financial circumstances. They own the house in which they worship, meet without difficulty their ordinary expenses, and contribute regularly to the various benevolent works in which we are engaged. Some of them have succeeded during the year in removing the indebtedness that was depressing pastor and people, and crippling their energies. They are determined never again to be in bondage to any man. Others have repaired and beautified their house of worship, and two at least have erected a new chapel—while one is jubilant over a surplus in the treasury. But 130 of our 297 churches are hampered by debts that drag their slow length along from year to year. In many cases the indebtedness is very small and would not average five dollars a member—in none is it large in comparison with the ability of the church. To those who have had much experience in debts and their payment, it looks as if this hindrance to the successful prosecution of the work entrusted to these churches could be easily removed. In some cases bleeding would tend to remove the apathy that is the precursor of paralysis. One church declares that it does not have to raise money enough to keep it spiritual—and not a few are cherishing the fund that is to bury them. Christians need often to be told that giving is one of God's best means of grace, and should be considered an act of worship no less sacred than prayer or praise.

II.

The Sunday-school.

Probably the best work of our churches has been done in the Sunday-school; all the reports represent them as being in an extremely flourishing condition. They speak of the deep interest that is manifested in the study of the sacred scriptures and the increasing numbers of their membership.

Our churches are rapidly getting beyond the old notion that the Sunday-school is an independent institution officered and governed by itself. They are growing in the conviction, that each individual church is responsible for the religious training of her children,—and that she cannot entrust their care and teaching to any organism outside herself; that upon her is laid the burden of the whole Sunday-school work. She must sustain it—she must do it—all competent members of the church must share in the labor as well as the harvest, and the pastor must have the oversight of it all. Animated by this belief, our churches are giving to the Sunday-school a prominent place in the services of the sanctuary. While they do not regard it as a substitute for the afternoon service, many of them give it the place formerly occupied by the second sermon, and consider the change advantageous.

But right here we need to guard well against the stupid blunder of calling the Sabbath-school "the children's church," and encouraging the idea that children need not attend the regular preaching service of the sanctuary. No Sunday-school teaching, however faithful, can take the place of that. Daniel Webster only showed his great wisdom when speaking of the ministry he said, "When the disciples with an assumption of wisdom superior to their Master, seek to separate the children from the multitude that gather to hear his gospel, He rebukes them and says, 'Suffer the little children to come unto me.'" This injunction addresses itself to-day with the same earnestness and the same authority which attended its utterance to the Christian world. It is of force everywhere and at all times. It extends to the ends of the earth, and it will reach to the end of time, always, everywhere sounding in the ears of men with an emphasis which no repetition can weaken, and with an authority which nothing can supersede, "Suffer the little children to come unto me."

In vain is it said children cannot understand the sermon, and so cannot gain much profit from the instruction of the pulpit. There are indeed some sermons which neither they nor anybody can understand. Sermons which are like Rufus Choate's writing, which neither the printer, nor the editor, nor the lawyer himself could decipher. But the child can understand any sermon that is adapted to the wants of an ordinary congregation. The great truths and facts of the gospel which ought to be the themes of the pulpit are simple, plain, and suited to the wants of the youthful mind and heart. If the great novelist did not dare to put into his book any passage that could not be understood by the servant to whom he read it, surely the preachers of the gospel of Christ ought to exclude from their message everything that cannot be comprehended by those to whom they declare it. The God of the gospel, like the God of nature, has made the great essential facts and truths clear as sunshine. Children can see them as easily as men, and, if the Master was right, some things that are hidden from the wise and prudent are revealed unto babes.

Let us then guard against the mistake of supposing that the Sunday-school can ever be made a substitute for the public worship in the church. Let us train our children to the habit of regular attendance upon the preaching service of the Sabbath. Let us impress upon our Sunday-school teachers and superintendents the necessity of exerting their influence decidedly and constantly to induce all the Sunday-school scholars to attend church, and let ministers so preach that the lambs shall be fed. Thus shall our children grow in the knowledge and power of the gospel of Christ, and come forward well trained for the places that shall soon be vacant.

III.

Revival efforts.

Very few of our churches have made what are called "revival efforts," and those that have done so in previous years have not been entirely satisfied with the results. One pastor says, "We never have them, we work and hope all the time." Another writes, "Such efforts are always attended with the same results with us: large attendance on meetings, willingness to rise for prayers, even readiness to claim Christ as the Saviour; but unwillingness to confess him openly. Hence impressions are soon worn away, and the old life is resumed." Another adds, "We make no special revival effort, we do not desire it, we dread the after results." While another writes, "The large additions to some of our churches two years ago have not contributed as much to the strength of those churches as was hoped, and the extra religious work that was then performed seems to have exhausted the ability of many who were very zealous."

But, on the other hand, several of our churches have engaged in interesting and valuable spiritual work, which has resulted in the invigoration of Christians, and the addition of not a few to the number of Christ's followers. One pastor writes concerning the six weeks' labors of two well-known evangelists, "The result of their labors is more apparent in the increased spirituality of the church than in the numbers added. We shall receive about fifty, all told. But the church was greatly quickened. It is a good preparation for the home evangelization work upon which we have just entered by the appointment of our city missionary."

Our churches are convinced that their best growth can be secured only by the continuous and natural development of Christian character, through regular persistent work for Christ and humanity. They are more and more satisfied that the results of brief spasmodic efforts are not such as to make us wish to depend upon them for the quickening of our churches and the conversion of men. While they believe in God's special blessing upon special work, and look for the gift of the Spirit in answer to the prayer of faith, they do not feel confident that either the work or the prayer is delegated to any professional laborers in the vineyard of the Lord. They are inclined to the opinion that the individual church contains within herself the means, and bears the responsibility of carrying forward the work of Christ in the community in which she is placed, and that her best helpers are her sister churches. They do not believe that it is wise for the church or the unconverted to wait for the coming of the Lord, who is all the while standing and knocking at the closed door. Let each local church awake and put on her strength and her beautiful garments, and Zion would rejoice and the daughters of Judah would be glad. Then would the work of the Lord move steadily forward to completion. Then should we behold the coming of Christ's universal kingdom and catch upon our upturned faces "the glory of His appearing."

The usual complaint of dull prayer-meetings is made, but, as usual, they are dull only to those who seldom attend them, and never contribute anything to relieve the dull monotony.

In some cases it has been found of great advantage to have a prepared series of topics for weekly meetings, and other churches have derived great benefit from the familiar exposition in regular course of one of the books of the New Testament. The chapter and verses are announced on the Sabbath, and all persons are expected to have a Bible with them at the meeting and share in the exposition by comment or question. This has done much to promote the intelligence as well as the spirituality of the church-members.

Digitized by Google

IV.

Temperance.

This report would be considered very imperfect if it neglected to give an account of the efforts made in behalf of temperance, even if there was nothing new to bring to the notice of the Conference.

While the specific temperance work has not been done as one pastor puts it "in the blood and thunder style," it has been earnestly and persistently pushed forward. Temperance has been preached in the pulpit, taught in the Sunday-school, and practiced very extensively by the people. The position has been taken that intemperance is not an evil to be deprecated but allowed, introduced into the platforms of political parties or excluded from them for the sake of securing votes, and made a source of revenue; but that it is a sin just like adultery, fornication, and any other sin with which Paul classes it. Sin always, everywhere, in the hovels of the poor, or the mansions of the rich, in the Bacchanalian revels of the vile, or the dinners and suppers of the clubs that bear honored or saintly names. Sin just like any other sin, demanding the same repentance, and needing to be cleansed by the same blood of the Crucified. It is felt that the church of Christ is God's reforming power, that on her is laid the responsibility of repressing by all the means in her power, this great evil, and that it is woe to her if she does not seek to save those that are ready to perish.

In some of our churches a very interesting and instructive Sabbath-school concert has been held, while in others the children have been induced to sign the pledge; but the main endeavor has been to make men and women Christian: knowing that if they walk in the Spirit, they will not fulfill the lusts of the flesh.

V.

The numerical growth of our churches has not been very great. But we recognize in all the reports the evidence of a quickened life, and an invigorated faith. We discern a spirit that is anxious to leave behind the great principles of the doctrines of Christ, and go on unto perfection. Our churches are all hopeful, and think they already discern the signs of the Master's coming and are preparing to go and meet Him. Already it is thought that the smoke of incense ascending from the altars is gathering into a cloud that will soon pour down blessings upon the thirsting garden of the Lord. Already there are some in our churches who are asking what they can do to save those having no hope, and without God in the world.

Group-meetings have been held in nearly all our conferences during the year, with great enjoyment, and no little profit to the churches. But there is a feeling, founded upon the experience of past efforts, that something more is needed to bind our churches in the fellowship of work, and secure the results that were hoped to be obtained through the apportionment of the committee on fellowship and work. There has been too little fellowship, and not enough work.

In some of our local conferences the question has been asked, "What can the churches do to help each other in the work of extending the kingdom of Christ during the coming winter?" In answer to this question, the committee on fellowship and work, in one of our conferences, has addressed the following letter to the churches on the subject of group meetings:

To the Congregational churches of Middlesex county conference.

BELOVED IN THE LORD:—The chairman of the committee on fellowship and work has been directed to address a letter to the churches on the subject of group meetings.

The group meetings which have been held in this county have been of great practical value to those who have attended them; but we think they can be made more useful to the churches, and more directly efficient in the conversion of men. Let these meetings be designed to secure a special blessing upon the churches with which they are held. Let us have the faith that "works by love." Let our prayers mean work, and our work mean the salvation of men and the glory of God. Let us arise and go to meet the Master, who is come and calleth for us.

Digitized by Google

We would recommend that on the evening of the day preceding the group meeting a sermon be preached in the church with which the meeting is to be held; and that, by special prayer, the people be prepared to receive the full spiritual benefit of the ensuing meeting.

We would also suggest the following series of topics for the meetings:

I. A. M.—Dependence upon the Holy Spirit for the quickening of the church and the conversion of men.
P. M.—Spiritual life; what it is and how it may be sustained.

II. A. M.—Christ: our example, inspiration, and life.
P. M.—Christ: the all-sufficient Saviour.

III. A. M.—The church: Christ's witnesses and laborers.
P. M.—How can we best labor for the conversion of men?

IV. A. M.—The great question: "What must I do to be saved?"
P. M.—The Divine answer: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ."

V. A. M.—Hindrances to Christian progress.
P. M.—The unconscious influence of a holy life.

VI. A. M.—Christian earnestness.
P. M.—The final triumph of Christ's kingdom.

And now let our churches, catching the spirit of the times, go forth with all their torches burning, to fill the state with their brightness and win a glorious victory for Christ.

During the Conference year, the following ministers have died:

Nehemiah Baldwin Cook, Nov. 17, 1879, aged 86.
Aaron Snow, March 1, 1880, aged 76.
Samuel Ives Curtiss, March 26, 1880, aged 77.
Silas Ketchum, April 24, 1880, aged 44.
Henry Francis Hyde, May 27, 1880, aged 45.
John Andrews Hanna, July 30, 1880, aged 32.
Oliver Ellsworth Daggett, Sept. 1, 1880, aged 71.
Rodolphus Landfear, Sept. 30, 1880, aged 86.

Eight in all. Average age, 65. Three died young. We give thanks to God always for them all, remembering their work of faith and labor of love and patience of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ in the sight of God and our Father; for our gospel came not unto them in word only, but also in power and in the Holy Ghost and in much assurance, as ye know what manner of men they were among you.

STATISTICS.

EXPLANATIONS.

In the tables of the associations, the ministerial ages are reckoned to January 1, 1881. Post-offices are not given in these tables, but with the alphabetical list of ministers.

In the tables of the constituent bodies of the General Conference, some non-consociated churches are, for convenience of representation, counted with consociations to which they do not belong.

In the tables of the churches, the towns are given in alphabetical order, and the churches in the towns in the order of age. The tables present the statistics of the churches for 1880, and their condition as to membership, Sunday-schools, and families, on the morning of January 1, 1881. The first column gives towns, names, and the initials of counties; the second gives the dates of organization, so far as known; the third gives, according to latest information, the names of ministers, with years of ordination. The next three columns show whether the ministers are pastors, acting pastors, or stated preachers; whether the pastors were settled by ordination or installation; when the relationship began; and how many years, reckoning to January 1, 1881, it has continued.

"In designating in our Minutes the relations of non-installed ministers to the churches which for a length of time they are engaged to serve, those shall be recognized as acting pastors (a. p.) who perform the work of a pastor; and those who simply serve the churches on the Sabbath, and on other special occasions, and who do not reside within nor near the parishes in which these churches are located, shall be recognized as stated preachers (s. p.)." A star prefixed to a minister's name shows that January 1, 1881, he was not a member of any district association in this state. The abbreviations, Bap., Meth., Presb., after the names of ministers, show to what denomination they belong. The word "none," in the column of ministers, does not mean, in every case, that the church is without preaching, but only that it has no pastor, acting pastor, nor stated preacher, nor a licentiate hired for any considerable time; it may have different preachers irregularly, or from Sabbath to Sabbath.

The column of excommunicated includes, also, those from whom watch and care have been withdrawn, as for long absence, or other reasons. The column of Sabbath-schools gives the whole number in Sabbath-schools, home and mission, January 1, 1881, including officers and teachers. The column of families states the whole number of families in the flock, but does not include those reached by missionary efforts.

In the tables of charities, the first six columns after the names of the churches show how much was given for each of the national Congregational charitable societies, and objects connected with them. The next column shows how much was given for all other charities. The next gives the total charities, so far as ascertained. The last column shows the amount of charitable legacies paid. The charities and legacies paid are for the year 1880.

A blank shows that the question is not answered.

REMARKS.

THE ASSOCIATIONS.—January 1, 1881, the fifteen district associations reported 391 members, of whom 62 were residing out of the state. The average ministerial age was 23 years; in Naugatuck Valley it was 13, in New Haven West, it was 29 years. The list consisted of 1 U. S. clerk, 1 assistant secretary of the Connecticut Board of Education, 2 editors, 5 stated preachers, 5 chaplains, 4 missionaries of the American Board, 10 teachers, 10 officers and agents of charitable societies and institutions, 15 officers in colleges and theological seminaries, 113 acting pastors, 102 having no charge, 123 pastors.

The large number having no charge included some in secular pursuits, invalids, candidates for ministerial work, and aged persons, and the average ministerial age of the whole was 32 years.

In 1880, 14 were licensed; 52 licentiates were responsible to the district associations, January 1, 1881.

THE CONSOCIATIONS AND CONFERENCES.—There are 4 consociations and 12 conferences which send delegates to the General Conference; and through these 16 bodies all the churches in the state are represented in the General Conference, except Pawcatuck, in Stonington, which belongs to Rhode Island Conference and is called Westerly in their roll.

THE CHURCHES.—The annual statistics report contributions, legacies, baptisms, and changes in membership in 1880, and families and membership in churches and Sabbath-schools, January 1, 1881. The number of churches, January 1, 1881, was 297. The statistics of all are given.

MINISTERS.—January 1, 1881, 39 churches had no minister, in the sense of having neither pastor, acting pastor, nor stated preacher, though all these, but two, were served regularly, or for part of the year, by ministers or licentiates employed from Sabbath to Sabbath, or for a longer period; 8 had stated preachers; 124 had acting pastors; 127 had pastors, including 3 with pastors emeriti, of which one had also a pastor and one an acting pastor. In three cases, two churches united in employing one preacher. The average term of stated preachers was two years, of acting pastors three years, and of pastors eight years.

Of the pastors, 7 were not members of any district association in this state; and among the acting pastors and stated preachers were one Baptist, two Methodists and four Presbyterians.

In 1880, seventeen candidates, members of these churches, or who had recently been members, were ordained,—seven as pastors, namely, a member of Ashford, First; of Berlin, Second; of Bethlehem; of Canton, Center; of Cornwall, North; of Broad Brook; of Fairfield, First; of Guilford, Third; of New Britain, South; of Nepaug; of New Haven, North; of New Haven, Third; of College Street; of Newington; of Park, Norwich; of Somers, First; of Waterbury, First.

The number pursuing theological studies in the two seminaries in the year beginning in 1880, was—in Hartford, 29, in New Haven, 93; in both, 122.

In 1880, seventeen licentiates were ordained—eight without charge, and nine as pastors. Six ministers were installed as pastors; thirteen pastors were dismissed, and ten ministers,—of whom four were pastors, and the rest had no charge,—died at an average age of sixty-five years.

Members.—The churches reported, January 1, 1881, 18,877 males and 36,325 females, in all, 55,202, including 6,451 absentees. In 1880, the additions were—1,062 by profession, and 1,096 by letter, in all, 2,158; the removals—957 by death, 1,024 by letter, 172 by discipline, in all, 2,153. The additions by profession exceeded the removals by death by 105. The total additions exceeded the total removals by 5. This would make the total membership, on the basis of January 1, 1880, 55,603, but instead of this it is, as reported, 55,202; and thus there is a difference of 401 members, not accounted for in the statistical tables, to be charged to the revision of rolls and other causes.

The rate of mortality was 17 for a thousand members. One hundred and nineteen churches, with 15,959 members, added none by profession, and lost 294 by death. Thirty-two churches received

Resolved, (2) That as long as license laws are on our statute books as the laws of the state, it should be the united effort of all temperance men to enforce them, according to their true meaning and intent, so as to get the greatest possible good from them.

Resolved, (3) That differences of opinion, as to the best measures to be adopted to suppress the evils of intemperance, furnish no reason why good men should not work together for the removal of these evils; much less do they furnish any reason why they should vilify and rail at each other.

Resolved, (4) That, in the present state of the temperance cause, it is the first and imperative duty of all its friends so to enlighten the public mind, and so to elevate the general tone of moral feeling and principle that the wisest and most efficient laws on this subject can and will be made and enforced; and as a help to this we would recommend the organization in our larger towns of societies for the prevention of crime similar to those already established in some of our cities.

Resolved, (5) That our churches furnish the best of all opportunities for organized temperance work; that the endeavor of the Connecticut Temperance Union to unite the churches of the state in this work is commendable and worthy of our support; and that we earnestly request the Union to hold fast to its distinctive work through the Christian churches.

III.—REPORT OF THE ANNALIST.

The archive of the Conference has been enriched during the year with several very valuable books, manuscripts, and pamphlets, and is becoming quite attractive to persons who are interested in the early history, or in the present condition and efficiency of the churches. A suitable place is now in readiness for the reception and preservation of all valuable matter relating to the churches, their ministers and other members, and the matter already accumulated there will be systematically arranged for convenience of reference, as rapidly as the other duties of the annalist will permit. Much that has been gathered in former years can now be made of practical value, and the increase of valuable matter in Memorial Hall from year to year is an object worthy of the special attention and effort of all who desire the honor and efficiency of the Congregational churches of Connecticut. These churches are indebted to those who have already contributed valuable historical and commemorative books, pamphlets, and manuscripts to their archive, and the Conference may very properly acknowledge the fact by the following resolution:

Resolved, That the thanks of this Conference are hereby tendered to all who have, during the past year, added by gift to the valuable matter collected in Memorial Hall, and that the contributions of Miss Lydia L. Marsh and Miss Ada Gillett are worthy of special notice.

IV.—SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE FUND FOR MINISTERS.

The Trustees of the Fund for Ministers present the following as their seventeenth annual report, being for the year 1880:

The only permanent fund is the legacy of Mrs. Irene Battell Larned, of $3,000, in bonds of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company, paying seven per cent.

The receipts and disbursements in 1880 were as follows:

Receipts—Remainder from 1879, $1,434.09; interest of permanent fund, $210.00; legacy, $30.00; value restored of two orders paid on forged indorsement, $57.00; contributions, $3,456.83; total, $5,187.92.

Disbursements—To William H. Moore, secretary, for binding Minutes, $1.25; circulars, $6.50; postage, $15.69—$23.44. To Ward W. Jacobs, treasurer, for expressage, $0.30; postage, $6.45; salary for 1880, $25.00—$31.75. To sixteen beneficiaries, $4,407.32. Total, $4,462.51. Remainder, Dec. 31, 1880, $725.41.

We append to our report an abstract of the report of the treasurer.

Grants were voted in 1880 to sixteen persons,—four ministers, nine widows of ministers, and three daughters of deceased ministers,—amounting to $4,225.00.

One of these ministers, Rev. Rodolphus Landfear, died during the year, aged 86. He was active and successful as a home missionary in New York, and as a pastor in Connecticut, in the earlier years of his ministerial life, and until loss of voice many years ago debarred him from the pulpit. After that he did what he could, and all anybody could ask him to do, for himself and his family; but at the age of seventy five found it impossible to provide for their necessities, and for the last eleven years had aid from these charitable funds, and was always grateful for the help bestowed.

The following statement shows the number of churches from which offerings have been received, the amount of offerings received, the total receipts, including remainder from preceding year, the number of persons to whom grants were voted, the amount of grants voted, the total disbursements, and the remainder each year:

Transfer of trusts and merging.

At the annual meeting of the General Association at Plainville, June 20, 1877, "Frederick D. Avery, William H. Moore, and Mr. William C. Crump, were appointed a committee to report next year on the following resolution offered by Hartford South Asso ciation: Resolved, That, in our judgment, it is desirable that the funds of the Missionary Society of Connecticut be committed to the Connecticut Home Missionary Society; that the annual income of said funds be sent to the American Home Missionary Society, to be expended according to the intent of the donors and the usage of the Missionary Society of Connecticut; and that the Missionary Society of Connecticut be discontinued."

At the same meeting, "Myron N. Morris, Andrew C. Denison, and Gowen C. Wilson, were appointed a committee to consider the question of transferring the Everest Fund to the General Conference, and report next year."

At the General Association at Meriden, June 18, 1878, "the committee on the resolution proposing a transfer of the funds of the Missionary Society of Connecticut to the Directors of the Connecticut Home Missionary Society, made a report with resolutions. The report was accepted. The resolutions, after considerable discussion, were referred to the same committee, enlarged to consist of Frederick D. Avery, Leonard Bacon, William H. Moore, Myron N. Morris, and Mr. William C. Crump, and continued to report next year."

"The committee to consider the question of transferring the Everest Fund to the General Conference made a report, which was accepted and referred to the same committee, Myron N. Morris, Andrew C. Denison, Gowen C. Wilson, continued to report next year."

At the General Association at East Hartford, June 17, 1879, "the committee on the question of transferring the funds of the Missionary Society of Connecticut to the Directors of the Connecticut Home Missionary Society, made a report with resolutions. The report was accepted, and the resolutions were adopted, as follows:

Resolved, That, in the judgment of the General Association, it is desirable that the General Conference become the Missionary Society of Connecticut; that the Connecticut Home Missionary Society be merged in the Missionary Society of Connecticut; that the Missionary Society of Connecticut administer its vested funds and their income as hitherto; that it also take the place and do the work of the Connecticut Home Missionary Society in relation to Connecticut and the American Home Missionary Society; that the accounts of these two branches of its duties be kept distinct; and that its affairs be conducted by a board of not less than fifteen directors, of whom at least one-third shall be lay members of Congregational churches in Connecticut.

Resolved, That Frederick D. Avery, Leonard Bacon, William H. Moore, Myron N. Morris, and Messrs. William C. Crump and Nathaniel Shipman, be appointed to present the above action to the General Conference for its concurrence, and to coöperate with such committee as may be appointed by that body to apply to the General Assembly for such changes of charters as may be necessary to carry said action into effect."

"The committee on the question of transferring the Everest Fund to the General Conference made a report with a resolution. The report was accepted and the resolution was adopted, as follows:

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to present the subject to the General Conference, and to coöperate with such committee as may be appointed by that body, in procuring from the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut such change in the act incorporating the Trustees of the Everest Fund as shall transfer the duty of appointing said Trustees from the General Association to the General Conference.

Frederick D. Avery, Leonard Bacon, William H. Moore, Myron N. Morris, and Messrs. William C. Crump and Nathaniel Shipman, were appointed said committee."

At the annual meeting of the General Conference at Waterbury, Nov. 11, 1879, "a committee of the General Association made a communication respecting the transfer of the Missionary Society of Connecticut and the Everest Fund, from that body to the General Conference, and the following resolutions were adopted.

Resolved, That we approve of the proposed transfer of the affairs of the Missionary Society of Connecticut and of the Everest Fund, to the General Conference.

Resolved, That it is desirable that the General Conference become the Missionary Society of Connecticut; that the Connecticut Home Missionary Society be merged in the Missionary Society of Connecticut; that the Missionary Society of Connecticut administer its vested funds and their income as hitherto; that it also take the place and do the work of the Connecticut Home Missionary Society in relation to Connecticut and the American Home Missionary Society; that the accounts of these two branches of its duties be kept distinct; and that its affairs be conducted by a board of not less than fifteen directors, of whom at least one-third shall be lay members of Congregational churches in Connecticut.

Resolved, That it is desirable that the Everest Fund be committed to the care of the Directors of said Missionary Society of Connecticut.

Resolved, That it is desirable that the Root Fund be committed to the care of the Trustees of the Fund for Ministers.

Resolved, That we appoint a committee to coöperate with the committee of the General Association, who have brought this subject to our notice, namely, Rev. Messrs. Frederick D. Avery, Leonard Bacon, William H. Moore, Myron N. Morris, and Messrs. William C. Crump and Nathaniel Shipman, to do what may be required to carry these proposals into effect; and particularly to apply to the General Assembly of Connecticut for such changes in charters as may be found necessary to accomplish this purpose; with the understanding that the charters so changed shall not be valid until they have been approved by the General Association and the General Conference.

"The following were appointed said committee: Rev. Messrs. George L. Walker, Joseph Anderson, Joseph W. Backus, and Messrs. William C. Crump and Nathaniel Shipman."

The above-named committees of the General Association and General Conference met jointly at Memorial Hall, Hartford, Dec. 1, 1879, and appointed Messrs. Nathaniel Shipman, William C. Crump, William H. Moore, and Lewis E. Stanton, a sub-committee to prepare a draft of such a charter as would accomplish the objects proposed.

At a joint meeting of the two aforesaid committees at Memorial Hall, Dec. 29, 1879, the sub-committee reported a draft which was approved, and said sub-committee were directed to apply to the General Assembly for its enactment. On their application, the proposed charter was granted at the January session, 1880, and was approved by the Governor, March 12, 1880.

Said charter was adopted by the General Association at Wolcottville, June 15, 1880, by a vote of thirty ayes to four nays, and was also adopted by the General Conference without dissenting voice, at Rockville, Oct. 27, 1880, and is contained in the printed minutes of each body.

The General Conference also adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the administration of the Root Fund be transferred from the Directors of the Connecticut Home Missionary Society to a special committee; and that, until further order, the Trustees of the Fund for Ministers be said committee."

The persons chosen by the General Conference to serve as directors met at Memorial Hall, Hartford, and organized under the charter, Nov. 3, 1880.

It will be noticed that by this charter, so enacted by the General Assembly and adopted by the General Association and General Conference, and now in force, the Connecticut Home Missionary Society is merged in the Missionary Society of Connecticut, the General Conference becomes the Missionary Society of Connecticut, the charter of the Trustees is amended, the corporate name is changed to "The Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut," and the powers of the corporation are enlarged to embrace four distinct departments of trust and administration.

These departments are to be known by the following names:

Western work, the Everest Fund, the Memorial Hall estate, State work.

In connection with the changes thus effected, it is desirable that historical statements be presented in respect to the four departments now brought under one management. These statements will be given in the order of the names above mentioned.

I. Western Work.

Efforts before the formation of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, 1774–1798.

This work was initiated by the General Association, at North Mansfield, Wednesday, June 22, 1774, by the following action:

"This Association taking into consideration the state of the settlements now forming in the wilderness to the westward and northwestward of us, who are mostly destitute of a preached gospel, many of which are of our brethren, emigrants from this colony, think it advisable that an attempt should be made to send missionaries among them, and for obtaining a support for such missionaries, would recommend it to the several ministers in the colony to promote a subscription among their people for this purpose.

Upon which it was voted, That the preceding conclusion, together with the form of a subscription, be printed and sent to the several ministers in the colony."

At an adjourned meeting of the General Association, at New Haven, Sept. 15, 1774, a plan for missionary operations was matured to be administered by Rev. Messrs. Wareham Williams, Elizur Goodrich, and Benjamin Trumbull, as a committee of missions. The same year, subscriptions were made, money was raised, and Rev. Messrs. Nathaniel Taylor of New Milford, and Simon Waterman of Wallingford, were appointed to missionary service—which probably was not performed, as these efforts were arrested by the approaching struggle of the revolution. But the subject, in one form or another, engaged the attention of the General Association in 1778, 1780, 1786, 1787, 1788, and annually from 1791. In 1792, Rev. Messrs. Jonathan Edwards, Ezra Stiles, and Nathan Williams, were appointed to petition the General Assembly for liberty for a collection in the churches for this cause, and if the petition were granted, to act as a committee of missions. The petition was granted in an "act passed by the Honorable General Assembly of the State of Connecticut, at their session in October, 1792, enjoining contributions for three years, to support the missions," as follows:

"Be it enacted by the Governor and Council and House of Representatives in General Court Assembled, and by authority of the same, That there be contributions in the several religious societies and congregations in this state, on the first Sabbath in the month of May annually for the term of three years, and the minister or clerk of such societies or congregations shall receive and pay over such contributions to the Reverend Ezra Stiles, Nathan Williams, and Jonathan Edwards, who shall appropriate the same to the support of such missionaries as the General Association of this state shall from time to time employ in preaching the gospel in those settlements in the northern and western parts of the United States, where the ordinances of the gospel are not established, and shall annually exhibit to this Assembly and said Association, an account of the receipts and expenditures of such contributions."

This act was followed by a brief proclamation issued annually by the Governor before the first of May, commending the subject to the good people of the state. The contributions in response to these efforts were as follows: In 1793, from 165 churches, including one Baptist, and two Episcopal churches, £382 9*s.* 1¼*d.*, or $1,274.86; in 1794, from 159 churches, £409 4*s.* 4*d.*, or $1,364.71; in 1795, from 145 churches, $1,106.28. The total receipts from all sources in 1793–1795, were $3,750.63. In three "Narratives," issued in 1794. 1795, and 1797, the committee reported their receipts for 1793, 1794, 1795, their disbursements, and the operations of the missionaries, who were mostly pastors employed for four months, and paid four dollars a week for the supply of their pulpits, and from four and a half to five dollars a week for their own services and expenses.

In the period, 1793—June, 1798, the committee had in service twenty-two missionaries, all pastors but three, as follows:

The Missionary Society of Connecticut.

The work begun in 1774, and resumed in 1792, had grown to such importance that the General Association at Hebron, Tuesday, June 19, 1798, constituted itself the Missionary Society of Connecticut, its affairs to be managed by twelve trustees, one-half of them laymen—and its object "to Christianize the heathen in North America, and to support and promote Christian knowledge in the new settlements within the United States." The trustees were incorporated in October, 1802.

OPERATIONS.

Finances.

The society received in 1798 from the committee of missions what remained of the contributions of 1793–1795, namely, $638.83. No contributions were asked in 1796–1798, and no Narrative was issued in 1798, 1799. In October, 1798, on petition, the General Assembly licensed the society to ask contributions for the next three years, 1799–1801, and a similar license was given once in three years until 1825, when the plan of giving a license to ask contributions was abandoned.

The churches, on invitation, made annual offerings on the first Sunday in May for twenty-eight years, in 1799–1829, omitting the three years 1809–1811, in which the society asked nothing, but paid its expenses from the surplus on hand for current use, which at the close of 1808 amounted to $9,665.17. The total received from these twenty-eight May offerings was $76,311.38. The society also received in 1799–1824, under the head of "sundry donations," gifts and bequests from individuals, including 76 acres of land from one man and a square mile of land (640 acres) from another, $20,353.36; from contributions in the new settlements in 1799–1824, $6,412.92; and from the avails of books in 1799–1821, $1,824.78.

Another source of income was the Connecticut Evangelical Magazine, issued in two series. The first series, of seven volumes, edited by an association of sixteen leading ministers in the state, appeared in July, 1800–June, 1807. The second series, of eight volumes, appeared in January, 1808–December, 1815. The entire profits, amounting to $11,520.07, were given to the society.

From the first, it was determined to establish a fund of which only the income should be expended, and gifts were made for this purpose. The interest on notes and bonds for 1799–1824, amounted to $35,231.26. The society issued an occasional appeal, but depended principally upon its annual Narrative to inform and interest the public. In the period 1800–1830, it published and distributed thirty-one of these Narratives, covering the years 1799–1829. In 1830, by an agreement with the American Home Missionary Society and the Connecticut Home Missionary Society, it ceased to ask contributions from the churches. Since that time, it has expended only the income of its fund and such occasional resources as it had in hand.

It received in the years ending in June, 1799–1880, including the permanent fund, which cost $46,564.16, at its market value of $50,962.87,—$325,494.85.

The whole amount expended for this period, as computed by Rev. Myron N. Morris, is as follows:

Grants to missionaries and feeble churches, -	$239,518.85
Indian missions, - - - - -	2,567.86
Books for the new settlements, - - -	5,814.73
Salaries, - - - - - -	19,441.66
Contingent expenses, - - -	6,285.96
	$273,629.06
To which add balance to new account, - -	902.92
and the permanent fund at market value, - -	50,962.87
and we have the total, expended and on hand, -	$325,494.85

Religious literature for the missions.

As early as 1799, measures were taken to procure books for the new settlements, and in 1803, under instructions from the General Association, the Trustees appointed the following able committee to prepare a "Summary of Doctrine" for distribution among the destitute, namely: Hon. John Treadwell, Chief Justice Oliver Ellsworth, and Rev. Messrs. Benjamin Trumbull, Levi Hart, Cyprian Strong, Charles Backus, Nathan Strong, Nathan Perkins, and Abel Flint. The Summary was prepared, and an edition of 6,000 copies was printed in 1804. In 1799–1828, 63,316 publications were put into circulation in the mission fields by this society—a work all the more needed and useful because in a considerable part of that period no publishing societies existed to render such service.

Missionary labors and their results.

Of the three hundred and five missionaries named in the foregoing list, only two labored statedly among the Indians, Rev. David Bacon, 1800–1805, in Michigan and Ohio, and Rev. Anson Gleason, 1837–1848, as pastor of the Mohegan church in Montville, Connecticut. The lack of success in this direction in the early part of the present century, and the ample encouragement found in the new settlements, soon determined the society to devote its strength to home missionary work on the frontier. Its missionaries were sent into New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Louisiana.

The policy of the society in its earlier years, like that of the committee of missions of 1792–1797, was to employ pastors for short terms of itinerant service. The nature of this service will appear from the following abstracts of reports of these pastor missionaries made to the committee of missions or to the Trustees.

Rev. Joel Benedict of Plainfield, spent two months in Vermont in 1796, traveled 870 miles, and preached five and six times a week.

Rev. Publius V. Bogue (Booge) of Winchester, spent forty days in Vermont in 1798, and preached fifty-four times.

Rev. Israel Day of South Killingly, spent ten weeks in Vermont in the winter of 1805–1806, traveled over 900 miles, and preached over sixty times.

Rev. Jeremiah Day of New Preston, spent nine weeks in New York and Pennsylvania in 1794, traveled about 600 miles, and preached over fifty times.

Rev. Samuel Eells of North Branford, spent eight weeks in New York in 1793, gathered a church at Whitestown, laid the foundations for another church, visited between twenty and thirty settlements, and preached about thirty sermons.

Rev. John Ely of Bethel, on a tour in New York in 1796, traveled about 600 miles, preached 38 sermons, and organized a church.

Rev. Alexander Gillett of Torrington, spent eight weeks in Vermont in 1798, traveled about 700 miles, and preached 50 times; and in 1802, spent four months in Vermont, traveled about 1,050 miles, visited about 50 towns, and preached 120 sermons.

Besides preaching and gathering churches, these missionaries attended conferences, administered the sacraments, admitted to church membership, prepared church creeds and covenants, advised in church difficulties, addressed schools, catechised children, visited families, comforted the sick and sorrowing, attended funerals, and according to their strength and opportunities, made themselves useful in all ways of ministerial fidelity.

Any church whose pastor engaged in this pioneer work, may well cherish his memory.

As the missionary frontier enlarged, it became difficult to obtain pastors for this service, and so ministers without charge and licentiates were employed, and for longer periods.

Rev. Joseph Badger was sent into the Western Reserve in 1800, when that tract as large as Connecticut contained only 1,400 people.

In 1812, this society and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society unitedly sent Rev. Samuel J. Mills, Jr., and Rev. John F. Schermerhorn, on an exploring tour of one year through the west and southwest. Their report of 52 pages, issued in 1814, "shed more light on the state of the destitute parts of our country than any and all other documents then in existence. It was circulated not only through this country, but was read with interest in Europe."

Rev. Salmon Giddings, ordained for this work by Hartford South Association at Berlin, Dec. 20, 1815, started on his horse the same month for St. Louis, arrived there April 6, 1816, and was the first minister of our order ever established in that city. In the next ten years, he gathered eleven churches, six in Illinois, and five in Missouri, including the First Presbyterian church in St. Louis, organized Nov., 1817, of which he became pastor.

In 1817, Rev. Elias Cornelius, in the service of this society, gathered the First Presbyterian church in New Orleans.

In regard to the forming of churches, the Narrative issued in 1829 says: "The attention of the missionaries, was, from the beginning, directed to the organization of churches, whenever circumstances appeared to render it proper. A small part of these have become extinct—some from the death of the original members, while few or no additions were made—others from dissensions, or emigration, or from change of sentiments; but the greater part remain to this day, a visible monument of the efforts of this society. The whole number of churches organized, it is not easy, or perhaps possible to ascertain, with perfect exactness. From a laborious examination of the journals, it is believed to be about four hundred. Not far from one hundred have been formed in the state of New York. The difficulties encountered, and the labor endured in gathering these churches from a sparse and heterogeneous population, it is not possible to conceive, even after reading over the daily journals of the missionaries for the thirty years."

In 1859, Rev. Horace Hooker, secretary, said: "The Missionary Society of Connecticut, has, it is reckoned, organized not far from 500 churches—some of them now among the most flourishing in the land."

If the society has not gathered many churches since 1859, it has nevertheless under the guidance of God, prosecuted its good work with fidelity and effect; and the Trustees at their final meeting, Sept. 20, 1880, appropriately adopted the following resolutions:

"Resolved, 1. That we are grateful to God for inspiring the hearts of the early ministers and churches of this state with the true spirit of Christ, which led them to seek the Christianization of the aborigines of the country, and the establishment of Christian institutions in the new settlements, and which led, for the more effectual prosecution of this work, to the organization of this society.

Resolved, 2. That we recognize the far-reaching beneficence of those who, by their contributions and bequests, furnished the means of carrying on the work of this society, and of those ministers and honored laymen who gave their time and earnest thought to the furtherance of this cause, and especially of those who engaged personally in the missionary work, laboring patiently often amid great hardships, for the purpose of saving souls, and making the people of this land a Christian people.

Resolved, 3. That we acknowledge, with gratitude, the influences of the Holy Spirit in the success which has attended the labors of our missionaries in the enlargement of their work, and in the inestimable Christian blessings they have aided to extend throughout our whole land; and we also recognize the happy influence on our own churches and Christian communities, in keeping their hearts warm with the love of Christ and the souls for which he died, and in giving them an increased desire to send the gospel to every creature.

Resolved, 4. That while, in the providence of God, circumstances at different times have called for changes in the methods of prosecuting the work of home missions, yet we regard it as one work, ever carried on in the same spirit, and for the same blessed purpose; and now that we surrender the trust we have held to other hands, we have confidence that it will be faithfully and wisely administered, and our prayers shall be offered for the ever increasing usefulness of the consolidated society."

II.—THE EVEREST FUND.

Solomon Everest, an eminent physician, and a deacon of the church in Canton under Rev. Jeremiah Hallock, acquired a considerable estate "by laborious industry, in connection with a steady maintenance of an exemplary Christian character," and died April 3, 1822, leaving, by will, one-half of his personal property as follows: One-half to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions; one-fourth to the Missionary Society of Connecticut; "and the other fourth part to be applied for the purchase of Bibles, religious tracts, &c., for distribution, for the support of the Domestic Mission in this state, or the education of indigent, pious youth for the gospel ministry; to any or all of the above purposes, as shall be thought most expedient by a committee, which the General Association of the state of Connecticut shall, from time to time, appoint for that purpose."

Benjamin Ely, of Simsbury, was executor, and was seven or eight years in settling the estate, that it might be done to the best advantage. The amount which he paid to the committee was $4,101.12.

Mrs. Amelia Everest, the widow, died Oct. 22, 1843, aged 86, leaving, by will, one-half of her personal estate to the same charities and in the same proportions as her husband, and thus $3,465.34 more was intrusted to the committee of the General Association—though some portion of what was received under her bequest was of doubtful value. The amount of the two bequests, as above reported, was $7,566.46. The committee were incorporated as "Trustees of the Everest Fund," in May, 1847. The committee varied from three to five—of whom one was treasurer.

III.—Memorial Hall Estate.

At the General Conference in Bridgeport, Nov. 12, 1874, the committee on home evangelization offered a resolution in favor of an office for the General Conference, which was referred to a committee, on whose recommendation a committee of one from each county, one-half laymen, was appointed to take action, in consultation with the registrar, to provide at their discretion, and devise means to meet the expenses of, a room or office, where the records and papers of the General Conference may be kept, and where the registrar, annalist, and other officers and committees of this body and its constituents may do their work and deposit all records and other valuable matter for safe keeping and use.

In 1875, this committee reported that they had found a suitable building in Hartford, of which they held the refusal, and urged that efforts be made to secure it. The General Conference declared that a building was demanded, and approved of what had been done; appointed Rev. Lavalette Perrin and John B. Eldredge a committee to raise money, at their discretion, to buy or rent said building, only they must not involve the General Conference in debt, and must act with the approval of the Directors of the Connecticut Home Missionary Society; ordered that, as soon as said building was ready, the statistical secretary make it the office for his work and for all the papers of the General Association and General Conference in his care, and that it be named Memorial Hall; and arranged that the churches and Sunday-schools be invited, in connection with the centennial observances on Sunday, July 9, 1876, to contribute for this object, and that Mr. Perrin, in his editorial connection with the Religious Herald, or any person designated by him, may, at the discretion of the General Conference, have an office in the Hall.

The statistical secretary began to occupy the Hall Dec. 14, 1875.

In 1876, the committee reported that they had leased the Hall for four years from April, 1877, and still held the refusal of it; that they had issued an appeal to the churches for $50,000 for this object, and had employed Rev. Joseph C. Bodwell as a soliciting agent; that they had made special efforts to obtain the historical discourses delivered July 9, 1876, and had secured them from seventy-five churches; that they had received thank offerings made on that day from one hundred and seven churches and three Sunday-schools, and had available means to pay the rent during the lease; that the expenses for the year, including furnishing the rooms, were $1,971.56, and that the cash receipts were—from churches, $2,321.38, and from individuals, $2,600.00, in all $4,921.38; and that they had cash at command $1,949.82, and subscriptions, $3,450.00.

The report was referred to a committee, on whose recommendation the General Conference approved of what had been done during the year, reaffirmed the importance of the object, and commended it to the liberality of individuals and churches.

In 1877, the committee reported that, on account of the hard times, they had made no effort to raise means to purchase the building. They set forth the value of the Hall as the store-house of records and historical matter, and as the headquarters of our denomination in this state, and named in detail the various committees and organizations that had used it during the year. The expenses for the year were $1,074.04, and the receipts $1,389.74. On hand, cash and claims, $4,478.81.

The report was approved, and the committee were referred to persons in the several constituent bodies of the General Conference for information and help.

In 1878, the committee reported that the financial depression so long continued had deterred them from the work of solicitation, but had also reduced the price of the building, so that the present was a favorable time to buy it. Expenses for the year, $1,136.59; receipts, including a legacy of $1,000 from Rev. Jonathan Brace, $1,926.36. On hand, cash and claims, $4,516.51.

The report was referred to a committee, who visited the Hall, and on whose recommendation the General Conference commended the enterprise for contributions and legacies.

In 1879, the committee reported that they had issued circulars largely during the year, but had employed no agent; that they had received $1,362.56 and expended $1,326.26, and had cash and claims on hand $3,547.92.

The report was referred to a committee, at whose motion the General Conference approved the doings of the year, and ordered that, if possible, the invested funds be not drawn upon for current expenses, and left the employing of an agent at the discretion of the committee.

In 1880, the committee reported that they had received $1,137.00 and expended $1,171.32; that they had cash in bank and stock at market value, $2,962.00, and pledges due Jan. 1, 1881, $27,185.00, total available Jan. 1, 1881, $30,147.00; and that the way was now clear for the purchase of the building,—in relation to which they submitted certain proposals.

The report was referred to a committee, on whose recommendation the following action was taken by the General Conference:

Resolved, 1. That we hereby tender our hearty thanks to those individuals who have so generously contributed toward the purchase of Memorial Hall, and do especially make grateful mention of Deacon John B. Eldredge of Hartford, who by his noble and munificent gift deserves to have his family name associated with the Hall as an affectionate memorial on his part of those sainted ones whose memories will thus continually be like fragrant ointment poured forth.

Resolved, 2. That we express our sense of great obligation to the committee who have had this matter in charge from the very beginning, and especially to the chairman, Rev. Lavalette Perrin, for his persistent and self sacrificing labors in its behalf.

Resolved, 3. That to carry out the suggestions of said committee, and to fulfill the stipulations and conditions proposed in their report, we earnestly recommend to the churches of the state, and especially to those which have not as yet contributed anything, that, as speedily as possible, they give something—if it be but one dollar—to this worthy object, that the work may be soon completed, and that all may have some share in its consummation.

Resolved, 4. That the report of the committee on Memorial Hall be approved and printed, and that the following portion of it be adopted, namely:

As we have a reasonable prospect of meeting every condition upon which the subscriptions are made, we advise that as soon as the circumstances of the case allow, Memorial Hall and the building which contains it be made the property of the churches, and be adapted to their use and benefit upon the following stipulations and conditions by this Conference:

I. The Hall shall be known as Eldredge Memorial Hall.

II. The building, including Eldredge Memorial Hall and its contents, and all money and offerings received for this enterprise, shall together be known as Memorial Hall estate.

III. The Conference hereby accepts this trust, and will cause it to be administered in accordance with the following conditions:

1. Memorial Hall estate shall be held by the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut in trust for the use and benefit of the General Conference of the Congregational Churches of Connecticut and the churches therein represented.

2. A sum of money not less in amount than five thousand dollars shall be raised, securely invested and kept at interest, under the name of the Memorial Hall Fund, which fund may be increased from time to time by bequests, or otherwise, the annual income of which, together with rents from parts of the building not used by the Conference, shall be devoted to the following objects:

(1) To care properly for the estate and furnish and improve the Hall, as the office, home, and registry of the Conference.

(2) To procure and arrange such books, pamphlets, records, papers, and pictures, as set forth the history and commemorate the worth of the Congregational churches of Connecticut, and their ministers and other members.

(3) To diffuse by public address and by print a knowledge of the history, polity, and Christian work of the Congregational churches of this state.

(4) To encourage struggling Congregational churches in this state, and to do special Christian work in its waste places, in such modes not otherwise provided as shall be approved by said Directors.

(5) To promote—by any surplus not needed for the aforesaid objects—the ordinary work for this state of the Missionary Society of Connecticut.

3. This estate shall be in the care and under the management of the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, who may appoint an agent to act in their name with the advice of the finance committee, and said agent shall receive a reasonable compensation for his services, and shall make annually to said Directors a full and particular report of his doings.

4. Eldredge Memorial Hall shall be open and free at all reasonable times to ministers and members of Congregational churches and such other persons as may desire to consult its records or use its facilities for collecting information, and may be used in such other ways as tend to promote the fellowship and efficiency of Christians and churches.

It was also voted, That whenever the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut shall appoint an agent, as contemplated by the action of this body respecting Eldredge Memorial Hall, the committee on Memorial Hall shall transfer their entire trust to said agent, and shall thereupon be discharged from further responsibility.

The Directors, Nov. 3, 1880, appointed Rev. Lavalette Perrin agent of Memorial Hall estate, whereupon the committee on Memorial Hall, Rev. Lavalette Perrin and John B. Eldredge, who had served from Nov. 10, 1875, passed over their trust to said agent; and he, as instructed by the Directors, delivered the money and securities received by him from said committee, to Ward W. Jacobs, treasurer of the Missionary Society of Connecticut.

IV.—STATE WORK.

The General Court of Connecticut, January 14, 1639, adopted a constitution in order, among other things, "to maintain and preserve the liberty and purity of the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, which we now profess, as also the discipline of the churches, which according to the truth of the said gospel is now practiced amongst us." In carrying out these aims, aid was given for from one to twenty years to a large part of the Congregational parishes of Connecticut,—in various ways, as by grants of money, by applying the colony tax due from the parish, by exempting from said tax, by a land tax, by gifts of land, and by allowing lotteries,—to enable them to build meeting-houses and parsonages, to provide a settlement and support for their ministers and to meet emergencies in their history. This plan of aid was continued until every original town in Connecticut had a Congregational church, and until the adoption of our present constitution in 1818; and thus the legislature was our first home missionary society, and rendered very important service in the planting and nurture of the Congregational churches of this commonwealth.

Notwithstanding this assistance, some churches became enfeebled by contention, by the defection of their pastors, and especially by the mistakes and disorders connected with and following the great awakening of 1740. In 1783, the Eastern Association of New London county called the attention of the General Association to the condition of these weak churches by the following question: "What shall be done respecting our destitute churches and congregations whose re-settlement in the enjoyment of gospel ordinances is improbable?" The question was referred to a large and able committee who presented the next year an elaborate report, which was adopted by the General Association, and was to this effect, namely: That when a destitute church fails to make proper efforts to secure a minister, it should be dealt with by the neighboring churches; and, if not brought to duty, should be no longer recognized as a Christian church, and that provision should be made by which any well-disposed members of said church might be received by the neighboring churches.

Twenty years later, in 1803, the subject again came before the General Association in a proposal to change the constitution of the Missionary Society of Connecticut so as to allow sending missionaries into vacant parishes in this and other New England states.

This proposal, laid over to the next year, was taken up in 1804, and after free discussion was unanimously disapproved.

In 1814, Rev. Lyman Beecher preached his famous sermon on "the waste places of Connecticut," and about the same time some of the feeble churches in the eastern part of the state applied to the New London Association for advice. That association in 1815, asked the General Association to form a society for the supply of these destitutions; and accordingly a committee, of which Rev. Abel McEwen was chairman, was appointed to secure, by gratuities, preaching during the year for these waste places, and to report the next year a constitution for a society. This committee neither asked nor received any public contributions. They took what was offered them by "individuals and associations of people"; and the amount they received in the course of the year was $132.49. They employed two licentiates at East Lyme, which had been vacant since 1761, namely, David A. Sherman two Sabbaths in September, 1815, and Hervey Talcott from Jan. 1, 1816, till the meeting of the General Association in June, with the exception of two Sabbaths. Mr. Talcott's labors were blessed with a revival of religion. The committee reported a constitution which was adopted by the General Association at New Haven, and thus "The Domestic Missionary Society for Connecticut and its Vicinity," was formed Wednesday, June 19, 1816,—the General Association being the society,—its object "to build up the waste places of Connecticut and its vicinity by furnishing the destitute with religious instruction," and its affairs to be managed by a board of directors.

In 1830, the directors were instructed to co-operate during the year with the American Home Missionary Society as preparatory to a regular auxiliary connection. This connection was effected by vote of the General Association at Saybrook, now Old Saybrook, June 23, 1831, when the name of the society was made to be "The Missionary Society of Connecticut, Auxiliary to the American Home Missionary Society." The work of home evangelization was committed to the directors at Norwalk, June 19, 1862, "to be carried on by them at their discretion." The constitution was amended at Hartford June 16, 1863, and the name of the society made to be "The Connecticut Home Missionary Society." The directors were incorporated June 18, 1875, and the society became incorporated Nov. 10, 1875, to hold the Root Fund.

The amount received by this society in legacies was $97.90 less than in 1879; the amount in contributions was $115.77 more than in 1879; and the total of legacies and contributions was $17.87 more than in 1879. The amount spent in Connecticut was $11,553.34, or $595.95 less than in 1879, and was an average of 21 cents for each church member.

The American Home Missionary Society received directly from Connecticut in 1880, boxes at a valuation of $14,927.41; contributions, including $582.99 for Sunday-school work, $17,448.17; legacies, $20,655.44—$53,031.02. The amount in boxes was $1,490.93 more than in 1879; the amount in contributions was $2,430.92 less than in 1879; and the amount in legacies was $7,778.94 less than in 1879; and the whole was $8,728.93 less than in 1879.

Both societies received from Connecticut in 1880, interest, $60.00; boxes, $14,927.41; legacies, $20,747.93; contributions, $30,382.81—$66,118.15, or less than in any year since 1872, and $8,711.06 less than in 1879. The decline was, however, principally in legacies.

In 1880, of our 297 churches, 180 gave to this society, 170 gave to the American Home Missionary Society; 88 gave to both, and 36 to neither. Offerings for the Sunday-school work came from 24 churches, legacies from 27 churches, and boxes from 74 churches.

The entire amount received by both societies from Connecticut makes an average of $1.20 for each church member. But this amount includes boxes, which pay none of the expenses of either society, and also legacies. The contributions of the living in money to carry on the regular operations of the two societies were $30,382 81, or an average of 57 cents for each church member; and of this sum 42 per cent. was paid to this society, and 58 per cent. to the American Home Missionary Society.

churches from which offerings, contributions, or legacies were received by the state society, the amount so received, the whole number of churches giving to either society, and the whole amount received by both societies.

It will be noticed that the state society disbursed more in Fairfield, New London, Tolland, and Windham counties, than it received from those counties, and more in Windham county than that county gave for home missions.

The aided churches.

Of these thirty-nine churches, twenty-eight had funds to an aggregate of $54,742; eleven had pastors; twenty-six had acting pastors, and two had licentiates. The average salary proposed to be paid, with the aid asked of us, was $712.00. Thirty-two churches reported the salary paid promptly. Ten churches reported debts to an aggregate of $5,652. The average amount of taxable property of these churches, counting only that of their resident members, was $21,612; and the average percentage paid by the churches on said property, was .01162. All but five complied with the one per cent. rule, and they were made exceptions for "cause shown."

These churches had, January 1, 1881, a membership of 954 males and 1,796 females, in all, 2,750, including 489 absentees, or an average of 71 members for each church. In 1880, the additions were 56 by profession, and 54 by letter, in all, 110; and the removals were 39 by death, 48 by letter, and 7 by discipline, in all, 94. The additions exceeded the removals by 16, and the professions exceeded the deaths by 17. Thirty-four adults were baptized and thirty-one children. Twenty-seven churches with 1,717 members baptized no child. Nineteen churches with 1,424 members added none by profession, and lost 21 by death. The Sunday-schools enrolled 3,091, and the congregations embraced 1,875 families.

Every church had a weekly prayer meeting, with interruptions in some cases. Twenty-eight churches had a monthly concert for a part or the whole of the year, and eleven had none. The charities were $2,324.27, or 85 cents for each church member, and twenty-seven per cent. of the amount disbursed to these churches in 1880.

The secretary and state missionary.

In 1880, Mr. Moore visited and addressed thirty-six churches and three Sunday-schools, and in this service made eighty-one addresses.

Augustus Pomeroy and Rev. George J. Tillotson; in 1842, Rev.ª Fosdick Harrison; in 1849, 1850, Rev. Allen Clark; and in 1876, Rev. Hiram N. Gates and Rev. Leroy Warren, home missionary superintendents; and the labors of the state missionaries Rev. Messrs. Leonard W. Bacon, 1861, Charles H. Bullard, March 25, 1868–March 31, 1872; William H. The total receipts include not only "contributions" and "legacies," but also various miscellaneous items, as for instance a remainder of $32.15 from the committee of missions of the General Association of 1815; $625.32 from the Trustees of the Copyright of Psalms and Hymns; and interest on loans and deposits and on the permanent fund.

As to disbursements, the reports for 1865–1880 give a clear analysis, but the reports for 1816–1864 do not, and hence it is impossible to state exactly the aggregate amount paid for some of the items.

Summary.

The following table shows for each county the number of Congregational churches aided, the amount of aid, and the offerings of the aided churches for home missions:

Fairfield,	14	$34,257.65	$18,980.65
Hartford,	18	48,281.07	25,749.85
Litchfield,	11	29,140.94	8,780.08
Middlesex,	13	14,864.42	20,041.95
New Haven,	16	47,817.49	20,369.66
New London,	18	40,671.83	23,359.14
Tolland,	10	35,702.49	20,884.48
Windham,	13	34,000.47	11,128.76

We have aided eight congregations including six of Germans, and one hundred and thirteen Congregational churches in all, one-hundred and twenty-one fields. Five of these churches have become extinct; Chesterfield, North Goshen, Stafford, First, Tariffville, and Versailles, and one-hundred and eight remain. The offerings of the aided churches for home missions, as above reported, amount to $144,294.57, or more than half of all the aid given to these churches and congregations.

THE WISDOM OF AIDING THESE CHURCHES.

To illustrate the wisdom of aiding these churches, we give in respect to each of them, the year of organization, the membership January 1, 1881, the charitable contributions for 1859–1880, and the charitable legacies paid in 1872–1880, as reported in the annual statistics of our churches, and also the names of the ministers raised up in the parish, counting such as were born in it, or spent the whole or a considerable part of early life in it, or joined the church by profession, or were members of the church at the time of ordination. It will be seen that in some cases the same minister is properly credited to more than one church.

These churches had, January 1, 1881, 12,339 members, or more Congregational church members than California, Missouri, and Nebraska. They have raised up 432 ministers, including 40 doctors of divinity, and also missionaries, home and foreign, and professors and presidents of colleges. The charitable legacies paid by them in 1872–1880, were $61,909.41, and their contributions for 1859–1880, were $445,499.10, or $96,088.07 more than the entire outlay of the society for Connecticut in 1816–1880. The total of contributions and legacies was $507,408.51, or $157,997.21 more than said entire outlay.

But these churches may be divided into two classes, the old churches organized before the society was formed in 1816, and the new churches organized since 1816.

We have aided sixty-four of these old churches to the amount of $186,675.36. Only one of them has become extinct; and that, beside paying back in legacies to home missions more than four times what we spent on it, raised up fifteen ministers, one of whom was recently a home missionary superintendent. These old churches have 6,413 members, or more than all the Congregational church members on the Pacific slope. They have raised up 401 ministers, and their contributions and legacies, as above reported, are $282,130.02, or nearly as much as we have spent on all the aided churches in Connecticut, and $95,454.66 more than these old churches have received from our society.

We have aided forty-nine new churches to the amount of $97,595.10. Of these four have become extinct; two of them by the reverses of manufacturing villages, and the others, rural churches, from other causes. The whole amount spent on the four was $3,784.33. One of them raised up Theron Baldwin, the father of the Society for the Promotion of Collegiate and Theological education at the West, now embraced in the American College and Education Society. The forty-five new churches that remain have 5,926 members, or only 75 less than all the Congregational church members on the Pacific slope, and more than all of such members in the following ten great states and territories between the Mississippi river and the Pacific slope, namely: Arizona, Colorado, Dakota, Indian Territory, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, Texas, Utah, and Wyoming. These new churches have raised up thirty-one ministers, and their charitable offerings, as above reported, are $222,046.49, or more than twice what we have spent on all the new churches. Indeed, the contributions and legacies of five of these churches exceed all we have spent on the whole forty-nine.

These facts show that it pays to nourish the old churches, and to plant new ones, in Connecticut.

WHAT CONNECTICUT HAS DONE DIRECTLY FOR THE AMERICAN HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

But while this society has been taking care of Connecticut and distributing help outside, what has Connecticut done directly for the American Home Missionary Society in offerings which have not passed through the treasury of the Connecticut Home Missionary Society? The answer to this question may be found in the following table, which shows yearly for 1826–1880, the number of churches making offerings, and the amount of said offerings in contributions, boxes, and legacies, with the understanding that for some years between 1830 and 1840, some churches in New Haven East Consociation gave whose names are not in the record, the local treasurer sending the money without details, or with only partial details; and with the further understanding that boxes reported but not valued are here included at an average of fifty dollars each:

WHAT CONNECTICUT HAS RAISED FOR HOME MISSIONS IN 1793–1880.

The following summary shows what Connecticut has raised for home missions in 1793–1880:

Committee of Missions of General Association, 1793–1795,	$3,750.63
Missionary Society of Connecticut, 1799—Dec. 31, 1880,	326,385.51
Committee of Missions of General Association, 1815,	132.49
Connecticut Home Missionary Society, 1816–1880,	489,810.22
American Home Missionary Society, 1826–1880,	1,368,811.25
	$2,188,890.10

RATE OF INCREASE IN OFFERINGS.

As the Missionary Society of Connecticut asked no contributions after 1829, we shall see the rate of the increase of offerings for this cause, if we group what Connecticut has done for the Connecticut Home Missionary Society and the American Home Missionary Society in the last 51 years, 1830–1880, in three equal periods of 17 years. The result is as follows:

	Contributions.	Boxes.	Legacies.	Total.
In 17 years, 1830–1846:
C. H. M. S.,	$79,128.60		$7,781.71	$86,910.31
A. H. M. S.,	78,440.50	9,554.60	22,281.68	110,276.78
	$157,569.10	$9,554.60	$30,063.39	$197,187.09
In 17 years, 1847–1863:
C. H. M. S.,	$106,896.33		$14,184.38	$121,080.71
A. H. M. S.,	219,120.41	44,183.31	107,729.51	371,033.23
C. H. M. S.,	$326,016.74	$44,183.31	$121,913.89	$492,113.94
In 17 years, 1864–1880:
C. H. M. S.,	$242,270.00		$15,955.41	$258,225.41
A. H. M. S.,	268,009.00	198,906.91	417,971.44	884,887.35
	$510,279.00	$198,906.91	$433,926.85	$1,143,112.76

It will be seen that in the last seventeen years, Connecticut has given these two societies more than double what was given in the next preceding seventeen years, sixty-five per cent. more than in the preceding thirty-four years, and considerably more than half of all that was raised in 1793–1880; that both societies shared in this increase, and that it affected the contributions, the boxes, and the legacies.

Conclusion.

These facts show that our people love this enterprise, and have some suitable appreciation of its importance; that the churches will make their yearly donations; that the good women, who have already given more than a quarter of a million in boxes, will not forget the hardships of the missionaries on the frontier; that persons of means will render aid of their abundance; that the dying will take care that the work shall be promoted by their bequests; and that these benefactions of the living and the glorified will gladden the waste places of Connecticut, and plant the institutions of the gospel in the growing empires of the west.

We bless God for this liberality, for its steadily increasing volume, and for what it promises of larger resources for home missions in the years to come.

VI.—REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FELLOWSHIP AND WORK.

At this season of the ripened leaf and the garnered grain, we inquire for the results of our labor in the realm of religious activity. What cherished hopes have blossomed? What purposes and endeavors have borne fruit? How rich are we as churches in the golden sheaves of spiritual accomplishment? What call for gratitude comes to us from the past months? What suggestions have they for the future? Every year affords a new revelation of God and of ourselves. Blessed are they to whom the unfolding seasons bring an ever clearer insight into duty and an ever deepening sense of responsibility.

If there is anything extraordinary in the history of our churches for the year now closing, it is the attention paid to their temporal interests. It has been a year of debt-paying, and of the improvement of church property. The First church, New Britain, has paid a debt of $10,000, and enlarged and improved its chapel at a cost of $5,000, for which the money has been raised. The South church, New Britain, has paid a debt of $15,000, and secured in addition a fund of $5,000 to be held in reserve for repairs. Berlin, Second, has paid a debt of $4,000; Danbury, First, "an ancient debt" of $5,000, and has thoroughly repaired its parsonage; Sherman has spent $700 upon its house of worship; Milton a similar amount in a similar way; Wilton has taken measures to pay its debt of $1,100; Waterbury, Second, has repaired its parsonage at an expense of $2,500; seven of the churches of Tolland Conference report improvements in their meeting-houses; Bethel has bought a $3,000 organ; Brookfield has also added an organ and made repairs; New London, First, has built a $15,000 chapel; Norwich, First, has improved its chapel at a cost of $1,000; Lisbon has improved its sanctuary; West Hartford is erecting a stone church at a cost of $25,000, which is to be finished without debt; Norwich, Second, has received a legacy that has enabled it to pay its debt, and has given it a fund of $34,000, the income of which is to be used for the benefit of the poor; Norfolk has remodeled its church edifice at a cost of $9,000. One conference reports that in most cases the necessary expenses are promptly met, and that it is comparatively easy to devise ways and means to secure needed repairs and improvements. And thus the story runs. From every quarter of the state comes intelligence of the same general character. And these items are suggestive. They prove the existence among our churches of converted pocketbooks. They show that the institutions of religion hold a secure place in the hearts of the people. It is reverence, and faith, and devotion that are thus lifting the burdens that have oppressed, and establishing in beauty and fitness the house of the Lord. The facts reported are stimulating, too, to the churches that groan beneath the incubus of debt, showing them what resolution and self-sacrifice can accomplish, urging them to be content no longer with a sacrifice that costs them nothing, boast themselves as they will in the possession of a free salvation.

Nor is all the consecrated property of the churches devoted to home uses. In a broad, full stream it is flowing forth to bless the land and the world. The envelope, that is, the systematic method of giving, is growing in favor with the churches, and is yielding excellent results. Several of the conferences report that the charities of their constituents have increased in some instances largely. One church, never lacking in benevolence, is said this year to have secured for charitable purposes three times the ordinary amount. A deepening interest in the work of the Women's Board of Missions is manifest throughout the state. The fact that so many are dedicating their substance and their effort to the work of the Lord is a most hopeful indication.

From all quarters come reports of good attendance upon Sunday services. Congregations were never larger nor more attentive.

Increased interest is manifest in the Sunday-school. Apparently the best thought and the warmest enthusiasm of our churches are given to this department of Christian effort. The International Series of Lessons is enlisting an unprecedented attention, and securing to the word of God a thoroughness of study that never in the history of our churches has been so general. It would seem that in many a church the Sunday-school is the one bright spot amid much that is gloomy—the center of activity and of spiritual life. Nothing could furnish a better foundation for hope than this attention to the generation upon which are soon to fall the responsibilities that we bear to-day. It is the careful planting of germs whose development will enrich and gladden the years to come. In a few of our churches the Sunday-school session takes the place of the second service, affording to a larger number an opportunity for the social study of the Bible. Whether or not this opportunity is so generally embraced, and the results are such as to commend the plan to the adoption of the churches, does not clearly appear. Apparently the idea gains ground very slowly, if at all. The number of adult classes in our Sunday-schools increases, however, year by year.

The committee feel that our Bible-schools are worthy of all the attention they are receiving, and of more. While skepticism is in the atmosphere, and Satan and the world are battling persistently for dominion over the human soul, the truth revealed from heaven may here be brought into closest contact with mind and heart, broadening the thought, enlightening the conscience, preparing the way for His coming who regenerates and saves. Here Christian love and zeal can exert all their energies for the accomplishment of the very highest ends, securing to themselves an influence that shall linger as a benediction on the earth and make glad the city of our God. Every church may well consider carefully and prayerfully how it can increase the interest and the efficient working of its Sunday-school.

Something has been accomplished in the temperance cause, noticeably in Middlesex, New London, and New Haven East conferences. Certain other districts report great discouragements to temperance workers.

The grace of brotherly love still prompts many of our churches to a desire for fellowship with other churches. Only seven of the conferences report the holding of fellowship meetings during the past year. In Middlesex conference they have been held with all the churches, and are said to have "aroused the faith, encouraged the hearts, strengthened the hands, and stimulated the activities of those who have attended them. In many instances they have left behind them a rich spiritual blessing." Litchfield South, on the other hand, declares that while fellowship meetings have been held, "the interest in them seems to flag, and the profit is very doubtful." A difference of opinion apparently exists as to the further benefit that may be reaped from these gatherings. The language of one conference is "May we not get more good from them? May they not be made promotive of the revival which we all feel that our churches need and which some of us hope that God is about to give us?"

Another conference "strongly recommends fellowship meetings. They stir up individual Christians and churches and form a bond of union among the members of Christ's church." Still another believes that the wave of interest in them has already passed over and that some new method of developing and expressing the fellowship of the churches must be adopted. Yet another writes, "We are emphatic in the conviction that a more visible fellowship among our churches would conduce to our spiritual profit; that no effort to secure it should be relaxed, and that new methods should be employed for its attainment." It is evident that the spirit of fraternal sympathy and affection never pervaded our churches more thoroughly than it does to-day. They are essentially one in doctrine, in aims, in methods of work. In all the ordinary modes they are swift to express their mutual regard. Suggestions as to better ways of securing the ends they seek are freely given and as gratefully received. The most of the churches would no doubt eagerly avail themselves of new opportunities to manifest the feeling of unity that they mutually cherish. They await the suggestion that shall have in it as much of blessing and be as evidently of divine origin as was that of the fellowship meeting. Who shall be inspired to utter it? The committee, fully appreciating the comparative indifference that now exists in some quarters toward the group meeting, would venture the inquiry if it might not be employed with special profit in the present condition of our churches. Two or three years have passed since our congregations were generally associated in services of this nature, and something of novelty would now characterize them. Let the topic of sermon and discussion be the revival of the Lord's work, while united prayer ascends for the manifestation of converting and sanctifying grace. Thus let all the churches seek divine guidance and spiritual quickening and we cannot believe that another year of comparative barrenness will ensue. For whatever the growth of Christian character among us may have been, the complaint of the churches is bitter and almost universal, "No souls born into the kingdom." Says one report, "Christianity is a manifest power as its good fruits testify; but the means invested, the forces employed, the fields tilled, are out of all proportion to the harvest of souls gathered. The one grand end," it continues, "of churches and of Christian means, viz.: the salvation of souls, is gained only to a very limited extent. One, or two, or three conversions by a well equipped church in a year; fifty or a hundred sermons, fifty or a hundred prayer seasons, and one or two conversions! It is an encouragement that there is so much stability and so much well-doing in the churches, for the maintenance of religion at home and for propagating it abroad, but why not a pentecost?" Many of the reports in their allusions to this matter, read like so many chapters from Lamentations. Says one, "In spiritual condition and achievement, the churches of this conference make a poor showing. In no churches has there been any special ingathering of souls. In several there has been no addition by confession of faith." Says another report, "As respects spiritual progress there is not much ground for encouragement. Worldliness among the professed people of God seems to be the great obstacle in the way of Christian edification, and the great hindrance to the conversion of souls." Says one brother, "I hardly feel competent to report on the state of religion in my church. I presume there is such a thing here under cover, but the little that crops out is not of a very vigorous type." Reports from the churches abound in expressions like these; "No general interest is noticeable." "The special energies of the Holy Spirit, arousing the church to activity, have been sorely needed." "The religious life of the church is at a low ebb." Not that there are no indications of vitality. Here and there a bit of verdure lifts itself amid the extended barrenness, and doubtless there are cases of this sort that have not been reported. Ten churches in Tolland conference mention the addition of eighteen by profession. Park St., Bridgeport, and Danbury, Second, have received over twenty each; New Britain, South, over forty. Two or three conferences speak of increased interest in young people's prayer meetings. A few churches mention a special visitation of divine grace. The churches of Guilford have been largely quickened and blessed. Salem has added ten on profession; Danielsonville, sixteen; Simsbury rejoices in a renewed religious interest. But, on the whole, the report is a sad one, well fitted to lead us to humility.

Now for the third year the ingatherings into our churches have been small. In 1880, the total additions to our churches exceeded the total removals by only five. The record for 1881 will scarcely be an improvement upon that of the year preceding. The reason generally given for the meager results of the past year is itself a discouragement and a sin, viz., a common sense of coldness shared by pastor and people. This matter is one that deserves the most serious attention of the General Conference. No question will come before it equal in importance to this, what is the cause and what shall be the cure of the spiritual apathy so largely prevalent in the churches of this commonwealth? Whatever may be the cause, we are convinced that divine efficiency can alone work the needed cure. Our machinery may be complete and admirable, but unless the power of God be brought to bear upon it, it will accomplish nothing. The cannon we aim at Satan's bulwarks may be brilliantly polished, amply loaded and well-directed, but unless some spark of heaven's fire be applied, they are ineffectual. Perhaps we have made too much of means and methods and too little of the might of that Spirit, who out of the formless void of sin, can bring forth order and beauty over which the sons of God shall shout for joy. "Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts." "I will be inquired of by the house of Israel to do it for them." With confidence in the unfailing fullness of divine grace, and in the promise to those who seek it in believing prayer, we suggest in addition to the other means of grace, a series of group meetings such as shall cover the state, and blend in humble petition for the reviving influences of the Spirit, the faith and aspiration of all our churches. Let the priests, the ministers of the Lord, weep between the porch and the altar, and let them say, "Spare Thy people, O Lord, and give not Thy heritage to reproach. Then will the Lord be jealous for His land and pity His people." "And ye shall know that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I am the Lord your God and none else, and My people shall never be ashamed."

Two events of the past year will doubtless affect favorably the religious interests of our commonwealth. One is the publication of the revised New Testament, leading, as it has done, to a new diligence in the study of the inspired word, and to a clearer understanding of its truths. The other is the sickness and death of President Garfield with its attendant appeal for divine help. Christendom was on its knees during all those cruel weeks. The heavens were filled with importunate prayer. And although the specific request of the nation was not granted, such an approach to God cannot be for nought. May we not believe that a purer life, that abundant spiritual peace and prosperity will result therefrom to the people whom Unerring Wisdom chose to bereave? However much there may be to discourage us in the present condition of our churches, we see far more to encourage us as we look to the hills whence cometh our help. However gloomy the earthward view, the heavens are all aglow with mercy and with love. Shall we not lift our faces and our hearts to catch the down-flowing radiance? We are confident that thus doing, our churches will find in the present a revived faith and devotion, and in the future, success and rejoicing such as the past year has not afforded us. What we do must be done quickly. We miss from our gathering to-day not a few who have met with us in the past. Their work finished, they have entered into rest. Every church mourns those whom the hastening months have borne from its fellowship into the company of the redeemed. Eleven of our ministers have been called to serve, we trust, at heavenly altars. As we read their names, and their faces and their work come into remembrance, let us resolve to follow their faith that we may at length share their eternal joy.

STATISTICS.

EXPLANATIONS.

In the tables of the Associations, ministerial ages are reckoned to January 1, 1882. Post-offices are not given in these tables, but with the alphabetical list of ministers.

In the tables of the constituent bodies of the General Conference, some non-consociated churches are, for convenience of representation, counted with consociations to which they do not belong.

In the tables of the churches, the towns are given in alphabetical order, and the churches in the towns in the order of age. The tables present the statistics of the churches for 1881, and their condition as to membership, Sunday-schools, and families, on the morning of January 1, 1882. The first column gives towns, names, and the initials of counties; the second gives the dates of organization, so far as known; the third gives, according to latest information, the names of ministers, with year of ordination. The next three columns show whether the ministers are pastors, acting pastors, or stated preachers; whether the pastors were settled by ordination or installation; when the relationship began; and how many years, reckoning to January 1, 1882, it has continued.

"In designating in our Minutes the relations of non-installed ministers to the churches, which for a length of time they are engaged to serve, those shall be recognized as acting pastors (a. p.), who perform the work of a pastor; and those who simply serve the churches on the Sabbath, and on other special occasions, and who do not reside within nor near the parishes in which those churches are located, shall be recognized as stated preachers (s. p.)." A star prefixed to a minister's name shows that January 1, 1882, he was not a member of any district association in this state. The abbreviations, Bap., Meth., Presb., after the names of ministers, show to what denomination they belong. The word "none," in the column of ministers, does not mean, in every case, that the church is without preaching, but only that it has no pastor, acting pastor, nor stated preacher, nor a licentiate hired for any considerable time; it may have different preachers irregularly, or from Sabbath to Sabbath.

The column of excommunicated includes, also, those from whom watch and care have been withdrawn, as for long absence, or other reasons. The column of Sabbath-schools gives the whole number in Sabbath-schools, home and mission, January 1, 1882, including officers and teachers. The column of families states the whole number of families in the flock, but does not include those reached by missionary efforts.

In the tables of charities, the first column after the names of the churches shows how much was given for the Fund for Ministers. The next seven columns show how much was given for each of the national Congregational charitable societies, and objects connected with them. The next column shows how much was given for all other charities. The next column gives the total charities, so far as ascertained. The last column shows the amount of charitable legacies paid. The charities and legacies paid are for the year 1881. A blank shows that the question is not answered.

REMARKS.

THE ASSOCIATIONS.—January 1, 1882, the fifteen district associations reported 395 members, of whom 66 were residing out of the state. The average ministerial age was 23 years; in Naugatuck Valley it was 13, and in Fairfield West and New Haven West, it was 28 years. The list consisted of 1 assistant secretary of the Connecticut Board of Education, 1 city missionary, 1 editor, 3 chaplains, 4 missionaries of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, 6 stated preachers, 9 officers and agents of charitable institutions and societies, 10 teachers, 14 officers in colleges and theological seminaries, 105 having no charge; 110 acting pastors, and 131 pastors.

The large number having no charge included some in secular pursuits, candidates for ministerial work, and aged persons, and the average ministerial age of the whole was 32 years.

In 1881, 33 were licensed; 64 licentiates were responsible to the district associations, January 1, 1882.

THE CONFERENCES AND CONSOCIATIONS.—There are 12 conferences and 4 consociations which send delegates to the General Conference; and through these 16 bodies all the churches in the state are represented in the General Conference, except Pawcatuck, in Stonington, which belongs to Rhode Island Conference, and is called Westerly in their roll.

THE CHURCHES.—The annual statistics report contributions, legacies, baptisms, and changes in membership in 1881, and families and membership in churches and Sunday-schools, January 1, 1882. The number of churches, January 1, 1882, was 297. The statistics of all are given.

MINISTERS.—January 1, 1882, 43 churches had no minister, in the sense of having neither pastor, acting pastor, nor stated preacher, though all these churches but one were served regularly, or for part of the year, by ministers or licentiates, employed from Sabbath to Sabbath, or for a longer period; 9 had stated preachers; 113 had acting pastors; 132 had pastors, including one with a pastor emeritus, which also had a pastor. In three cases, two churches united in employing one minister. The average term of stated preachers was 2 years; of acting pastors, 4 years; of pastors, 8 years.

Of the pastors, 7 were not members of any district association in this state; and among the acting pastors and stated preachers, were one Baptist, two Presbyterians, and three Methodists.

In 1881, ten candidates, members of these churches, or who had recently been members, were ordained,—three as pastors, namely, a member of Birmingham; two of Hartford, First; one of Northfield; one of Mansfield, Centre; one of New Haven, First; one of New Haven, North; one of the church in Yale College; one of the Church of the Redeemer, and one of Waterbury, Second.

The number pursuing theological studies in the two seminaries in the year beginning in 1881, was—in Hartford, 29; in New Haven, 97; in both, 126.

In 1881, twelve licentiates were ordained—six without charge, and six as pastors. Thirteen ministers were installed as pastors; thirteen pastors were dismissed, and ten ministers, including one pastor and one acting pastor, died, whose average age was sixty-six years.

Members.—The churches reported, January 1, 1882, 18,775 males and 36,053 females, in all, 54,828, including 6,565 absentees. In 1881, the additions were—1,111 by profession, and 1,047 by letter, in all, 2,158; the removals—1,010 by death, 1,148 by letter, 118 by discipline, in all, 2,276. The additions by profession exceeded the removals by death by 101. The total removals exceeded the total additions by 118. This would make the total membership, on the basis of January 1, 1881, 55,084, but, instead of this, it is, as reported, 54,828; and thus there is a difference of 256 members, not accounted for in the statistical tables, to be charged to the revision of rolls and other causes.

The rate of mortality was 18 for a thousand members. One hundred and fourteen churches, with 12,933 members, added none by profession, and lost 241 by death. Thirty-two churches received additions by profession in numbers ranging from 10 to 43, as follows:

MINISTERS AND THEIR POST-OFFICES.

The first column of figures refers to pages showing associational connections, and the second to pages showing fields of labor. Stars are prefixed to the names of those who are not reported as members of any district association in this state. Names without pages, and names starred in the tables of churches and not starred here, are of such as have joined associations since January 1, 1882, or since the church tables were printed. The names of ministers of other denominations are enclosed in brackets. The post-offices are as given at latest dates in 1882.

ART. II. The General Conference shall consist of delegates annually elected by its constituent bodies, in the ratio of one delegate for three hundred church members, a fraction of more than one-half being also represented by a delegate.

ART. III. The constituent bodies shall be the several district ecclesiastical organizations by which the several churches may choose to be represented; provided that no two constituent bodies shall represent the same churches.

ART. IV. At each annual Conference a standing committee of five shall be elected, who shall make all the arrangements for the next annual meeting. The registrar and statistical secretary shall belong to this committee.

ART. V. Each annual Conference shall elect a moderator and other officers necessary for the transaction of its business. There shall also be a registrar, a statistical secretary, a treasurer, and an auditor, elected by ballot for a term of three years.

ART. VII. The Conference shall meet in October or November, unless otherwise ordered by the standing committee; and forty members shall constitute a quorum.

"Article 2. The General Conference shall be constituted on the basis of representation from the several Congregational churches of Connecticut."

"Article 3. The committee beg leave to offer the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas the constitutional changes suggested in the report of the committee on membership require a more thorough consideration than can be given them at this time; and whereas it seems wise that due precaution should be taken to discover what legal obstacles, if any, may be hidden in the way of such changes, and to remove the same, therefore,

Resolved, That the aforementioned report be and hereby is recommitted, and that the committee are requested to use such means as they may deem most wise and efficient to secure the ends indicated in the preamble to this resolution, and to present a new report to the General Conference at its next annual meeting.

Resolved, That this Conference commends to the careful consideration of its constituent bodies and of the ministers and churches within its bounds, the important constitutional changes embodied in the aforementioned report;—and that it is hereby ordered that the aforesaid report, together with the action of this Conference thereupon, be printed for distribution among the ministers, churches, and constituent bodies of the General Conference.

III.—REPORT OF THE ANNALIST.

The one hundred and fiftieth annual meeting of the General Association of Connecticut awakened a special interest in the history of the Congregational churches of the state. It was held in Norwich, June 21–3, 1859, and the matter there gathered in the form of records, papers, and addresses, together with matter afterward secured by an efficient committee, was put in order and published in 1861 by Mr. William L. Kingsley. under the title, "Contributions to the Ecclesiastical History of Connecticut."

The effect of this was to create a demand for a more full and attractive history of these churches. What had been done in this line seemed to indicate that a more careful search would bring to light a large amount of historical matter, which would be lost to the world if not soon gathered into some proper depository. At the annual meeting in 1864, therefore, the Association passed the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That Rev. Leonard Bacon, D. D., be requested to prepare for publication a history of the churches of Connecticut. or if he prefer it, a history of the churches of New England.

"Whereas the historical collections recently made and published under the sanction of the General Association are deemed of great value; and whereas it is desirable that said collections should be continued, enlarged, and perfected, with a view to republication at some future day, therefore,

Resolved, That Rev. Robert C. Learned be authorized and requested to institute such measures of inquiry and research in regard to the history of the Congregational churches of Connecticut as may seem to him fitting and proper; and that he report to the Association annually the progress he has made and the expense he has incurred in the work."

Mr. Learned was designated as "committee on the history of the churches." In 1867, Dr. Bacon was appointed to this service, and designated the "historiographer of the churches." In 1869, Rev. W. H. Moore was appointed to the same service, and called the "annalist of the churches." Thus the term annalist was given as the designation of the person required to gather facts, records, and other valuable matter pertaining to the ministers and churches represented in this body.

But, until a place was provided for the safe-keeping of such materials when collected, there was little use in efforts to gather them. Now that Memorial Hall has been secured as the property of the churches represented in this Conference, the fruits of this kind of labor can be preserved.

As the agent of the Memorial Hall estate is required by its constitution to report his doings to the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, covering in part the same ground as the report of the annalist; and as the work of the statistical secretary, and also the work of the committee on fellowship and work require a report of a like nature, it seems desirable that the annalist should know a little more definitely what the Conference desires him to include in his report to this body from year to year. I would suggest, therefore, the appointment of a committee to report at this meeting an answer to the question.

I also submit the following in print for the use of this body as directed by the vote of last year:

The duties of this office have never been clearly defined. The name implies a service which has not been hitherto required. A foundation is now laid for such service in the Memorial Hall estate, and materials are being gathered which will greatly aid in its performance. A part of the income from that estate is by its constitution devoted to the prosecution of this work. If the churches complete the fund which the Conference virtually pledged for them when it accepted this estate, there will be means in hand whenever needed, for the gathering, preserving, and making available to all for consultation, the annals now so widely scattered.

All gifts of books, pamphlets, pictures, records, and other matter bearing upon the history of churches, associations, or other ecclesiastical bodies; also biographies and notices of individuals who have been connected with these bodies, will be thankfully received and kept for reference in the library, which already contains much valuable matter.

By a vote of the Conference it is made my duty as annalist to present to this meeting a printed list of the "gifts for Memorial Hall." As agent of the Memorial Hall estate, I am amenable to the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut for a report of all matters pertaining to its management. This report, therefore, takes note only of the gifts received since the last meeting of the Conference.

As the relation of the Hall to the churches makes it a specially favorable medium through which the benevolent societies may advertise their work and their needs, I invited them to send their reports and periodicals to be kept in view there for any who might wish to consult them, and promised at the end of each year to have them bound and preserved for reference. Several of the societies gratefully acknowledged the courtesy and esteemed it a favor. Others required payment, and of course are not represented. "The Bible Society Record," "The Home Missionary," "The American Missionary," and "The Sailors' Magazine." are received regularly and kept on file for the use of the various servants of the churches and other ecclesiastical bodies, for whose convenience the Hall is specially designed. There is now in the Hall quite a collection of miscellaneous matter for distribution, from which those desiring it are allowed to select according to their pleasure. Contributions for this purpose, either of books or valuable pamphlets, are gratefully received from all who are disposed to make them.

I have received the following contributions in money:

Nov. 21, 1881, from John DeForest of Watertown,	$100.00
Jan. 3, 1882, from D. N. Camp of New Britain,	100.00
Jan. 9, 1882, from Mrs. Lucinda Hart Smith of New Britain for the "William H. Smith Memorial,"	100.00
Feb. 20, 1882, from George P. Bissell of Hartford, for the "Joel Hawes Memorial,"	100.00

HARTFORD, November 1, 1882.

IV.—EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE FUND FOR MINISTERS.

The Trustees of the Fund for Ministers present the following as their eighteenth annual report, being for the year 1881:

James Root, who was born in Hartford, April 23, 1787, graduated at Yale College in 1806, and died in Hartford, April 17, 1875, aged 88, left a will of which section 15 is as follows:

"I give and devise to the Connecticut Home Missionary Society twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000), in trust and for the use of poor and decayed ministers and their families, of the Congregational order, not having a charge or settlement. The annual income only to be used, and not exceeding three hundred dollars a year shall be given to any one minister or family, and the principal to be kept well invested in good bonds or mortgages."

On petition, the General Assembly of Connecticut at the May session, 1875, granted the Connecticut Home Missionary Society, which is the General Conference, a charter to enable it to receive and hold this trust. The charter was approved by the Governor, July 12, 1875, and became valid on its acceptance by the General Conference, November 10, 1875, by the following action: "Resolved, That this society accepts the foregoing charter, and the said trust legacy, and duty under said will."

The second section of the charter is as follows:

"Said corporation may act in accepting said trust, and receiving said legacy, and in administering the trust, through its board of Directors, as incorporated at this session, and its ordinary officers, or by special committee or committees for the purpose, as it may deem best; and said board of Directors and its ordinary officers are hereby authorized to fulfill any duties in the premises which may be committed to them by said society.—Minutes of Gen. Conf. of 1875, pp. 18, 19.

In accordance with this section, the General Conference, Nov. 10, 1875, adopted the following resolution: "Resolved, That the society commits the administration of said trust to its board of Directors and its ordinary officers under the direction of said board." The Directors administered the trust until 1880, when, in connection with the movement to merge the charter of the Directors in that of the Trustees of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, and at the request of said Directors, the corporation, Oct. 27, 1880, adopted the following resolution: "Resolved, That the administration of the Root Fund be transferred from the Directors of the Connecticut Home Missionary Society to a special committee; and that, until further order, the Trustees of the Fund for Ministers be said committee."—Minutes of Gen. Conf. of 1880, p. 14.

The Trustees of the Fund for Ministers, Nov. 3, 1880, voted to accept the care of said Fund.

The bequest was paid to the treasurer of the Connecticut Home Missionary Society, Feb. 18, 1876, and was delivered to the treasurer of the Fund for Ministers, Jan. 1, 1881.

In this period, while it was administered by the Directors of the Connecticut Home Missionary Society, the income was $6,565.22—which was disbursed as follows: To the treasurer, for recording mortgage, $0.55; cash-book, $9.00—$9.55. To the secretary, for revenue stamps, $2.50; printed notices, $2.90; postage, $8.29; office books, namely,—ledger, $2.90; receipt-book, $7.50; order-book, $7.85; order-book, $8.35—$26.60—$40.29. To sixteen ministers, beneficiaries, $6,513.00. To treasurer of Fund for Ministers, a remainder of $2.38.

It will be seen from the foregoing that the Trustees have now two trusts, namely, the Fund for Ministers, and the Root Fund. These trusts are administered on different conditions and rules, and their accounts are kept entirely distinct.

ROOT FUND.

The receipts and disbursements in 1881 were as follows:

Receipts.—Remainder from 1880, $2.38; interest at six per cent., $1,500.00—$1,502.38.

Remainder, Dec. 31, 1881, $3.43.

Two of these beneficiaries died—Rev. Frederick H. Ayres, at Long Ridge, Dec. 29, 1880, aged 74, and Rev. Marvin Root, at Lanark, Ill., June 6, 1881, aged 79.

The principal of the Fund is securely invested, and its value is $25,000.00.

Aid was given in 1881 to three ministers, nine widows of ministers, and six orphan daughters of ministers.

One of these orphans, Miss Louisa Huntington, died at Lyme, May 15, 1881, aged 91. Her father, Rev. David Huntington, was pastor at Marlborough 1776–1797, and of Middletown, South, 1797–1803; went on home missionary tours in New York and Pennsylvania in 1793–1797, and in Vermont in 1800, 1801; and was pastor of Lyme, First, from 1803 until he died in 1812.

The following statement shows the number of churches from which offerings have been received, the amount of offerings received, the total receipts excluding remainder from preceding year, the number of persons aided, the amount of aid, the total disbursements, and the remainder, each year for 1864–1881.

The Executive Committee of the American Home Missionary Society and the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut enter into the following agreement, namely:

I. That said Directors may expend any part, or all, of the available annual income of such funds held by them as have for their object, according to the terms of their charter, "to Christianize the heathen in North America, and to support and promote Christian knowledge in the new settlements within the United States," in supporting in part one or more of the superintendents, or general missionaries of said American Home Missionary Society, on the following conditions, namely:

1. Said superintendents and general missionaries shall be appointed, commissioned, assigned, and controlled, and their salaries shall be fixed and guaranteed, by the American Home Missionary Society.

2. They shall also be commissioned by said Directors, after conference with the American Home Missionary Society, to labor under the direction of said American Home Missionary Society; and shall report quarterly to said Directors; and, in their accounts with the American Home Missionary Society, shall give credit for such sums as they receive from the Missionary Society of Connecticut.

3. The secretary of the Missionary Society of Connecticut shall duly inform the secretaries of the American Home Missionary Society what superintendents or general missionaries said Directors have commissioned, and for what time and compensation; and whenever he issues a check for the payment of said compensation, he shall make it payable through the treasurer of the American Home Missionary Society.

II. Everest Fund.

Action in regard to beneficiaries and conditions of aid.

The Directors, after careful deliberation, voted,

That, until further order, in making grants from the income of the Everest Fund, preference be given to young men of promise, in course of education for the Christian ministry, who have been raised up in Connecticut, are members of Congregational churches, and students in some Congregational theological seminary, and are destitute of adequate means of support; that applications be signed by two Congregational ministers of Connecticut having charge of churches in or near the towns where the proposed beneficiaries belong, or by two professors of the theological seminary at which the proposed beneficiaries are studying; that grants be made only from available income in the treasury; and that the names of the beneficiaries be entered on our records.

A grant of $25.00 was made to a student in Hartford seminary.

Agreement with the American Home Missionary Society.

The following agreement, proposed by a conference of committees of the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut and of the Executive Committee of the American Home Missionary Society, was adopted by said Executive Committee and said Directors and became valid January 18, 1881:

Agreement between the American Home Missionary Society and the Missionary Society of Connecticut, on which the Missionary Society of Connecticut shall coöperate with the American Home Missionary Society in Connecticut and beyond it.

It is understood by the American Home Missionary Society and the Missionary Society of Connecticut, that this agreement and the stipulations it contains do not include the three following trusts held and administered by the Missionary Society of Connecticut, namely, the funds whose object is "to Christianize the heathen in North America and to support and promote Christian knowledge in the new settlements within the United States;" the Everest Fund, and the Memorial Hall Estate; but relates solely to the fourth trust, whose object is set forth in the following words, namely: "This society shall coöperate with the American Home Missionary Society in building up the waste places of Connecticut, and in establishing the institutions of the gospel and assisting feeble congregations in other and more destitute portions of the United States, under such stipulations as shall secure to this society the control of the raising and application of the funds, the selection and appointment of missionaries, and the general designation of their fields of labor; the said stipulations to be mutually agreed upon by the Directors of this society and the Executive Committee of the American Home Missionary Society."

The Executive Committee of the American Home Missionary Society and the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut agree upon the following stipulations, namely:

1. The Missionary Society of Connecticut shall pay over to the treasurer of the American Home Missionary Society the whole of its receipts, with the understanding that the same, or such portions as shall be needed, shall be allowed to remain in the treasury of the Missionary Society of Connecticut for the payment of its missionaries, and agents, and of other expenses, as is hereinafter stipulated.

2. All appointments of missionaries by the Missionary Society of Connecticut shall be made in the manner following, namely: a sufficient number of blank commissions shall be furnished to this society by the American Home Missionary Society, signed by the chairman and corresponding secretaries of the same, which shall be filled and countersigned by the proper officer of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, and issued on its responsibility.

3. All missionaries so appointed shall be paid from the income of the Missionary Society of Connecticut.

4. The Missionary Society of Connecticut shall appoint no missionaries, nor agents, to labor beyond the limits of Connecticut.

5. The American Home Missionary Society shall appoint no missionaries, nor agents, to labor in Connecticut, except by agreement with the Missionary Society of Connecticut.

6. At the close of each quarter of the year, or earlier, at the discretion of the Directors, any surplus which remains in the treasury of the Missionary Society of Connecticut after the wants of Connecticut have been supplied, shall be sent to the treasury of American Home Missionary Society.

7. While cordially recognizing the right of donors to determine where their gifts shall go, and the agency through which they shall be expended, and recognizing also the obligation of Connecticut to provide sufficiently for its own missionary needs, these societies and their officers unite in suggesting to the churches and public of Connecticut the expediency of preferring the treasury of the Connecticut society as the ordinary channel of their offerings for home missions under the stipulations of this new arrangement between the two societies.

8. This agreement shall be valid when it has been adopted by the Executive Committee of the American Home Missionary Society and the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, and may be modified by the mutual action of said Executive Committee and said Directors.

The foregoing agreement is substantially the same as that on which the Connecticut Home Missionary Society coöperated with the American Home Missionary Society for 1831–1880.

The amount received in legacies was $4.36 more than in 1880; the amount in contributions was $26.48 more than in 1880, and the total of legacies and contributions was $30.84 more than in 1880. The total received, excluding remainder from 1880, was $13,117.97.

The amount spent in Connecticut was $8,622.86, or $2,930.48 less than in 1880, and was an average of sixteen cents for each church member.

The American Home Missionary Society received directly from Connecticut in 1881, boxes at a valuation of $13,949.01; contributions, including $711.32 for Sunday-school work, $20,273.48; legacies, $35,753.56—$69,976.05. The amount in boxes was $978.40 less than in 1880; the amount in contributions was $2,825.31 more than in 1880; and the amount in legacies was $15,098.12 more than in 1880; and the whole was $16,945 23 more than in 1880.

Both societies received from Connecticut in 1881, interest, $60.00; boxes, $13,949.01; contributions, $33,234.60; legacies, $35,850.41—$83,094 02, or more than in any year since 1875, and more than in any former years except 1869, 1874, and 1875.

In 1881, of our 297 churches, 176 gave to this society, 173 to the American Home Missionary Society, 86 gave to both, and 34 to neither. Offerings for the Sunday-school work came from 24 churches, legacies from 23 churches, and boxes from 74 churches.

The entire amount received by both societies from Connecticut makes an average of $1.51 for each church member. But this amount includes boxes, which pay none of the expenses of either society, and also legacies. The contributions of the living in money to carry on the regular operations of the two societies were $33,234.60, or an average of sixty cents for each church member; and of this sum thirty-nine per cent. was paid to this society and sixty one per cent. to the American Home Missionary Society.

Summary by counties.

The following table shows for each county the number of churches aided, the aid given, the number of churches from which offerings, contributions, or legacies were received by this society, the amount so received, the whole number of churches giving to either society, and the whole amount received by both societies.

Of the thirty six churches drawing aid in 1881, twenty-four had funds to an aggregate of $49,478; ten had pastors, twenty-two had acting pastors, one had a stated preacher, and three had licentiates. The average salary proposed to be paid by the aid asked of us was $703. Thirty-four churches reported the salary paid promptly. Eight churches reported debts to an aggregate of $6,382. The average amount of the taxable property of these churches, counting only that of their resident members, was $21,480; and the average percentage paid by the churches on said property was .01221. All but five complied with the one per cent. rule, and they were made exceptions for "causes shown."

These churches had, Jan. 1, 1882, a membership of 866 males and 1,658 females, in all, 2,524, including 498 absentees, or an average of 70 members for each church. In 1881, the additions were 64 by profession and 45 letter, in all, 109; and the removals were 55 by death, 53 by letter, and 4 by discipline; in all, 112. The removals exceeded the additions by 3, and the professions exceeded the deaths by 9. Thirty-eight adults were baptized, and twenty-seven children. Twenty-six churches, with 1,655 members, baptized no child. Sixteen churches, with 955 members, added none by profession and lost 20 by death. The Sunday-schools enrolled 2,879, and the congregations embraced 1,816 families.

The averages of pastoral visits for a quarter in the several parishes, ranged from 12 to 124, and the common average for a quarter was 44.

Every church had a weekly prayer-meeting, with interruptions in some cases. The averages of attendance at these meetings in the several parishes ranged from 3 to 37, and the common average was 15.

Thirty-two churches had a monthly concert for a part or the whole of the year, and four had none. The charities were $2,123.15, or 84 cents for each church member, and 37 per cent. of the amount disbursed to these churches in 1881.

The state missionary.

As defining the duties of the state missionary, the Directors voted, That the state missionary collect funds for the society; issue annually, or oftener, circulars relating to the society and its needs; devote at least three-fourths of the Sabbaths of the year to visiting the churches and addressing them in relation to this society and its objects, and in relation to whatever, in his judgment, will promote the efficiency of the churches and reduce the spiritual destitutions of the state; and report annually to this board.

In 1881, Mr. Moore visited forty churches and addressed them, and also one conference and one home missionary convention, and in this service made eighty addresses.

Conclusion.

The amount of the four trusts, at market value, Dec. 31, 1881, was as follows: Western work, $54,591.81; Everest Fund, $9,238.39; Memorial Hall estate, $30,554.05; State work, $3,164.35—$97,548.60.

Including Western work, the whole amount raised in Connecticut for home missions in 1881, was $86,377.52; the whole amount spent in Connecticut was $8,711.33; and the whole amount sent out of the state was $75,250.03.

We thank God for this record. Such liberality is well applied whether for the state or the nation. We ask our brethren, the ministry, to press upon the attention of their flocks the importance, the urgency, and the magnitude of this work. We invite every one of these sister churches to help us take care of dear old Connecticut and send a swelling surplus to the national society. We suggest to those who are honored with much of their Lord's goods, that they make large gifts from year to year to this object which has so long enlisted the sympathies, prayers, and alms of God's people; and that, without detriment to heirs, they bless it with some suitable portion of what they must relinquish when called to their final account and gracious reward.

By order of the Directors,

WILLIAM H. MOORE, Secretary.

VI.—REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FELLOWSHIP AND WORK.

This is a month of thanksgiving. We come up to our annual feast from all parts of this goodly commonwealth; and we naturally inquire about the harvest. We review our work to see to what extent our prayers and hopes of one year ago have been realized. We want to know regarding the faithfulness of our churches in accomplishing the work given them to do. We naturally ask for the definite results of our labors. We look for the tokens of God's favor, and we find that we have abundant reason to make mention of his goodness in the many and varied ways in which he has been pleased to bless and to admonish and to instruct us.

To your committee has been assigned the task of taking the outlook over the whole field, of gathering up, so far as possible, the results of another year of labor, and of drawing from these varied experiences lessons that shall be helpful, and shall tend to stimulate us to renewed efforts. For we recognize the fact that the Great Head of the church is making known his will to his servants in connection with consecrated Christian labor, giving us thus continuous chapters of the book of the Acts for our admonition and for our instruction in righteousness.

The reports that were brought up to the annual meetings of the local bodies connected with this Conference, with two or three exceptions, give no tidings of large ingatherings. It has been a year distinguished rather for the absence of revivals. And yet it has been a year in which much valuable work has been done along the regular lines of Christian service. The reports we have received, which bring the narrative down to the first of last October, are full of cheer; some of them ring with stirring words of courage and of hope. There is scarce one of them afflicted with despondency or lugubrious with dark forebodings. This indicates the Lord's presence, and is a cheering token in itself of the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, and teaches us that a year may be fruitful with effective service rendered in building up character and pushing in many directions earnest Christian work, which shall be effective in permanent and far-reaching results, even though there have been in some localities fewer additions than losses; the additions being in the added graces more than in numbers, making really large accessions in quality, if not in quantity; more we trust in power, if not more in numbers.

Notwithstanding the leagued forces of evil, notwithstanding the intemperance and the Sabbath breaking and the intense worldliness, of which frequent mention is made, the churches all over the state are hopeful; and in many cases are maturing plans for renewed diligence and consecrated effort in the season before us. For in the kingdom of grace, as in the kingdom of nature, there are assurances that seed-time and harvest shall not fail. As in nature, even though there be a cold and backward spring or a drought in summer, which may modify and possibly postpone the harvest, yet the next season finds the farmer just as active and full of hope as ever; so in grace the promise is that God's word "shall not return unto him void, but it shall accomplish that which he pleases, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto he sent it."

After this brief and general glance at the whole field, we shall let the committees of the various conferences and consociations speak for themselves in order, regarding the condition and progress of the work within their own respective limits.

The Central Conference.—Rev. W. W. Woodworth, Committee.

At the last annual meeting this conference voted to change its name from Hartford South to Central Conference. This change was made partly that it might open its doors more hopefully to some churches outside of Hartford county which are conveniently situated to meet with it, and which, as was believed, if they would join it, would add greatly to the interest and profit of the meetings. The new name, too, seemed a fitting one, inasmuch as territorially the conference lies in the center of the state. This conference at that time comprised only eight churches, while New Haven West Conference, which bounds it on the south, had thirty-seven. In respect to the invitation, the First and Centre churches in Meriden have voted to unite with it, making the present number ten.

The past year has not been one of revivals, nor of any special spiritual quickening. Most of the churches, however, have received some members on profession of their faith. The First church in Meriden, the South church in New Britain, and the church in Rocky Hill have received each fifteen; the Center church in

New Britain five, and others one, two, and three each. The congregations from Sabbath to Sabbath have been large and attentive; the prayer-meetings well attended and with fully the usual interest.

The church in Rocky Hill has been specially blessed. Deacon Williams, who had been a regular attendant at the conference and fellowship meetings, died in the early part of last winter. About the same time a young man died who was a member of the Sabbath-school. These deaths made a deep impression. Prayer-meetings began to be fully attended. Mr. William W. Sleeper, a licentiate, who has since gone as a missionary to Bulgaria, was then preaching in Rocky Hill, and under his labors there were many hopeful conversions, and many Christians were greatly quickened. They are looking and praying for a larger harvest the coming winter.

Only four of the ten churches have now installed pastors; but they all have ministers who act as pastors. The financial condition of these churches is good. None of them are burdened with oppressive debt. All but one or two are now wholly free. Most of them have adopted the system of weekly offerings for Christian charities, and with great advantage—in some cases increasing the contributions by fifty per cent. In two of the churches—those at Plantsville and Kensington—all the seats in the house of God are free to all comers; and the money for the support of the institutions of the gospel is raised in other ways than by the annual rental of pews. The plan is said to work well.

Sabbath-school work is carried on efficiently in most of the churches. The pastors render substantial aid in the work. Several of them conduct teachers' meetings for the study of the lessons with interest and profit. Two of the pastors conduct Bible-classes. The school connected with the South church in New Britain has over nine hundred members. It is trying to solve the problem of mission work, or the gospel for the people, by bringing scholars of every class and condition together under their own roof. A very large percentage of the members of the school are children of parents of foreign birth. The efficient superintendent of this school is employed by the church to assist the pastor, and devotes his whole time to Christian work among the families of New Britain. The Center church in that city is also employing an agent to work among such as are not worshipers at the house of God. The South church in New Britain appointed, the first of last January, a board of ladies for home work. This board consists of twelve ladies, residing in different sections of the city, which has been districted, and lists of families connected with the congregation have been placed in their hands. The ladies call upon these families, and do such ministry to the poor and the sick, and in welcoming strangers, as the case requires. They also hold meetings for prayer and conference concerning their work, and have matured plans for other efforts among the women of the congregation.

A fellowship meeting was held last winter and spring with each of the churches in the conference. With one or two exceptions, when the weather was very unfavorable, these meetings were well attended, and were felt to be intellectually and spiritually profitable. The churches have become better acquainted with each other as they have thus met to pray and to confer together.

Hartford Conference.—Rev. GRAHAM TAYLOR, Committee.

While some of the churches mourn the heavy bereavements which have fallen upon them with extraordinary frequency, yet the increase in attendance upon the Sabbath and week-day services, which is reported by every church of this conference, except two or three whose peculiar condition would hardly allow of it, is a marked feature in this year's reports.

Several of the churches make grateful mention of the temporal prosperity which relieves them of any trouble in self-support, or which, as in one case, enabled them to finish and furnish, at a cost of $34,000 and without debt, a commodious and tasteful sanctuary. There are other churches which as truly lament the hindrance to spiritual life in the business rush and prosperity of the times. One deplores the inertia and lack of interest resulting from the possession of invested funds which relieves the people of that stern necessity which pushes to action.

Mention is made of renewed interest in Bible study. Two reports speak of introducing consecutive expository studies as the main feature of the weekly meeting. Several pastors speak of the Bible classes they have recently formed or are teaching with encouragement. One pastor reports five or six conversions as the direct result of the fidelity of a single Sunday-school teacher. Lively interest and deep impressions are noted in the large young people's meeting of one church, in which fully one hundred members are engaged in some form of active Christian work.

The formation of a young people's society of Christian endeavor is regarded in one church as a hopeful sign of future results. Another church finds its chief comfort in a "helping hand society" which meets weekly, conducts a children's sewing class, clothes, and gathers poor children into Sunday-school, and gives some aid to indigent persons and families, especially, the sick and unfortunate. The fellowship meetings held by the Wethersfield, the Windsor Avenue, and Fourth churches last winter were successful in every respect, and the memory of the interchange of fraternal visits prompts the desire for renewed efforts in this direction. The conference meeting in the First church in Hartford was felt by many to be an occasion of deep interest and spiritual power. While most of the churches lament so few accessions from the world, one reports the addition of twenty-five by letter, many of whom had long neglected to transfer their membership. Another speaks of thirty accessions as the result of a religious awakening, and adds, as compared with the attention we have given our God, he has taken wonderful notice of us. Two others report the addition of twelve each by confession of faith. The spirit of conscious need and prayerful expectancy significantly characterizes most of the reports. If all these things spoken of as attained or hoped for be but straws, do they not show which way the wind of the Spirit blows? If but ripples, do they not show the tide to have turned from its long ebb and to be now flowing in?

Hartford East Conference.—Rev. Geo. W. Winch, Committee.

All but three of the twelve churches of this conference have received additions to their membership. To the church in Hockanum, the smallest and the youngest, the largest accessions are reported; fifteen by confession of faith, and two by letter. The church in Enfield has received eleven by confession and three by letter. The church in Buckingham has received ten by confession, and the church in East Windsor seven, and other churches in smaller numbers, making a total of sixty six, of which fifty were added by confession of faith; an increase of a little more than three and one tenth per cent. in the aggregate membership. The losses amounted to sixty. Of these the church in North Manchester reports a loss of thirteen, due largely to an effort to reduce the nominal as nearly as possible to the real membership. The church in Broad Brook has been revising its roll, and by dismissions, excommunications, and dropping of names, has lost about twenty-six—or nearly one-half of the total loss in the conference. But these losses are felt to be a real gain to the life and efficiency of those that remain.

The attendance upon the sabbath services is, without an exception, spoken of as up to the average of former years, and in some cases an increase is noted. In Glastonbury, a young people's meeting has been established recently, which is held just before the Sabbath evening service. The attendance is large, and the interest manifested very decided and encouraging. "This meeting," writes the pastor, "is developing the hitherto latent talent of our young people, and training them for active service in the church. It is the one bright feature of our work during the past few months." The churches seemed interested in the fellowship meetings that were held, and they were evidently helpful in keeping alive the spirit of fellowship that prevails, even if no other direct result was attained.

Middlesex Conference.—Rev. M. S. DUDLEY, Committee.

There have been no marked revivals during the past year, except in two churches. Twelve churches of the twenty-eight report an aggregate of one hundred and twenty-nine additions. Others have held their own; only a few report a falling off. But results in the church of Christ, as well as in many other departments of life, especially those results which are most enduring and most encouraging in their nature, are only slowly revealed, and cannot be accurately measured. The sphere in which the best work is done, to wit, the religious character of man, is of such a nature that it refuses to yield its secrets to the yard stick and steel-yards. Sometimes, when the church has made the best numerical exhibit, it has been at its worst estate; and sometimes, when it has appeared weak and contemptible, it has been strong and victorious. The attendance on public services has increased. Prayer-meetings have been well sustained. Churches that have shown no great growth in numbers have gained in strength by the deepening of religious life, and the strengthening of moral character. The financial standing of the churches is excellent. Most of them report no indebtedness whatever, and no church is burdened in this respect. It has been a year of repairings and improvements, aggregating a reported outlay of $10,675 upon church property. Group meetings for fellowship and help have been held in different parts of this conference, but in hardly one instance has the meeting been frequented by any except the regular attendants on public worship. It will be remembered that when the committee on fellowship and work was first organized by the State Conference, about six years ago, two or three purposes were distinctly aimed at; one, the increase of friendly social relations amongst neighboring churches; another, the quickening of religious life and work; a third, to have such meeting and organize such work as would attract and reach those who do not ordinarily attend church. Only one church reports favorably upon this last point. In two of the groups it is said that the members of neighboring churches are becoming better acquainted, and the meetings of last year were increasingly interesting and profitable.

The pastors and churches have been active and aggressive on the subject of temperance. Middletown has been especially alive, with promising results. East Hampton has an outlook committee to see that the law is respected. Cromwell has a Temperance Union, which puts into every family in town, where there are any children, a copy of the Youth's Temperance Banner, and employs an outlook committee to see that the law is enforced.

In this era of increasing laxity, the report is favorable regarding the observance of the Sabbath. Great credit for this is due to the conservative influence of Middletown. The writer doubts if there is a place of equal size in the state or New England, where the day is so well observed. No excursions and no picnics originate at this center.

Farmington Valley Conference.—Rev. N. J. SEELEY, Committee.

The attendance upon the Sabbath services in the morning has been good; some of them larger than for years past. But the attendance upon the second service, in the afternoon or evening, has diminished in most places to small numbers. A Sabbath-school concert or something unusual will call out a house full; but ordinarily the people stay at home, or ride, or go visiting; for some reason they do not come to the house of God. The work in the Sunday-school is the most encouraging feature in this report. Several churches report additions to the churches from the Sunday-school; one church reports nine added from this source. Teachers' meetings for prayer and the study of the word are held in a few parishes. Every church maintains a mid-week prayer-meeting, with attendance numbering from one hundred to fifteen.

There have been four fellowship meetings during the year, which were blessed seasons of communion with God and with each other. These meetings are much prized by the people, and inquiries are frequently made, "When shall we have another?" The additions to the churches have not been large, in one church amounting to thirty-four. The number added will average about the same as those lost by death and removal.

The religious observance of the Sabbath, among a large class of native citizens as well as among foreigners, is growing more and more into disuse. The railroads are doing more to desecrate the day than all other agencies combined.

Litchfield Northeast Conference.—Rev. L. H. HALLOCK, Committee.

The twelve churches are now manned, and all but two have settled pastors; of these one is engaged for five years, and the others from year to year with no prospect of speedy removal. No special religious interest is reported, except that the Second church of West Winsted had a quickening during the winter and spring, beginning with the week of prayer, and resulting in considerable accessions to the church from the young people; two of these have dedicated themselves to the gospel ministry, and are in process of training for it. The temperance fight has been carried on in Winsted, with some good share of the whole armor of God, and no small share of success; undaunted by a vote for license, we wrought, says the report, with more unwavering courage, and so found and applied the teeth of the "license law" that the liquor men, finding no quarter in that, determined to help us vote "no license" this year, for it is "no liquor" in either case. This conference held no fellowship meetings the past year.

Litchfield Northwest Conference.—Rev. J. F. GLEASON, Committee.

The churches in Warren and Norfolk have had seasons of refreshing, twelve being added to the church in Warren and thirty-six to the church in Norfolk. As a consequence the social meetings are large and lively, and the vigor of all the activities is increased. These accessions came as the fruits of the ordinary means of grace. The church in Norfolk has a temperance society connected with it, numbering over three hundred members, which holds a platform meeting once a quarter in place of the regular Sabbath service. No fellowship meetings have been held, not because they are not thought to be profitable, but chiefly because so many other meetings demand the time and attendance of the churches. "Diligence in business" is as essential to growth in grace as the feverish excitement of frequent hortatory gatherings. On the whole, the past year has been more prosperous than the previous two or three years in these eleven churches.

Litchfield South Consociation.—Rev. J. B. BONAR, Committee.

Only eight of these twenty-one churches have installed pastors; the others are served by men for brief and uncertain periods. This is a growing evil. In some of the hill towns the Protestant population is decreasing, and there is an increasing difficulty in supporting the ordinances of religion. A number of the churches have improved and beautified their meeting-houses—notably the church in Milton, the only church within the bounds of this consociation aided by the Missionary Society of Connecticut. Fellowship meetings were held in one part of the consociation, but were barren as to results. Temperance is awakening more and more interest in nearly all the churches. Many of them have committees on the subject, with monthly meetings on Sabbath evenings. While there have been no large ingatherings, there have been additions to most of the churches. In some there are growing congregations on the Sabbath, larger numbers at the prayer-meetings, with deepening desires in the hearts of God's people.

Fairfield East Consociation.—Rev. J. W. HUBBELL, Committee.

Four of the fourteen churches are without pastors. The First church in Bridgeport has greatly improved and beautified its sanctuary. There have been a few accessions to nearly all the churches. The First church in Danbury has received thirty seven—seventeen of them on confession of faith. There has been but one fellowship meeting, but this was of marked interest; and there are plans for meetings each month during the coming season.

Fairfield West Consociation.—Rev. SAMUEL SCOVILLE, Committee.

An interesting work of grace has been in progress in New Canaan through the year. A temperance meeting has been held the second Sunday evening of every month. There are 1,009 signatures to the pledge against profanity, against the use of intoxicating drinks and tobacco. It has been a remarkable year to the struggling church in North Stamford, in the removal of a heavy debt on the occasion of its centennial anniversary. There are plans recently formed for fellowship meetings and for renewed efforts, from which good things are anticipated.

New Haven West Conference.—Rev. H. S. KELSEY, Committee.

While, with one exception, there has been no marked revival manifestation among the churches, nearly every one reports healthy activity in Christian service, steadfastness in Christian life, and growth in the graces of the Spirit. In the church in Orange there has been a gracious quickening; and, as a partial result, twenty-six have already united with the church, several of them being heads of families. An interesting fact is mentioned in connection with the church in Yale College, that the majority of the class entering in 1881 are professing Christians—a fact never before known in the history of the college. The Second church in Waterbury reports a young people's prayer-meeting before the evening service on Sunday, which is attended by two or three hundred youth, and is exceedingly interesting. The death of the senior deacon of this church, Charles Benedict, has left a large vacancy that cannot be filled. The church in Birmingham reports the attendance upon the mid-week services as nearly double that of former years. Three night schools per week are maintained, attendance from thirty to forty. The First and Plymouth churches, Milford, and the church in West Haven speak of interesting temperance meetings held monthly on Sabbath evening.

New Haven East Consociation.—Rev. W. T. REYNOLDS, Committee.

Sabbath-school work has been prosecuted with heartiness and earnestness. As a result there has been spiritual quickening in in some of the churches. The First church in Guilford has received over forty to its communion—the largest addition in a single year since its organization. The church in East Haven has added twenty, and Madison thirty, gathered for the most part out of the Sabbath-school. In some of the churches the public services of the Lord's day are much disturbed by the running of railroad trains. Serious annoyance is also experienced from the throngs who are accustomed to spend the day at the sea-shore. This evil is increasing every year. It has become a subject of such importance as to demand the prayerful consideration of all Christians who prize the Sabbath and Christian worship.

New London Conference.—Rev. W. B. CLARKE, Committee.

In both the churches of New London, and in the church of Greeneville, the year has been one of more than usual interest; as the result of which, twenty persons or more have been received into the First church of New London, and twenty-one on confession into the Second, and more than forty into the church in Greeneville. In the church in Greeneville, the pastor says, "We have two additional meetings a week for those who are desirous of growing in Christian manhood." This is a timely suggestion, whether we wish to see religion revived, or to see it stay revived. Three local conferences have held stated meetings for purposes of fellowship and mutual quickening, which are believed to have been helpful. But special prayer and endeavor are needed that they may be clothed with greater spiritual power.

Tolland Conference.—Rev. J. A. MACK, Committee.

Fellowship meetings are held in nearly all of the twenty-two churches. They are divided into four groups, with a committee in charge of one for each group. There is a general desire to have them continued, with a prevalent feeling that there is a more excellent way, if it could only be found. Practically, there is not much fellowship through these meetings. Very little, if anything, has been done to reach the large class of non church-goers. These meetings have been mostly held in the winter or spring. If they could be held in the autumn or before the week of prayer, and as preparatory to some continuous and earnest movement of a purely religious nature, might they not have more power? Several congregations and Sabbath-schools are reported fuller during the past year than for a number of years. In three or four places there has been deep interest, and in general there has been so much of experience and promise that there is a strong desire to witness larger results.

Windham Conference.—Rev. EDWIN S. BEARD, Committee.

Only two of the twenty-eight churches are without ministers. Thirty from among the young in Woodstock have publicly confessed Christ. The Second church in Putnam has lifted a large debt. In many churches there has been a decided improvement in benevolent contributions. Two fellowship meetings have been held, which were regarded as very inspiring and helpful.

Conclusion.

As we thus take a glance at the whole field, we are impressed with the sum total of earnest Christian work which, in various ways, is put forth by our churches. There never has been a time in our history when better work has been done, and by truer hearts. And though the additions do not much exceed in numbers the removals, yet there is a mighty plus of earnest endeavor and consecrated effort and confident expectation, unaided by outside importations, which must report themselves in the years that are to come. God knows how and when to bring the best results, and he will surely do it, if we will continue to wait patiently upon him. Your committee feels that this waiting needs to be with intenser longings for the mightier indwelling of the Holy Spirit. This will give us converting power. Here and now, let us lift up open and longing hearts to receive the heavenly grace. Then shall that personal power which Christ has ordained as the vehicle for salvation to the world, be consecrated to its sacred mission.* Then shall we be open on all sides toward God and our fellow men; then shall each of us be as a translucent medium between the Divine Sun and a world sitting in darkness; then it shall be Christ for us to live; then will it be gain to die.

We recall the names of those brethren in the ministry that have left us since we last gathered. Very dear were they to us, when hand joined in hand, and heart was united to heart. Surely they are not less dear now that they have grown worthier of a higher fellowship. Seven of the nine that have been taken were over three score years old—the average age of the whole being just three score years and ten. The names of Bacon and Bond and Arms and James A. Smith, all of them over seventy-five years, are honored names that have answered to the roll-call in our gatherings for many a year. The promise of God to his ancient servant was fulfilled in their behalf: "With long life will I satisfy him, and show him my salvation." It will not be invidious if we mention one of this number, Dr. Leonard Bacon, whom we all miss to-day, and whom we shall not soon have done with missing from our annual gatherings. His presence here was a constant benediction.

Lingers like twilight hues, when the bright sun is set."

STATISTICS.

EXPLANATIONS.

In the table of the associations, ministerial ages are reckoned to January 1, 1883. Post-offices are not given in these tables, but with the alphabetical list of ministers.

In the tables of the constituent bodies of the General Conference, some non-consociated churches are, for convenience of representation, counted with consociations to which they do not belong.

In the tables of the churches, the towns are given in alphabetical order, and the churches in the towns in the order of age. The tables present the statistics of the churches for 1882, and their condition as to membership, Sunday-schools and families, on the morning of January 1, 1883. The first column gives towns, names and the initials of counties; the second gives the date of organization, so far as known; the third gives, according to latest information, the names of ministers, with years of ordination. The next three columns show whether the ministers are pastors, acting pastors, or stated preachers; whether the pastors were settled by ordination or installation; when the relationship began; and how many years, reckoning to January 1, 1883, it has continued.

"In designating in our Minutes the relations of non-installed ministers to the churches, which for a length of time they are engaged to serve, those shall be recognized as acting pastors (a. p.) who perform the work of a pastor; and those who simply serve the churches on the Sabbath, and on other special occasions, and who do not reside within nor near the parishes in which those churches are located, shall be recognized as stated preachers (s. p.)." A star prefixed to a minister's name shows that January 1, 1883, he was not a member of any district association in this state. The abbreviations, Bap., Meth., Presb., after the names of ministers, show to what denomination they belong. The word "none," in the column of ministers, does not mean, in every case, that the church is without preaching, but only that it has no pastor, acting pastor, nor stated preacher, nor a licentiate hired for any considerable time; it may have different preachers irregularly, or from Sabbath to Sabbath.

The column of excommunicated includes, also, those from whom watch and care have been withdrawn, as for long absence, or other reasons. The column of Sabbath-schools gives the whole number in Sabbath-schools, home and mission, January 1, 1883, including officers and teachers. The column of families states the whole number of families in the flock, but does not include those reached by missionary efforts.

In the tables of charities, the first column after the names of the churches shows how much was given for the Fund for Ministers. The next seven columns show how much was given for each of the national Congregational charitable societies, and objects connected with them. The next column shows how much was given for all other charities. The next column gives the total charities, so far as ascertained. The last column shows the amount of charitable legacies paid. The charities and legacies paid are for the year 1882. A blank shows that the question is not answered.

REMARKS.

THE ASSOCIATIONS.—January 1, 1883, the fifteen district associations reported 394 members, of whom 66 were residing out of the state. The average ministerial age was 23 years; in Naugatuck Valley it was 14, and in New Haven West it was 30 years. The list consisted of 1 assistant secretary of the Connecticut Board of Education, 1 city missionary, 2 editors, 3 chaplains, 3 missionaries of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, 6 stated preachers, 9 teachers, 11 officers and agents of charitable institutions and societies, 16 officers in colleges and theological seminaries, 93 having no charge, 119 acting pastors, and 130 pastors.

The large number having no charge included some in secular pursuits, candidates for ministerial work and aged persons, and the average ministerial age of the whole was 34 years.

In 1882, 36 were licensed; 61 licentiates were responsible to the district associations January 1, 1883.

THE CONFERENCES AND CONSOCIATIONS.—There are 13 conferences and 4 consociations which send delegates to the General Conference; and through these 17 bodies all the churches in the state are represented in the General Conference, except Pawcatuck, in Stonington, which belongs to Rhode Island Conference, and is called Westerly in their roll.

THE CHURCHES.—The annual statistics report contributions, legacies, baptisms, and changes in membership in 1882, and families and membership in churches and Sunday-schools, January 1, 1883. The number of churches January 1, 1883, was 297. The statistics of all are given.

MINISTERS.—January 1, 1883, 33 churches had no minister, in the sense of having neither pastor, acting pastor, nor stated preacher, though all these churches but one were served regularly, or for part of the year, by ministers or licentiates, employed from Sabbath to Sabbath, or for a longer period; 14 had stated preachers; 114 had acting pastors; 136 had pastors. In four cases two churches united in employing one minister. The average term of stated preachers was 1 year; of acting pastors, 4 years; of pastors, 8 years.

Of the pastors, 10 were not members of any district association in this state; and among the acting pastors and stated preachers were one Baptist, one Methodist, one Reformed, and four Presbyterians.

In 1882, twelve candidates, members of these churches, or who had recently been members, were ordained,—six as pastors,—namely, a member of Bridgeport First, of Broad Brook, of Greenwich Second, of Danielsonville, of Meriden First, two of church in Yale College, a member of New Haven Third, of Broadway, Norwich, of Old Saybrook, of Orange, and of Windsor First.

The number pursuing theological studies in the two seminaries, in the year beginning in 1882, was: In Hartford, 46; in New Haven, 93; in both, 139.

In 1882, ten licentiates were ordained, two without charge, and eight as pastors. Four ministers were installed as pastors; eight pastors were dismissed, and seven ministers, including one pastor and one acting pastor, died, whose average age was 71 years.

Members.— The churches reported, January 1, 1883, 18,572 males and 36,091 females; in all, 54,663, including 6,648 absentees. In 1882, the additions were—1,217 by profession and 1,086 by letter; in all, 2,303; the removals—1,004 by death, 1,098 by letter, 136 by discipline; in all, 2,238. The additions by profession exceeded the removals by death by 213. The total additions exceeded the total removals by 65. This would make the total membership, on the basis of January 1, 1882, 54,893; but, instead of this, it is, as reported, 54,663; and thus there is a difference of 230 members, not accounted for in the statistical tables, to be charged to the revision of rolls and other causes.

The rate of mortality was 18 for a thousand members. One hundred and seven churches, with 13,257 members, added none by profession, and lost 268 by death. Forty-one churches received

CHURCH REGISTER.

The following list gives the names of the churches, their post-offices, the pages where their statistics may be found, also the names of their ministers, clerks, treasurers, and Sunday-school superintendents, and their post-offices, preceded by the initials m, c, t, and s. The names of ministers not reported as members of any district association in this state are starred; and the names of licentiates, and of ministers of other denominations, are enclosed in brackets.

The bodies through which the churches are represented in the General Conference are given on pp. 386–392.

There are Congregational churches, one or more, in all the towns except Beacon Falls and Waterford. The towns, with churches in order of organization, are given on pp. 394–414.

Resolved, That if a person serving a church, as its preacher, has been disfellowshiped by some evangelical body of ministers or churches, and is known to be responsible to no such body, his name be omitted from the statistics, and the church be reported as having no preacher—in the sense of having no one in regular ministerial standing.

Martin Luther.

The following minute, in reference to the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of Martin Luther, was adopted:

We, the members of the General Conference of the Congregational Churches of Connecticut, do hereby declare our profound sympathy with all those who, in any land or in any language, have taken occasion of the four-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Martin Luther to testify in behalf of the great reformer, and to celebrate the mighty deliverances which, in the providence of God, were wrought for mankind by him.

We gratefully ascribe all praise and glory to Almighty God, by whose Holy Spirit the peasant monk was enlightened and made free and strong in gospel truth, and led onward, step by step, amid innumerable difficulties, in the way of gospel progress and freedom.

We recognize in Luther the "Greatheart" of his age, the true prophet and hero of the Reformation; and we recall with thankfulness his courage, fidelity, simplicity, and sagacity, his brotherliness and loving kindness; the various endowments which combined to make him a power among men; his indomitable will, fixed in truth; his warrior spirit, which, clothed in the armor of God, resisted councils, emperors and popes, and so wrought in concurrence with other mighty forces of God's ordaining as to break the bonds of ecclesiastical empire, to set free whole nations, and to open the way toward complete civil and religious liberty.

As New England men, and children of the Puritans, we bear witness that the Puritan revolution, with its good and sweet fruits in church and state, was but the natural development of the Protestant Reformation, and that our Pilgrim fathers of the seventeenth century were the true and worthy children of the great reformers of the century preceding.

We look back with pride and praise upon the marvelous developments of history which have taken place since Luther nailed his theses to the church-door in Wittemberg. At the same time we look forward with faith and hope, believing in the coming of God's kingdom upon highways made straight therefor by his servants and prophets of old, among whom we reckon the valiant Dr. Martin Luther.

We join with Christians of every name in prayer to God that the celebration of Luther's natal day may quicken and unite us in God's good service; that we may not hear unmoved the brave words with which he defied the enemies and rallied the true servants of God, nor rehearse in vain the story of his championship of truth and freedom, nor fail to thrill at the music of those noble hymns whereby he inspired other hearts with the confidence which filled his own, and whose echoes roll to-day from land to land.

We recognize in the Augustinian monastery at Erfurt the cradle of the Reformation; in Luther's re-announcement of justification by faith, its seminal principle; in the personally justified German monk the "man of God's election," who, in the fullness of time again laid the axe at the root of that hoary despotism, the Roman papacy, and thus cleared the way for freedom. In the history of the memorable period to which he belonged, there are many conspicuous figures; but he who towers above the rest is Martin Luther, and the secret of his power is partly in his personality, but chiefly in the Bible open in his hands. While we honor and commemorate all the rest, we reverence Luther most of all, and bless God for the gift which in him he bestowed upon the Christian world.

New England Divorce Reform League.

Rev. Samuel W. Dike spoke in behalf of the New England Divorce Reform League, presenting some aspects of the divorce question.

Thanks.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That our thanks are returned to the hospitable people of Norwich who have received into their homes the members of this Conference; to the Broadway church, which has opened its house of worship for the meetings of the Conference; to the choir; and to the committee of arrangements for its efficient service.

Resolved, That the thanks of the General Conference of the Congregational Churches of Connecticut be conveyed to the various railway companies, who have made reduction in the fare of those attending the Conference.

Resolved, That the General Conference do express to the moderator its recognition of the conspicuous ability and courtesy with which he has presided at its meetings, and do hereby extend to him its hearty thanks.

Responses were made by William A. Aiken, and the moderator.

III.—REPORT OF THE ANNALIST.

I have endeavored to follow the instructions of the Conference as given in the meeting at New London last year, and furnish brief sketches of the ministers who have died holding ecclesiastical relation to this body through its constituents; of the centennial and other anniversary services held by the churches; and of other matters of historic interest relating to the churches and to the Memorial Hall enterprise.

It will greatly facilitate the work of the annalist in reporting the action of councils held within the limits of the state, if the scribes of these bodies will promptly forward to him, at Memorial Hall, a copy of their minutes, to be preserved there for reference. Indeed, until this is done no reliable statement can be made by him in the report to the Conference. I have not attempted, therefore, to cover this ground in the report now given, and would suggest the propriety of a formal request by this Conference that all scribes of councils forward a copy of the minutes of their respective bodies to the annalist.

I present the following sketches of ministers deceased.

Rev. Hiram Phelps Arms.

On page 17 of the Congregational Year Book for 1882 may be found the more important statistics relating to the life, work, and death of this devoted servant of Christ. In a little volume entitled "Life Sketch of Rev. H. P. Arms, D.D.," published for the family by Alfred Mudge & Son of Boston, is an exceedingly interesting autobiography of the man, which would do good, if read extensively by the boys and young men of our time. By a reference to these records, placed in Memorial Hall for this purpose, the particular facts, and the more important incidents in the life of Dr. Arms, may be ascertained.

He was in the full sense of the term a Connecticut man. Born at Windsor, educated at Yale College and Theological Seminary, he was ordained as pastor of the church in Hebron, June 30, 1830. He was installed as pastor of what is now the Third Congregational church in Torrington, then Wolcottville, Feb. 6, 1833. In 1836, he was installed as pastor of the church in Norwich Town, where he remained in active service till 1873, and continued in the relation of pastor "emeritus" until his death, April 6, 1882, in the eighty-third year of his age.

Thus, for fifty-two years, he was a pastor in his native state, and served the churches with all fidelity and with special acceptance. He combined in his character the qualities of a tender and affectionate pastor, a wise counselor, and a faithful friend. The University of New York conferred upon him the degree of D.D. in 1864, and he was elected a member of the corporation of Yale College in 1866, and continued in that relation until his death.

Dr. Arms did not seek notoriety by a resort to any of the questionable devices by which celebrity is sometimes gained. Several sermons of his have been printed. His thoughts and efforts were devoted almost exclusively to his pulpit and parish work. It is as a pastor and preacher that he is remembered by the churches to which he ministered, and here his example is worthy of the study of those who have the ministry in view. On his eighty first birthday, he wrote as follows: "The Scriptures reveal the future under imagery borrowed from this life. The reality will doubtless bear some resemblance to the imagery; but 'eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for those that love Him.'" He served his generation faithfully, and was honored of God as a witness and defender of the truth. Dr. Arms was a member of New London Association.

Rev. James Allwood Smith.

This devout, generous, warm-hearted lover of truth, and defender of the faith once delivered to the saints, died in Unionville, April 15, 1882, in the seventy sixth year of his age. He was born in Hartford, Nov. 6, 1806; fitted for college at the Grammar School of that city; graduated at Yale College in 1826; was employed in the Union High School of New London two years; was at Andover Seminary two years, and graduated at Yale Theological Seminary in 1831. He was ordained in New Hampshire as pastor of the church at Great Falls, where he labored until July 24, 1837. He was installed as pastor of the church in Glastonbury Dec. 6, of the same year, and continued the faithful, efficient, and beloved minister of that congregation for more than twenty years. In 1859, he became the acting pastor of the church in Unionville, serving in that capacity four years, after which he resided in the place without charge till his death. His interest in the cause of Christ, his love of the essential truths of the gospel, and his zeal for the Congregational polity, worked vigorously to the end of his life, and in his death the churches of the state, as well as the community in which he lived, and the kindred whom he loved, sustained a loss widely and deeply felt.

In 1832, he was married to Mary Morgan of Hartford. Of their ten children six passed within the veil before him, and four were living when he died. The Rev. Joseph Morgan Smith of Grand Rapids, Mich., recently deceased, was the first born. The widow, Mrs. Mary Morgan Smith, still resides in Unionville. Mr. Smith was a member of Hartford Central Association.

Rev. Samuel Clement Fessenden.

Though a member of Fairfield West Association, Mr. Fessenden's work as a minister of the gospel was done in Maine, as pastor for some eighteen years of the church in what is now known as Rockland. He was a graduate of Bowdoin College, class of 1834, and of Bangor Seminary, class of 1837; and was installed pastor of the Second church in Thomaston, now Rockland, May 30, 1838. He continued in this relation till Feb. 4, 1856. In 1858, he was admitted to the bar, and was judge of the municipal court in 1859–60. He was elected a member of Congress in 1859. and served one term. For 1866–72, he served on the Board of Examiners in the Patent Office at Washington. In 1874, he was acting pastor of a church in Seneca Falls, N. Y. He removed to Stamford in 1875, and in 1881 was appointed U. S. consul at St. John, N. B. He married Mary Grosvenor Abbe of Bangor, Me.. Aug. 30, 1838, by whom he had eleven children, who, with the mother, survived him. He died April 18, 1882, of gastritis and heart trouble, in the sixty-eighth year of his age. He was an efficient worker in the various fields of service to which he was called.

Rev. Allan McLean.

This modest, beloved, and devoted servant of Christ died at Jacksonville, Fla., April 21, 1882. He had been serving the church in Litchfield with great acceptance and usefulness nearly seven years, and commended himself to the affectionate confidence of the ministers and churches with whom he was in more familiar fellowship. He was born in East Granby, Nov. 17, 1837. He studied at Williston Seminary, graduated at Yale College in 1865, and left Yale Seminary in 1868. He was installed pastor of the Grove Street church in East Orange, N. Y., Oct. 14, 1868, where he labored till June, 1874; when he visited Europe with his wife for her health. She died at Nice, April 27, 1875. She was the daughter of Horace and Selina Fowler Belden of Simsbury, and left one child. After his return to this country, Mr. McLean's health was not sufficiently firm to authorize, as he thought, a permanent settlement, which the church in Litchfield desired, and he therefore continued with them at their request as acting pastor, until the Master called him to a higher service. June 13, 1878, he married Fannie Maria Coit of Litchfield, by whom he had two sons, who with their mother and half sister now reside among the people of his late charge, where he is affectionately remembered. Brief statistics of his life may be found on page 26 of the Year Book for 1883. His funeral was largely attended at the Congregational church in Litchfield, May 5, at which an exceedingly pertinent and appreciative sermon was preached by Rev. Joseph H. Twichell of Hartford, and neighboring ministers and churches expressed their affectionate sympathy with the bereaved family and people. Mr. McLean was a member of Naugatuck Valley Association.

Rev. Nathan Strong Hunt.

This modest and faithful servant of the churches died at Bozrah, April 30, 1882, in the eightieth year of his age. The first eleven years of his ministry were spent in the service of the church in Abington, where he was ordained as pastor in 1834. He was pastor of the church in Preston about the same length of time, and served the church in Bozrah as acting pastor twelve years. He fitted for college at Bridgewater, N. Y., under the instruction of his brother-in-law, Rev. Alpha Miller; entered Hamilton College in 1826; and graduated from Williams College in 1830, and from Andover Seminary in 1833. He was born in North Coventry, July 5, 1802, and except the years spent in study, his life work was done in his native state. He was without charge the last decade of his ministry. He left almost nothing in print, either sermons or other matter, as an index of his capacity or method of work. The statistics given in the Year Book for 1883, on page 24, and in the published annals of the churches, show that his long and useful life was spent for the most part in the vicinity of his native town. He was associated with Messrs. Arms and Bond for many years, and the three passing away during the same year, take from the membership of New London Association one hundred and sixty-two years of ministerial age.

Rev. Alexander Blyth Bullions.

In the death of this quiet, scholarly servant of the churches, a loss was sustained by them, which only those who knew him well can appreciate. He was the son of Rev. Peter and Elizabeth Blyth Bullions, and was born in Argyle, N. Y., May 13, 1822. He fitted for college at the Albany Academy, and graduated at Union College in 1842. He was ordained by the Presbytery of Long Island, Nov. 5, 1846, as pastor of the church at East Hampton; was installed at Waterford, N. Y., in 1848, where he remained till 1853. He then visited Europe, and during a residence of some three years abroad was a correspondent of the "Presbyterian," of which paper, after his return, he was acting editor from 1860 to 1861. In 1858 and 1859, he was acting professor of languages in Carroll College, Wis. After supplying the church in Sharon as acting pastor two years and more, he was installed as pastor May 28, 1868, and continued in that relation till May 31, 1879, highly esteemed and beloved by the churches and ministers of that region.

After his dismission, he resided in Lansingburg, N. Y., until his death from apoplexy of the heart, May 16, 1882. In 1871, Williams College gave him the degree of D.D., an honor which that college is not apt to confer without good reason.

At the time of his death, he was a member of Litchfield North Association.

He married Margaret, daughter of John and Mary Shiland, of Cambridge, N. Y., Nov. 12, 1846, who died with her infant daughter in 1847. Aug. 28, 1858, he married Lucy J., daughter of Titus and Anna Eddy of Troy, N. Y., who survives him with two children, Alice Blyth, and Charlotte Eddy; Jessie, the first born, having died in infancy.

Rev. Alvan Bond.

This aged, eminent, and devout servant of Christ, died at Norwich, July 19, 1882, having filled a long life with varied usefulness, and commended himself to the confidence and love of Christian scholars and workers in the various departments of effort for the world's conversion. On pages 17–20 of the Year Book for 1883, may be found the statistics of his life, and among the churches of this state, and especially in New London county, the fruits of his culture, piety, and zeal have been garnered. He was born in Sutton, Mass., April 27, 1793. His early studies were pursued at home, where, with the exception of a single term at Woodstock Academy, he fitted for college, and was graduated at Brown University in 1815. He studied theology at Andover Seminary, and was ordained as pastor at Sturbridge, Mass., Nov. 30, 1819. Here he labored about twelve years, when he was elected professor in Bangor Theological Seminary. He served there four years, and was invited to the pastorate of the Second church in Norwich. He was installed there May 6, 1835, and labored with great acceptance and usefulness as pastor of that church a little more than twenty-nine years. He was dismissed Dec. 28, 1864, and continued to reside in the city until his death. He wrote extensively for the press, and as author and editor made valuable contributions to religious literature. He was honored by his Alma Mater with the degree of D.D. in 1846, and held a high place in the ranks of Christian scholarship. He had buried three wives and five children; and five children were living when he was called to his rest in the nintieth year of his age. He was a member of New London Association.

Rev. Leverett Griggs.

The death of Dr. Griggs removed from the churches of Connecticut a scholar of solid attainments; a preacher of ability and force; a pastor of winning and wise ways; an adviser, counselor, and comforter of great practical tact and discernment. Taken all in all, as a minister of the gospel for the times in which he lived and labored, he possessed, in an unusual degree, the elements of solid worth, and the capacity for efficient service. His memory will be fondly cherished by many whom he instructed and comforted as their beloved pastor, in North Haven, in New Haven, in Millbury, Mass., and in Bristol. Here, after a fruitful ministry of more than twelve years, he remained without charge about fourteen years, beloved and cherished by the people with whom his grave was made, with every mark of loving remembrance.

By a severe asthmatic affection his labors were occasionally interrupted, and the change of field was sometimes made in the hope of relief from this malady. After resigning his pastorate in Bristol, he acted as agent of the American Education Society, and his heart was in his work. From 1835 onward, his published sermons, and articles for various periodicals, appeared at brief intervals until the year of his death, and he never failed as a writer to show point and vigor in the treatment of his subject. He received the degree of D.D. from Yale College in 1868, and no one questioned the fitness of this mark of his appreciation by his Alma Mater.

The vital statistics of the Congregational Year Book will give a more detailed account of Dr. Griggs, with dates and names, and there are deposited in Memorial Hall pleasant reminiscences of the man and his work. He was born in Tolland, Nov. 17, 1808 graduated at Yale College in 1829; served as tutor in the college, and studied theology in Yale Divinity School; was licensed by New Haven West Association in 1833, and was ordained as pastor at North Haven, Oct. 30 of that year. He died in Bristol, Jan. 28, 1883, and was at the time a member of Hartford Central Association.

Rev. Edgar Jared Doolittle.

Though the state of his health had prevented this servant of Christ from active labor several years before his death, a quiet, loving, trustful spirit, gave to the atmosphere about him no little power for good, and greatly endeared him to those with whom he was most intimately associated. He was a member of Middlesex Association, and his work as pastor was done chiefly in Hebron, where he was ordained May 18, 1842, and continued about eleven years, and Chester, where he was installed April 26, 1853, and labored six years. After a brief residence in Wallingford, he returned to Chester and served the church there as acting pastor from Oct. 10, 1861, until April, 1869. He then returned to Wallingford and resided there without pastoral charge, until his death, which occurred Feb. 1, 1883. He was born at New Haven, Oct. 19, 1810. He fitted for college at the academies in Cheshire and Ellington, and graduated at Yale in 1836. He was principal of the academy in Cromwell two years, and studied theology at Yale Seminary from 1838 to 1841. He was married June 8, 1842, to Jane Elizabeth, daughter of Isaac and Harriet Sage of Cromwell, and of their eight children, four were living at the time of his death. Mrs. Doolittle survived her husband, and received abundant proofs of the esteem in which he was held by his brethren. While a pastor he won the love and confidence of his people, and his ministrations were characterized by wisdom and affection.

Rev. William Metcalf Birchard.

Mr. Birchard was born in Bozrah, Feb. 14, 1810. He died in Montville, March 20, 1883. He had not been in active service as a pastor during several years, and was absent from the state, living in Washington, D. C., a part of this period. He graduated at Yale College in 1837, and completed the course of study at Andover Seminary in 1841. He preached for a while in Littleton, N. H., as a stated supply, and was ordained as pastor in Bozrah, Nov. 29, 1843. He was married, Dec. 8, 1843, to Mary, daughter of Royal and Sarah Bradford Whitman, by whom he had four sons and two daughters. In 1848, he was dismissed, and removed to Worcester, Mass. He served the church in Eastford as acting pastor in 1851, and the church in Hebron in 1852. He was installed as pastor in Broad Brook, Sept. 6, 1854, where he continued till Dec. 29, 1858. He served as stated supply in Agawam, Mass., from 1860 to 1863, and was installed pastor in Voluntown and Sterling, May 4, 1864. He continued in that relation until March 25, 1868. He served the church in Montville as a supply from April, 1868 to April, 1871, after which he resided in Washington, D. C., until 1879, when he returned to Montville and resided there until his death. He was a member of New London Association.

Rev. Loammi Ives Hoadly.

This venerable and faithful servant of Christ died in Shelton, within the town of Huntington, March 21, 1883. He was born in Northford, Oct. 25, 1790, and had therefore lived almost a century, performing varied and useful service for the church and the world. Few are permitted to live so long and enabled in the face of physical disability to accomplish so much valuable work. When able to preach he was heard with pleasure and profit. But his labors in the pulpit were interrupted by the state of his health. He graduated at Yale in 1817. He completed the course of study in Andover Seminary in 1821. The following year he assisted Dr. Wisner at the South church in Boston, and was ordained pastor of a church in Worcester, Mass., Oct. 15, 1823. He left this charge in 1829, and assisted in the department of Prof. Porter a few months at the Andover Seminary. He was installed as pastor at Bradford, Mass., Oct. 15, 1830, but soon resigned from inability to use his voice, and removed to Charlestown, Mass., where he engaged in editorial labors, and was associated with Dr. Jenks for several years in putting in order the "Comprehensive Commentary." In 1844, he returned to Northford, and was for several years without any pastoral charge. After this he preached in North Guilford, and from 1850 to 1853 in Orono, Me. From 1854 to 1857, he supplied a pulpit in Auburn, Mass. From 1858 to 1865, he preached in Craftsbury, Vt. In 1866, he relinquished preaching and resided in New Haven until the death of his wife in 1872. He then found a pleasant home with a married daughter in Shelton, where he died. Sept. 22, 1824, he was married to Lydia Smith of Northford, sister to Dr. Eli Smith, the missionary. Of their five children, three survived the father; one son and two daughters. Mr. Hoadly was a member of New Haven West Association at the time of his death.

Rev. Nathaniel Greene Bonney.

All who have ever enjoyed the acquaintance of this conscientious and amiable servant of Christ, will think of the apostle John, rather than of Peter and Paul, when his name is mentioned. To a very moderate estimate of his own abilities was added a strong desire to add to his capacity for usefulness, and improve to the utmost the talents which he possessed. It was perhaps the undue pressure of this desire upon his weakened physical nature that brought on that sleeplessness and exhaustion of which he died in the Asylum in Hartford, April 12, 1883. He was the son of Nathaniel and Jane Gibson Bonney, and was born in Marshfield, Mass.. May 30, 1834. His preparatory studies were pursued at Fall River High School, and he graduated at Brown University in 1856. His theological studies were completed at Andover in 1862, and he was ordained pastor at Peru, Mass., May 26, 1864. He continued in this office till June, 1868. In July of that year he commenced service as acting pastor of the church of Poquonock, where he continued laboring until April 1, 1873. On the 17th of September following he was installed pastor of the church in Falls Village, where he continued till June 14, 1876. On the 26th of the November following he was installed at East Hartland, where he labored till Nov. 26, 1878. He began his work in Hanover, Dec. 1, 1878, and continued there with a zeal and earnestness which consumed his power of endurance at the age of forty-nine. He was married, April 25, 1865, to Sarah, daughter of Alexander and Sarah Foote Ingham of Middlefield, Mass. He left two children. Mr. Bonney was a member of New London Association.

Rev. Lewis Pennell.

The early part of Mr. Pennell's life and ministry was spent in home missionary work in Maine. He was born in Brunswick, Me., Feb. 19, 1803, and graduated at Bowdoin College in 1830. He was ordained in Brunswick, Sept. 17, 1833, and labored as a missionary among the churches of Maine until 1836, when he went to the west and south doing missionary work during the two years following. In 1839, he was installed pastor of a church in Northbridge, Mass. He continued in that service until 1843, when he removed to Weston, Conn., and served the church there as acting pastor from 1844 to 1849. He was installed as pastor of the church in New Fairfield, Conn., in 1849, and served in that capacity until 1853. In 1854, he was installed as pastor at West Stockbridge, Mass., and served there until 1869, after which he resided in the place without charge until 1879, and then removed to Southport, Conn., where he died, May 22, 1883. He was a member of Fairfield West Association.

Rev. Elias Huntington Richardson.

Baptized in his father's arms, at the bedside of his dying mother, when about two years of age, and often referring to that scene as distinctly remembered in his later years, Dr. Richardson seemed all his life long to be ruled by a serious, earnest spirit, which could not throw off the sense of eternal things. The old-time Puritan element was seen quite often in his bearing among men, as well it might be, with the blood of Brewster and Huntington coursing through his veins from the mother's side, and the blood of the Chases coming in through the father's line, to quicken conviction and spur to action. His boyhood was spent at home, where on his father's farm in Lebanon, N. H., he acquired habits of industry, economy, and Christian living, which were the frame-work of his character. At the age of fourteen, he was specially moved by the Holy Spirit's influence, and united with the church. His pastor took special interest in him, and by his advice young Richardson fitted for college with the ministry in view. With only a very limited amount of aid from his father, whose circumstances would not justify a larger allowance, he worked his way through college and the seminary, and by this discipline was prepared for that life of zealous toil in the Master's vineyard, which was so fruitful in good works.

He was the son of Daniel and Mary Huntington Richardson, and was born in Lebanon, N. H., Aug. 11, 1827. He graduated at Kimball Union Academy in 1846, and at Dartmouth College in 1850. He completed his theological course at Andover in 1853, and was ordained pastor at Goffstown, N. H., May 18, 1854. He was dismissed from this charge, Oct. 30, 1856, and in December of the same year was installed pastor at Dover, N. H. On the 17th of November, 1863, he was dismissed from this charge, and on the 30th of December following was installed pastor in Providence, R. I. Here he labored till April 2, 1867, and on the first of May following was made pastor in Westfield, Mass. This relation was dissolved April 5, 1872, and on the 24th of the same month he was installed as pastor in Hartford. He continued in this relation till Jan. 1, 1879, and on the 7th of the same month was installed as pastor in New Britain, where he died June 27, 1883, of pneumonia, after a brief and hard struggle with that disease. He received the degree of D.D. from his Alma Mater in 1876. On the 15th of May, 1854, he was married to Jane Maria, daughter of Benjamin and Hannah Roberts Stevens, of Plainfield, N. H. Of their five sons, four survived him. Mr. Richardson was a member of Hartford South Association.

Rev. Edward Ezra Lamb.

This zealous and devoted minister of the gospel was born at Heath, Mass, June 5, 1835. He was the son of Ezra and Lucretia White Lamb, both of that place. He commenced his studies at Arms Academy, Shelburne Falls, Mass., and graduated at Ohio Wesleyan University in 1858. He commenced the study of Hebrew at that university and continued it under the direction of Rev. John Hart at Ravenna, Ohio. He was ordained without charge, Sept. 5, 1859, and was installed pastor of the Congregational church in Rootstown, Ohio, Sept. 5, 1862. He attended lectures in Andover Theological Seminary as a resident licentiate in 1869, and was installed pastor of the Congregational church in Shelburne Falls, Mass., Dec. 15, 1869. He was dismissed from this charge, July 6, 1875, and installed pastor of the Congregational church in Collinsville, Dec. 16 of the same year. He continued in this relation until May 28, 1882, when he was dismissed and removed to Springfield, Mass. He supplied the church in Agawam, Mass., several months, and removed to that place in January, 1883, to serve them as pastor-elect. About the middle of February, he became entirely prostrated by disease, and died in Agawam, July 21, 1883. He married Miss Julia A. Oakley, of Ravenna, Ohio, who was, at last accounts, residing in Steubenville, Ohio. They had no children. Mr. Lamb has published occasional sermons, and for a time edited a small paper entitled "The Young Disciple," in which were printed several of his sermons and short poems from his pen. He was a member of Litchfield North Association.

Church anniversaries.

The Fourth church in Hartford reached in its history the fiftieth year from the date of its organization on the 10th of January, 1882. Various pleasant and appropriate exercises were held in recognition of this fact, and a pamphlet was published in the form of a manual, giving the prominent incidents of its history, a copy of which is in Memorial Hall.

The church in Collinsville reached its fiftieth anniversary on the 25th of June, 1882, and the occasion was marked by a public service, the exercises of which are sketched in a printed pamphlet, of which a copy is also in the Hall.

The Mohegan church in Montville was half a century old July 1, 1882, but if any commemorative services were held the reports and records have not been sent to the annalist.

The church in Westford reached its semi-centennial July 5, 1882, but no public account of the observance of their anniversary has been received.

The Third church in Torrington observed the semi-centennial of its history, July 11, 1882, with appropriate services, in which the neighboring churches participated, the more important parts of which were put in a convenient form for preservation, and are deposited in Memorial Hall.

The church in Westville reached its fiftieth year of organized life Dec. 25, 1882, and the occasion was observed with peculiar interest under the direction of the beloved pastor, Rev. James L. Willard, who for more than half that period has served them in that relation.

The centennial of the church in North Stamford was observed June 6, 1882, and special interest was manifested in the occasion by the neighboring churches and ministers; the Rev. Samuel Scoville successfully urging the effort to remove a somewhat troublesome debt. The occasion was greatly enjoyed by all.

The first day of January, 1883, was the date of the semi-centennial of the Third church in Norwich, but no account of any special observance of the day has reached the annalist.

The church in Redding took special note of the fact that March, 1883, completed one hundred and fifty years of its history, and the exercises of the occasion were varied and full of interest.

The church in New Canaan reached the centennial of its organized life June 20, 1883, and the occasion was made most interesting and profitable to the people of that and the neighboring towns by large preparations and a very happy arrangement of parts in the service.

The First church in Hartford observed the 11th of October, 1883, as the completion of its two hundred and fiftieth year of church life, and made the occasion memorable by a succession of most interesting exercises, fitted to awaken and foster the historic spirit and promote a regard for the memory of the fathers, and for the foundations which they laid for the perpetuity of this Christian state.

The Talcott Street church in Hartford was organized fifty years ago the 28th day of last August. If any notice was taken of the day the facts have not been given to the annalist.

On the 26th of this month the church in Burlington will be one hundred years old. The church in Southbury was organized in 1783, and the church in Enfield in 1683. If any notice is taken by these churches of the facts just named, they are requested to send to the annalist all documents, written or printed, which may serve to illustrate their history.

Memorial Hall.

This convenient and useful center of co-operative work is now self-sustaining, and has during the year been enriched by valuable contributions of books, pamphlets, records, and memorials. A list of items will be given in my report to the Directors at the close of the year. The following persons have contributed to its stock of valuable matter during the year: Stanley Kellogg, Sylvester Hine, George J. Harrison, Mrs. Martha T. Hill, Mrs. Wm. E. Bassett, John E. Elliott, George Langdon, George I. Wood, T. L. Shipman, and Mrs. Robert McEwen. The gift of Mrs. McEwen was a large collection of pamphlets, periodicals, reports, and papers from the library of her husband, the Rev. Robert McEwen of New London, whose interest in the Hall was manifested while living by the gift of a hundred dollars towards its purchase, as a memorial of his father, Rev. Abel McEwen of New London. Father and son were natives of this state, and eminent among the ministers of our denomination, but as the son was not at the time of his death a member of an association in this state, the sketch of his life does not, by the rule adopted, belong in my report. He died in New London, Aug. 29, 1883.

Besides these additions to the library of the Hall, the Hon. Simeon E. Baldwin of New Haven, has sent to the treasury a gift of twenty-five dollars, and Roland Mather, Esq., of Hartford, has placed in the Hall a bronze model of the Pilgrim monument at Plymouth. The agent, though sorely restricted by lack of funds for this purpose, has procured a crayon portrait of the Rev. Joel Hawes and the Rev. Leonard Bacon, who served the churches of Connecticut so long and so efficiently in two of the historic pulpits of the state. A valuable memorial of Dr. Bacon, in convenient form, has been placed in the Hall by the Rev. Dr. Walker, and it is hoped that a similar tribute to the memory of Dr. Hawes will in due time accompany his portrait. This is the beginning of what we hope to make an attractive and inspiring treasure-house of noble examples for the study of all Christian workers in our state. If the churches redeem the pledge they gave, in receiving the Memorial Hall building from the liberal donors, means will be at command for other useful purposes named in the constitution of the estate.

Total, $3,606.79.

Disbursements.—To William H. Moore, secretary, for circulars, $9.65; postage, $19.78—$29.43. To Ward W. Jacobs, treasurer, salary for 1882, $100.00. Twenty beneficiaries, $3,008.75. Total, $3,138.18.

Remainder, Dec. 31, 1882, $468.61.

In 1882, we aided five ministers, nine widows, and six orphan daughters of ministers, but were able to give them only 73 per cent. of what was reasonably asked of us.

One of these beneficiaries, Miss Harriette Esther Cook, daughter of Rev. Elisha B. Cook, pastor at Manchester, March 3, 1814, till he died there, July 11, 1823, died at the Insane Retreat, Middletown, July 2, 1882, aged 61.

In 1864–1882, our net receipts have amounted to $52,527.43, which have been disposed of as follows: beneficiaries, $47,547.43; invested by will of donor, $3,000; expenses, $1,511.39; remainder, $468.61.

It is a becoming thing for these churches of Connecticut, which have been so edified and comforted by the preaching of the word, and so prospered of God, to make provision for the relief of the few ministers and families of ministers among them who come to want; particularly, in remembrance of Him who will say, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

By order of the Trustees.

WILLIAM H. MOORE, Secretary.

V.—SECOND ANNUAL REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF CONNECTICUT.

The Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut present the following as their second annual report, being for the year 1882:

Obituary.

At our meeting in June, the following minute was adopted:

Resolved, That, as it has pleased God, since the last meeting of this board, to remove by sudden death one of its members, John B. Eldredge, we recognize in this event the loss of a valued friend, a wise counselor, and a devoted officer of the Missionary Society of Connecticut, who, in all his intercourse with us, has endeared himself to us all; and that we would record, with special admiration and gratitude, his generous gifts not only to the cause which we have in charge, but to many other Christian enterprises, and our desire that his good example may be blessed to many.

The record and condition for the year of each of the four trusts committed to us are as follows:

I. Western Work.

Commissions and grants.

Commissions and grants for 1882 were voted as follows:

Rev. Ephraim Adams, superintendent, Iowa, Jan.–Dec.,	$400
Rev. George H. Atkinson, superintendent, Oregon and Washington Territory, Jan.–Dec.,	400
Rev. Addison Blanchard, superintendent, Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, July–Dec.,	200
Rev. Franklin B. Doe, superintendent, Wisconsin, Jan.–Dec.,	400
Rev. Delavan L. Leonard, superintendent, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Jan.–Dec.,	400
Rev. Charles W. Merrill, superintendent, Nebraska, Jan.–Dec.,	400
Rev. Luman P. Rose, general missionary, Indiana, Jan.–Dec.,	400
Rev. Stewart Sheldon, superintendent, Dakota, Jan.–Dec.,	400
Rev. Sylvester D. Storrs, superintendent, Kansas, Jan.–Dec.,	400
Rev. Leroy Warren, superintendent, Michigan, Jan.–Dec.,	400

As Iowa assumed self-support in June, Mr. Adams resigned his commission at the close of that month. These ten brethren—nine superintendents and one general missionary—having charge of an area 273 times as large as Connecticut, accomplished nine years of labor. As their work is reported in The Home Missionary, it need not be detailed here. It gives us pleasure, however, to say that we are abundantly satisfied with their diligence, fidelity, and usefulness in their several fields.

Finances.

Receipts.—Remainder from 1881, $1,897.39; income, $3,264.00—$5,161.39.

Disbursements.—To William H. Moore, secretary, postage, $3.36. To twelve laborers—eleven superintendents and one general missionary—in part for claims from 1881, as follows:

The entire amount received by both societies from Connecticut makes an average of $1.92 for each church member. But this amount includes boxes, which pay none of the expenses of either society, and also legacies. The contributions of the living in money to carry on the regular operations of the two societies were $26,699.12, or an average of forty-nine cents for each church

Of the thirty-four churches to which grants were voted in 1882, twenty-four had funds to an aggregate of $50,727; ten had pastors, twenty-three had acting pastors and one had a stated preacher. The average salary proposed to be paid by the aid asked of us was $673. Thirty churches reported the salary paid promptly. Two churches reported debts to an aggregate of $2,007. The average amount of the taxable property of these churches, counting only that of their resident members, was $21,976; and the average per centage paid by the churches on said property was .01078. All but five complied with the one per cent. rule, and they were made exceptions for "causes shown."

These churches had, January 1, 1883, a membership of 754 males, and 1,419 females, in all, 2,173, including 428 absentees; or an average of 64 members for each church. In 1882, the additions were 43 by profession, and 29 by letter, in all, 72; and the removals were 46 by death, 38 by letter, and 2 by discipline, in all, 86. The removals exceeded the additions by 14, and the deaths exceeded the professions by 3. Twenty-three adults were baptized, and fifteen children. Twenty-six churches, with 1,644 members, baptized no child, and eighteen churches with 1,117 members added none by profession, and lost twenty-seven by death. The Sunday-schools enrolled 2,640, and the congregations embraced 1,674 families.

The averages of pastoral visits for a quarter in the several parishes ranged from 12 to 130, and the common average for a quarter was 41.

Every church had a weekly prayer-meeting, with interruptions in some cases. The averages of attendance at these meetings in the several parishes ranged from 3 to 31, and the common average was 15.

Twenty-three churches had a monthly concert for a part or the whole of the year, and eleven had none. The charities were $2,074.10, or 95 cents for each church member, and 30 per cent. of the amount disbursed to these churches in 1882.

In 1882, Mr. Moore visited one conference and thirty-seven churches, and in this service made seventy addresses.

General summary.

The amount of the four trusts, at market value, December 31, 1882, was as follows: Western Work, $55,431.57; Everest Fund, $8,996.53; Memorial Hall Estate, $30,598.85; State Work, $4,514.57—$99,541.52.

Including Western Work, the whole amount raised in Connecticut, for home missions, was $108,461.49; the whole amount spent in Connecticut was $9,655.59; and the whole amount sent out of the state was $98,295.04.

Conclusion.

We congratulate the society and the churches that by the favor of God on the persevering and well-directed efforts of those having the matter in charge, we have, at length, an official home, a valuable property, clear of incumbrance, easy of access. and convenient for use for the general work of our denomination in this state; that we have in trust a fund whose inccme aids indigent theological students raised up among us in their preparation for the ministry; that the assistance which for two generations we have been administering to feeble churches, old and new, in this state, is grandly vindicated by its results; that our home missionary fund, yielding several thousands annually, is helping to support the best men the national society can secure to superintend great districts of its operations; that for ninety years our people have been contributing for the evangelization of the ever-enlarging frontier with a steadily-increasing liberality; that of the members of our churches who die from year to year, averaging about a thousand annually, so many leave bequests for this cause; that the incentives for this service, whether for Connecticut or the whole land, were never of a higher order than now; that our relations with the national society are most cordial; and that they and we are of one mind in regard to the care of this commonwealth, and the work of the gospel for the dependent portions of our country, Florida and Alaska, and the regions between.

We invite all to give for this work as the Lord prospers them; those of moderate means, of their frugality; those of adequate resources, of their competency; and the affluent, of their abunddance, until our entire land, with its multiplying and heterogeneous millions, is blessed with the institutions of the gospel.

By order of the Directors.

VI.—REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FELLOWSHIP AND WORK.

By vote of the General Conference at its session of 1875, it was declared to be the duty of the committee on fellowship and work, "to consider, devise, and propose to the ministers and churches such measures as it deems expedient for promoting the fellowship and efficiency of our churches in all matters of common interest." In December of the same year, the following rule was adopted by the committee, setting forth more specifically the nature and intent of their work: "Particularly, each member should endeavor to gather from the churches and ministers which he represents full and reliable information respecting the Christian work done in their parishes, the means employed to promote the fellowship of neighboring churches, and the efforts put forth to reach and save those who neglect the ordinary means of grace."

In accordance with these instructions, your committee has endeavored to gather information concerning the work accomplished by our churches along the recognized lines of Christian service. Surely, if this work is done thoroughly, there can be no more important and interesting feature of this annual gathering than the consideration of the substance of such a report. For it touches upon interests that affect the life and efficiency of our churches. We are greatly interested in what has been accomplished since we last met together. We want to know what "a sanctified common sense" is devising, and whether new plans of service are vindicating themselves to be of God. We want to know what burdens others are bearing; what occasions there are for rejoicing. If it appear that but little or nothing is being accomplished, that, "it is much the same as last year," "no progress," that "the deaths exceed the conversions," it is important that we should know it. These are useful lessons for us in any case. When we return to our churches and report what we have here heard, there is nothing in eloquent sermon or profound essay, useful and instructive though it be, that will so interest the people as the report of practical things accomplished and suggested in the way of saving and edifying, in the way of giving, in the way of Sunday-school work and temperance work, in the way of reaching the unsaved, outside of our own congregations. The committee are gratified that there is opportunity at this Conference for the consideration of these practical and important matters.

Circulars were distributed early in August, asking for the latest information of what has been accomplished during the year. The desire of the committee was not so much to gather full and exact statistics, such as are tabulated every year by our statistical secretary, but rather to obtain fresh facts setting forth, as far as possible, the practical efficiency of our churches during this year of grace; to learn what was gathered in along the months of harvest, in winter, and spring, and early summer. While we recognize the fact that these reports are necessarily partial and unsatisfactory, that many of the very best efforts produce results which cannot be spread out before the eye, nor tabulated nor even known till the revelations of the great day, yet there do appear certain cheering and instructive facts and figures, certain plans and methods which indicate that God 'remembereth his mercy and his truth toward the house of Israel.'

1. Spiritual condition. The year past has not been characterized by revivals, at least in any large and remarkable way. The additions by profession, in the year 1882, exceeded the removals by death by 213. The total additions by profession and letter exceeded the total removals by death and otherwise, by 65. Forty-one churches received accessions by profession in numbers ranging from ten to forty each. Since January 1, of the present year, nine churches report an addition of 314 by profession, or an average of 35 to each of these churches. "Of the 43 added to the church in Groton, the majority were men and women past middle life." The church in Bloomfield rejoices in an extensive work of grace, which has added 40 to its membership. One of the results is an organization of young men called, "The Young Men's Christian Brotherhood," which numbers about 40, and holds a well-attended service every Wednesday evening. In the church in Enfield, in which 38 have been added by profession, it is said that "the way of the Lord had been in a measure prepared by the ladies' prayer-meeting, and a meeting of Christian school-girls which had been marked by unwonted earnestness all through the previous summer and autumn." During the week of prayer, there was a manifest deepening of interest, and three special evening meetings were held each week, from the middle of January to the middle of March, which were all under charge of the pastor, and "which were characterized by quiet, but deep and powerful feeling." In Glastonbury there was interest of the same general character, both as to results and means employed. In both churches happy effects have been seen all through the summer, in increased attendance upon the regular meetings and services of the churches. The pastor in Plantsville writes: "A marked interest prevailed last winter, resulting in the quickening of many souls to new effort, and in the turning of quite a number to the Lord. The special interest was a quiet one and was carried forward by the united efforts of pastor and people. The good fruits largely remain to the present. Twenty-five persons, quite a number of them heads of families, have united with the church." The pastor in Southington writes: "There has been some special interest. Extra meetings were held for religious inquiry and the instruction of young converts with undiminished attendance from the beginning of the new year till near the opening of summer." Twenty-one have been added to the church.

Seventy-six churches from nine conferences report 931 additions by profession. As these are only about one-fourth of our whole number of churches, and as the total additions of last year by profession from all the churches were but 286 in excess of this, it is manifest that there has been a cheering advance, so far as figures can indicate it, upon the showing of one year ago. The reports for the most part breathe a refreshing spirit of loyal waiting and serving. Some of them are fragrant with longings for the Spirit's anointing. One report says, "The present result affords abundant cause for gratitude to God. Surely the Lord hath visited His people. The spiritual drouth which has so long famished the churches of this conference is passing away." A pastor in this same conference writes, "I hope we may do something worthy of our blessings during the past year." With a single exception, so far as reported, the special services were conducted without calling in outside help.

2. The benevolence. We expected favorable reports here. The annual meetings of our missionary societies, notably those of the Home Missionary Society, American Board, and American Missionary Association, indicated quite "a revival in benevolence" somewhere. We were sure our churches must have had a hand in it; and behold, they have had! The suggestion that we liken our piety to the sponge, and not the fountain, did not take generally. Reports indicate an increase of systematic giving, with an increase of both givers and gifts. The missionary conventions held during the winter and spring at prominent points throughout the state, and arranged for by our secretary, were, doubtless, helpful toward increased and intelligent giving.

The system of weekly offerings by envelopes seems to be growing in favor with our churches. From one conference we learn that "the weekly offering in some form is in use in a majority of the churches, and works admirably." In another "the benevolences of the churches are gathered quite generally by means of the envelope system, and by boxes at the church door, and reports indicate quite an advance on those of the preceding year." In another, "several of the churches have adopted the system of weekly offerings as a part of church service, and the contributions in two churches have doubled since last year." In another, "the giving in our churches is steadily on the increase." Still another conference reports "five churches as using the envelope system for benevolence, with gifts encouragingly large." One church reports under this system, for the fourth year of its operation, 325 pledged givers, resulting in more than double of previous gifts. One church says: "We take a regular monthly collection for benevolent purposes, but we feel obliged to use all we can raise to keep ourselves from becoming bankrupt." This policy is very human, but it lacks divine sanction. It has not the merit of success. "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth." "The more we give the more we live." Has there not been some connection between bringing the tithes into the store-house, and the spiritual uplift that has come to so many of our churches? Your committee would suggest that some system of weekly offering for benevolence, if wisely and faithfully administered, might elevate and improve the whole business of giving, increasing the number of givers, sweetening the service by putting it in line with the Sabbath worship of praise and prayer, adapting it so that the poor and the rich, the young and the old, all classes and conditions, can unite in regular offerings unto the Lord.

Moreover, your committee wish to urge the importance, whatever system of benevolence is adopted, of keeping the people informed regarding the pressing claims of our leading missionary societies, and the needs of the world which they represent. And we wish to emphasize the fact, of which mention has been made, "that the fountain of all Christian giving, as of all Christian character and life, is Jesus Christ." "He that abideth in me," said the Master, "and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit."

3. Temperance work. This department of our work, although embracing interests that are vital and far-reaching, affords the least satisfactory report. The responses are very general, but they all indicate profound convictions that something ought to be done. In most of our churches there is a lack of persistent and organized effort. In nearly all, the pastors preach occasionally on the subject. Temperance literature is circulated in several of the Sunday-schools. "In two towns the 'Youth's Temperance Banner' is distributed monthly among the children of the public schools. Many children, with the worst home influences, are thus reached with wholesome instruction." "Two churches, by their pastors and members, have labored earnestly to carry 'no license' and to create and sustain a correct public sentiment against the liquor traffic. Both the open saloons and obscure hiding-places of the liquor-sellers have been well-nigh rooted out, with a marked improvement in public morals." One pastor speaks of "the effective work which a few earnest women are doing by providing occasional lectures and keeping open a reading-room every evening." Another says, "We keep gospel temperance before the people all the time, to make intemperance to be accounted disreputable and criminal, to save the children and have the next generation right and temperate. This is our effort and expectation." In several towns union temperance meetings are held; in one place "in the Town Hall, with great enthusiasm."

The committee would suggest the importance of Christian activity in this direction, by keeping constantly before the people important facts and principles, thus shaping the sentiments and moving the convictions by gradual and inevitable process; and thus creating a healthful public sentiment which shall demand the suppression of this dire evil.

4. Sunday-school work. There is one interesting fact gleaned from the reports. Nearly all the additions to the churches for the past year are from the Sunday-school. Another thing is manifest from the majority of these reports. The fear is not well-grounded that our Sunday-schools are leading children away from the church. The report from Middlesex conference indicates the drift of things. "Our schools are generally supported by the churches, and collections go to outside benevolent work." The pastor of a church in New Haven East Association says "nearly all the church and a good part of the congregation are in the Sunday-school." This seems rather the exception than the rule, whereas it ought to be the rule. There are multitudes in our churches and congregations that need the Sunday-school, and the Sunday-school needs them. It affords a much-needed opportunity for Bible study and for Christian service, both of which are important factors in developing Christian character.

There is evidently a need of bringing our Sunday-school work into more vital and visible relation with our churches. There are suggestive facts of what other denominations are doing in this direction.

Six years ago the Presbyterian Church established the Sunday-school work as a separate department, and placed it under the care of a general superintendent, who was to have charge of and give direction to this work throughout that denomination. The result has been that their Sunday-schools have come almost universally under the control and care of their churches, and make report annually to the presbytery to which they belong, and send their benevolent offerings through their own wisely-administered agencies. "158 of their 165 presbyteries have assumed the duty and responsibility of overseeing the Sunday-school work within their bounds." The consequence has been that the additions to their churches have been steadily increasing, and in the judgment of those who ought to know, "the cause of this favorable showing, so far as it may be traced to human agency, lies in the new vigor which has been imparted to their Sunday-schools."

Eighteen years ago the Methodist-Episcopal Church placed their Sunday-school work under the care of a general superintendent, Rev. Dr. Vincent. It is wonderful to read the tabulated statements of conversions and additions to their churches and moneys contributed and good accomplished, during these years. The annual average of reported conversions in the last fifteen years has risen from 19,000 to 88,000.

How has it been with us? The total additions to the Congregational churches of the United States, in 1877, were about 24,000. For the next three years there was a gradual falling off at the rate of twenty-five per cent., for four successive years, until last year, when the tide seems to have turned. In 1882, the number increased by 2,000, and the present indications are said to be very hopeful for a still greater increase this current year. The favorable feature of it is, that the increased attention given latterly to this department of our work is already bearing fruit. The churches of our own order in other states have already organized a Sunday-school department of their work. "In Illinois, a special committee was appointed in each of the twelve local associations to gather statistics, encourage more active efforts, and direct the attention of the churches to their Sunday-schools. The matter was thoroughly discussed in every association. The reports of this year show an increase of seventy five per cent in the additions to the churches from the Sunday-schools in that state." The General Association of Massachusetts appointed a Sabbath school committee, whose duty it is to promote Sabbath-school interests in Congregational churches throughout the state, gather statistics, and make annual report to the General Association.

Your committee feel that it is time for us to give special attention to this important and hopeful part of our work. For the past fifteen years, from 1867–1882, the General Conference has had the matter of Sunday-schools before it only twice—in 1876, in a paper by Rev. Burdett Hart on, "The relation of the Sunday-school work to the churches"—and in 1878, in a paper by W. R. Burnham of Norwich, on "The Sunday-school" The General Conference printed neither of these papers in the "Minutes," nor in "Conference Papers," and neither of them resulted in any action or resolution on the part of this body. Moreover, your committee recognize the fact that we have have a "Congregational Sunday-school and Publishing Society" that has in charge important missionary work in new and destitute settlements, and has in charge also the publishing and circulating of a valuable literature, essential in carrying on successfully our work as a denomination. The reports from our churches indicate that but very few of them understand or appreciate the claims of this society.

We would recommend the resolutions which are appended to this report, for adoption by this body. See p. 475.

5. In regard to "fellowship meetings," the reports are favorable. In the conferences and consociations where they have been held, they were in most cases largely attended, and with spiritual profit. As their name indicates, the primal purpose of these meetings is to give practical expression to the sentiment of Christian fellowship and fraternal sympathy among neighboring churches, with a view to mutual helpfulness in spiritual things. The principle is vital in our polity. "Each one for himself," is not the best motto for a Christian church. Another object of these meetings is the promotion of a revival interest and the reaching of those outside the ordinary means of grace. There are indications that these meetings the past winter were helpful in some quarters toward quickening the piety and consecration of those who attended. One report says, "May these meetings not be made one powerful means of reviving religion in all our churches? To this end they must be preceded and attended with earnest prayer for the mighty working in them of the Holy Spirit." The urgent hope is expressed from many sources, that group meetings be held the coming season throughout the state.

There is one very marked feature in nearly all the reports—a good degree of financial prosperity and an almost entire absence of debt. This is a favorable token if it be attended and followed by an "intenser seeking of the kingdom of God and his righteousness."

In conclusion. While there is much in this review that is encouraging, your committee feel that there is an especial need of a more earnest looking to and waiting upon God, for the anointing of the Holy Spirit As if to call us and encourage us to this, there are already here and there evidences of the special quickenings of the Holy Spirit. One member of this committee, absent to-day because the state of things at home requires his presence and labor, writes: "We have had quite a number—it would be premature to say how many—hopeful conversions, and we are looking for greater things. Pray that we may not be disappointed." God give us all longings for better things, and that consecrated service that shall properly interpret the longings.

In accordance with the recommendation of the National Council at Concord, our churches quite generally have observed in some sort the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of Martin Luther. Some of the great principles that were triumphantly vindicated by the great German reformer have been, in a very timely and forceful way, restated and re-applied. Your committee feel that the needs of the hour are a new incarnation of those primal principles in which the cradle of Protestantism was rocked. An intenser life for the individual in connection with personal liberty and loyalty to God—an appeal to the Scriptures more than to creeds and councils—the power of a living and personal faith, of deep, burning convictions, of outflaming zeal and enthusiasm in the work of the Lord—these and other qualities essential to effective service for Christ and his churches, are in some quarters, at least, taking hold of our ministers and members.

Since we last met, two of the pastors of our churches have been taken from us. They were both in the meridian of their life, and in the full tide of their usefulness—Nathaniel G. Bonney, of Hanover, and Elias H. Richardson, of New Britain. They both illustrated the spirit of which we have just spoken. "A prominent characteristic of Mr. Bonney," says Rev. W. B. Clarke, in the funeral address, "was his earnestness. He took a very serious view of life. He was a man who could be relied upon as good for all he appeared, and more." As an illustration of this, it is reported that at the time of his death he had produced a translation of his own, of a large part of the Old Testament. When a large colony of Germans settled in the village, he undertook to master the German language, and had made remarkable progress, before all his plans for earthly usefulness were ended. Of Dr. Richardson we all know. He was a man of profound convictions, of increasing vigor of intellect, of fervid consecration, flaming continually with a zeal for his Master that was consuming him. He knew the blessedness of the pure in heart who see God here and in heaven. At the last meeting of the Central Conference, in which he was an active and valuable member, the report says: "We miss to-day the spare, frail-looking form of one whom we loved to meet, and whose fervent words often stirred the depths of our spirits. Not a few felt the wonderful spiritual power of the sermon he preached less than a year ago, on following Christ, and the one which he preached the year before on 'The constant presence of Christ with his people.' Last winter and spring was with him a time of special growth and nearness to Christ. Some of us then felt that God was fitting him either for more effective service on earth, or for the more effective service of heaven."

> "The soft memory of his virtues yet lingers, > Like twilight hues when the bright sun is set."

There have been eight deaths among our ministers during the year.

STATISTICS.

EXPLANATIONS.

In the tables of the associations, ministerial ages are reckoned to January 1. 1884. Post-offices are not given in these tables, but with the alphabetical list of ministers.

In the tables of the constituent bodies of the General Conference, some non-consociated churches, for convenience of representation, are counted with consociations to which they do not belong.

In the tables of the churches, the towns are given in alphabetical order, and the churches in the towns in the order of age. The tables present the statistics of the churches for 1883, and their condition as to membership, Sunday-schools and families, on the morning of January 1, 1884. The first column gives towns, names, and the initials of counties; the second gives the date of organization, so far as known; the third gives, according to latest information, the names of ministers with years of ordination. The next three columns show whether the ministers are pastors, acting pastors, or stated preachers; whether the pastors were settled by ordination or installation; when the relationship began; and how many years, reckoning to January 1, 1884, it has continued.

"In designating in our Minutes the relations of non installed ministers to the churches which, for a length of time, they are engaged to serve, those shall be recognized as acting pastors (a. p.) who perform the work of a pastor; and those who simply serve the churches on the Sabbath, and on other special occasions, and who do not reside within nor near the parish in which those churches are located, shall be recognized as stated preachers (s. p.)" A star prefixed to a minister's name shows that, January 1, 1884, he was not a member of any district association in this state. The abbreviations, Bap., Meth., Presb., etc., after the names of ministers, show to what denominations they belong. The word

"none" in the column of ministers, does not mean, in every case, that the church is without preaching, but only that it has no pastor, acting pastor, nor stated preacher, nor a licentiate hired for any considerable time; it may have different preachers at intervals, or from Sabbath to Sabbath, or a preacher without regular ministerial standing.

The column of excommunicated includes, also, those from whom watch and care have been withdrawn for long absence, or other reasons. The column of Sabbath-schools gives the whole number in Sabbath-schools, home and mission, January 1, 1884, including officers and teachers. The column of families states the whole number of families in the flock, but does not include those reached by missionary efforts.

In the tables of charities, the first column after the names of the churches shows how much was given for the Fund for Ministers. The next seven columns show how much was given for each of the national Congregational charitable societies and objects connected with them. The next column shows how much was given for all other charities. The next column gives the total charities, so far as ascertained. The last column shows the amount of charitable legacies paid. The charities and legacies paid are for the year 1883. A blank shows that the question is not answered.

REMARKS.

THE ASSOCIATIONS.—January 1, 1884, the fifteen district associations reported 383 members, of whom 74 were residing out of the state. The average ministerial age was 23 years; in Litchfield North and Naugatuck Valley, it was 16, and in New Haven East it was 30 years. The list consisted of 1 home missionary, 2 city missionaries, 2 chaplains, 3 editors, 3 missionaries of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, 5 stated preachers, 7 teachers, 11 officers and agents of charitable institutions and societies, 17 officers in colleges and theological seminaries, 104 having no charge, 113 pastors, and 115 acting pastors.

The large number having no charge included some in secular pursuits, candidates for ministerial work, and aged persons, and the average ministerial age of the whole was 32 years.

In 1883, 28 were licensed; 61 licentiates were responsible to the district associations, January 1, 1884.

THE CONFERENCES AND CONSOCIATIONS.—There are 13 conferences and 4 consociations which send delegates to the General Conference; and through these 17 bodies all the churches in the state are represented in the General Conference, except Pawcatuck, in Stonington, which belongs to Rhode Island Conference, and is called Westerly in their roll.

THE CHURCHES.—The annual statistics report contributions, legacies, baptisms, and changes in membership in 1883, and families and membership in churches and Sunday-schools, January 1, 1884. The number of churches, January 1, 1884, was 298. The statistics of all are given.

MINISTERS.—January 1, 1884, 44 churches had no ministers, in the sense of having neither pastor, acting pastor, nor stated preacher, though all these churches but one were served regularly, or for part of the year, by ministers, or licentiates, employed from Sabbath to Sabbath or for a longer period; 10 had stated preachers; 122 had acting pastors; 122 had pastors. In two cases two churches united in employing one minister. The average term of stated preachers was 1 year; of acting pastors, 3 years; of pastors, 8 years.

Of the pastors, 9 were not members of any district association in this state; and among the acting pastors and stated preachers were one Baptist, one Reformed, two Presbyterians, and three Methodists.

In 1883, six candidates, members of these churches, or who had recently been members, were ordained—two as pastors—namely, a member of Bridgeport First, of Colchester First, two of North church, New Haven, one of College Street church, New Haven, and one of Davenport church, New Haven.

The number pursuing theological studies in the two seminaries, in the year ending in 1883, was—in Hartford, 48; in New Haven, 94; in both, 142.

In 1883, four licentiates were ordained, two without charge, and two as pastors. Nine ministers were installed as pastors; twenty-four pastors were dismissed, and eight ministers, including one acting pastor, and one pastor, died, whose average age was 68 years.

Members.—The churches reported, January 1, 1884, 18,494 males, and 36,015 females; in all, 54,509, including 6,853 absentees. In 1883, the additions were—1,547 by profession, and 1,068 by letter; in all, 2,615; the removals—1,031 by death, 1,151 by letter, 211 by discipline; in all, 2,393. The additions by profession exceeded the removals by death, by 516. The total additions exceeded the total removals by 222. This would make the total membership, on the basis of January 1, 1883, 54,885; but, instead of this, it is, as reported, 54,509; and thus there is a difference of 376 members, not accounted for in the statistical tables, to be charged to the revision of rolls and other causes.

The rate of mortality was 19 for a thousand members. One hundred and two churches, with 11,014 members, added none by profession, and lost 221 by death. Fifty-nine churches received additions by profession, in numbers ranging from 10 to 40, as follows:

III.—REPORT OF THE ANNALIST.

FOR 1884.

It is made my duty as annalist to report all matters of interest relating to the Memorial Hall estate, to notice the ecclesiastical councils and the anniversary services of the churches held during the year, and to give brief sketches of the ministers who have died having ecclesiastical relation to this body.

MEMORIAL HALL ESTATE.

The income from this property has fully met the expenses of the Memorial Hall, furnishing to the Missionary Society, the Congregational Club, the Ladies' Commission, and various other organizations for the prosecution of Christian effort, special facilities for consultation in their work. We now have accommodations which once cost us something over twelve hundred dollars a year* with some restrictions, wholly under our control, and paid for by rents from other parts of the building, which rents also cover the care of the property, taxes, insurance, and improvements. Any surplus income from the building itself, or donations to it, may now be employed in repairs, improvements, and such additions to the records, books and embellishments of the Hall as may from time to time be deemed proper.

* The average expenses of Memorial Hall during the five years of renting, were $1,556.00 per year. But this included the cost of furnishing, which made the first year's expenses $3,072.56.

Valuable additions have been made during the year to the library, in pamphlets, manuscripts, and books, by the following persons: David B. Moseley, James R. Bourne, W. J. Jennings, B. W. Tompkins, Wm. Thompson, G. L. Walker, A. B. Davenport, Alexander H. Holley, F. E. Snow, William A. Hallock, and others. Mrs. Robert C. Learned of New London, has placed in the Hall a large and valuable collection of periodicals, including more than fifty bound volumes, gathered by her husband while living. Mr. Gilbert G. Moseley made a timely addition to the comforts of the Hall by the gift of an elegant pitcher and goblet for summer use.

Memorial Hall Fund.

By a vote of the Conference last year (Minutes, p. 469) each church in the state was requested to contribute at some time during the year at the rate of ten cents per member, to complete the sum pledged by the vote of 1880, if the Memorial Hall building should be secured to the Conference. The churches have responded to this request in the following order:

Churches contributing to the fund previous to Jan. 1, 1885, in the order of their contributions:

Torrington, Third,	$22.20	Durham,	$12.00
West Winsted,	32.70	Seymour,	9.50

Middletown, First,	37.50	Chaplin,	10.00
West Avon,	7.30	Milton,	3.12
			$1,042.51

From this it appears that sixty-two of the two hundred and ninety-seven churches contributed in answer to the request of the Conference, about one-fifth of the amount required to redeem the pledge given to the generous men who furnished the money for purchasing the building. While none give more than the proportion named by the Conference, several fall below it, so that if in due time all contribute, there will be no surplus. It remains to be seen whether all will contribute.

Meetings of Councils.

The Conference last year by a formal vote requested the scribes of all ecclesiastial councils held within the state to send to the annalist a certified copy of their minutes. A good beginning has been made in this work, and if it is followed up with care and efficiency, important help toward a full and reliable history of these churches will be at hand. The request has not, however, been complied with in all cases. I have in charge the minutes of councils held since the last meeting of this body as follows: At Salisbury, Nov. 7, 1883, for the dismission of Rev. C. L. Kitchel; at Nepaug, Nov. 7, 1883, for the dismission of Rev. Richard Scoles; at West Winsted, Dec. 4, 1883, for the dismission of Rev. L. H. Hallock; at Norwich, Dec. 13, 1883, for the installation of Rev. S. H. Howe; at Kent, Dec. 19, 1883, for the ordination of Mr. E. S.

Digitized by Google

Porter, jun.; at Killingworth, Jan. 9, and Feb. 6, 1884, to consider the case of Ira C. Billman; at East Hampton, Feb. 7, 1884, for the installation of Rev. Edward P. Root; at Pearl Street, Hartford, Feb. 25, 1884, for the dismission of Rev. Wm. L. Gage; at Hebron, March 19, 1884, for the dismission of Rev. G. B. Cutler; at Norwich, April 8, 1884, for the installation of Rev. Nelson Millard; at Howard Avenue, New Haven, April 17, 1884, for the installation of Rev. Charles W. Park; at West Winsted, Sept. 10, 1884, for the ordination of Mr. H. H. Kelsey; at North Cornwall, Sept. 11, 1884, for the ordination of Mr. Wm. H. McDougall; at Winsted, Oct. 7, 1884, for the dismission of Rev. T. J. Lee; at Salisbury, Oct. 14, 1884, for the installation of Rev. J. C. Goddard.

Other councils have been held during the year not reported to the annalist, and in some cases, no doubt, the failure to send the minutes, as requested by the Conference, is due to ignorance of the request. It is easy to see that material of great value for reference will be secured, when a complete record of these doings is found in one place. A little attention to this matter by those who are called to act in these councils will in time secure the result sought. If it imposes some extra labor upon those who act as scribes, it would be better to allow a reasonable compensation for the work done, than to be without the records.

Anniversary Meetings.

The current year has not been fruitful in commemorative exercises, and no reports of centennial or semi-centennial observances have been sent to the Hall. Of the three churches from which such reports might properly come during the year 1884, the church in Winsted is believed to have been organized in 1784, but is without clear evidence of the exact date. The church in Deep River reached the half-century of its history April 13th of this year, and the church in Brooklyn will be a century and a half old the 21st of November.

Sketches of Deceased Ministers.

In 1883, there were eight deaths of members of our Associations, at an average age of sixty-eight years. In 1884, there have been seven deaths, at the average age of seventy-three years.

Rev. Stephen Hubbell.

Born in Wilton, April 22, 1802. Died in New Haven, March 3, 1884. The son of Nathan and Sarah (Gray) Hubbell. Married in Oxford, Oct. 3, 1832, Martha Stone. Their children were Mary Elizabeth, William Stone, and Edward Stephen, of whom only William S. survived the subject of this sketch. Mr. Hubbell married Harriet Thompson Hawley of Catskill, N. Y., May 11, 1859. He was buried in North Stonington, beside his beloved Martha and Mary.

He fitted for college at Wilton, under the tuition of Mr. Hawley Olmsted. He entered Yale College in 1823, and graduated in 1826. He took the regular course in theology at Yale, and was ordained, and installed pastor of the Congregational church in Mt. Carmel, May 18, 1830, where he continued till May 18, 1836. He served the church in Wolcottville (now Torrington), as pastor from Feb. 29, 1837 until Sept. 29, 1839. He was pastor of the Second church in Avon from Dec. 31, 1840 to July 1, 1853. Was pastor at North Stonington from Aug. 17, 1853 until April 6, 1869. He served the church in Long Ridge, as their pastor, from June 1, 1869 until Dec., 1873, when he returned to the people of his first charge, welcomed and beloved, to spend with them, in freedom from care, the brief remnant of a life already prolonged beyond the set time. But a new and exceedingly interesting service was here required of him in the care and education of two Chinese boys, aged 11 and 12 years, sent by their government to this country for a complete education. He became greatly interested in these wards, and left his pleasant home at Mt. Carmel, that he might be with them in New Haven, during their stay there.

Mr. Hubbell has left very little published matter—a centennial address delivered at Avon in 1841; a farewell sermon when he left that people; and a commemorative discourse at North Stonington in 1863, reviewing the fifty years' pastorate of the Rev. Joseph Fish, give us some idea of his style as a writer; but his parish and pulpit, by their weekly demands, left little time for work in other fields.

It is worthy of special notice that his ministry of almost half a century was wholly in his native state, and for the most part as a settled pastor. A large portion of those who enjoyed his early ministry have passed within the veil, yet many remain in the several parishes served by him, who speak of him with warm affection. "I loved the man," says one, "admired his gifts, and ever felt and feel to-day, that our churches do not always know fine gold when they see it."

In character, Mr. Hubbell was modest, sincere, affectionate, and quite sympathetic. A somewhat nervous temperament was generally under the restraint of a clear, well-balanced intellect, and a spirit of loyalty to truth and duty ruled in all his conduct. He was faithful to his convictions at whatever cost of personal comfort or interest. Of him it may be said, he was a devout man, and one that feared God with all his house; loyal to Christ as his recognized Master; loving the church of Christ, and earnestly seeking the salvation of souls. Mr. Hubbell was a member of the New Haven West Association at the time of his death.

Rev. Nathaniel Miner.

For twenty years this aged servant of God had been released from pastoral care, and like Simeon of old was waiting in the fond hope of the coming of his Lord. He died in Salem, March 22, 1884, and was born in Stonington, Dec. 13, 1798. Having served several churches in his native county, during an active ministry of thirty-eight years, and won the esteem of a large circle of friends, they gathered from the different parishes where he had labored, and on the 25th of March paid their tribute of respect to him in the church in Salem, and carried him to his grave at the ripe age of eighty-five.

Mr. Miner pursued his studies under the direction of his pastor, Rev. Ira Hart, and entered the Theological Seminary at Bangor, from which he graduated in 1824. He was ordained and made pastor of a newly-organized church in Chesterfield, Conn., Oct. 12, 1826. In 1829 he was dismissed from this church, and served as stated supply the church in Bozrahville, where his labors were greatly blessed. In May, 1833, he was installed pastor of the church in Millington. He remained here till his dismission in 1857, when he removed to the neighboring parish of Salem, where he served as acting pastor until 1864. The infirmities of the flesh now called for a respite from pastoral care, and he continued to reside in Salem without charge, until he was called to his rest and reward.

His ministry had been mostly in a cluster of parishes bordering upon each other, and at his burial there were representatives from these parishes present to testify their remembrance and esteem for a faithful servant of the Master.

Mr. Miner married Emeline, daughter of Elijah and Betsey Ransom, of Salem, Oct. 15, 1826, and of their five children four are still living.

Mr. Miner was a member of the Middlesex Association.

Rev. John Robinson Keep.

Mr. Keep was born May 22, 1810, in Longmeadow, Mass. He was the son of Samuel and Anna (Bliss) Keep. He fitted for college at Amherst Academy from 1828 to 1830, and entered Yale in 1830, graduating in 1834. He was a member of the Yale Theological Seminary from 1835 to 1837. During the interval between his college and seminary studies he was engaged as teacher of the deaf and dumb in the institute in New York city. At the close of his theological course, an affection of the eyes and an accompanying general debility disabled him for severe labor, and he spent nearly three years, mostly at his home in Longmeadow, working on the farm and teaching school, as his health permitted. In 1840 he went to Unionville and commenced Christian work, preaching in the school-house, and laid the foundations for the vigorous church which has since covered that field. On the 5th day of May, 1842, he was ordained and installed pastor of the First Congregational church in Franklin, Delaware county, N. Y., where he continued until January, 1844. In May of that year he was installed pastor of the church in Warren, where he continued until November, 1852, when a bronchial affection disabled him from pulpit work, and he spent a year in Columbus, Ohio, teaching in the deaf and dumb institute, and a year in the New York institute. In 1854 he removed to Hartford, and from that time until his death was connected with the Asylum in that city, though he resigned his place as teacher in 1870 on account of ill-health. He was elected, and served as deacon in the Asylum Hill church, and was a member of the Hartford Central Association. He died June 15, 1884, after a gradual decline arising from the fatty degeneration of the heart.

August 24, 1842, Mr. Keep married Rebecca Porter, daughter of Rev. Dr. Noah and Mehitabel (Meigs) Porter, of Farmington; by whom he had four children—Robert Porter, William Andrews, Mary, and Elizabeth Porter. Of these, Robert and Elizabeth, with their mother, are still living.

Mr. Keep has written for the press not a little, but mostly in the line of educational work, and particularly as bearing upon the unfortunate class with whom he labored as a teacher. Among his writings are "First Lessons," "School Stories." In "Annals of the Deaf and Dumb" are found several papers from his pen: "The Use of the Dictionary," "How Addition may be Taught," "The Association of Ideas with Words," "Exposition of the Sign Language," "Shall natural signs be Abandoned," and others. Articles from his pen are also found in the New Englander and the Christian Banner.

Mr. Keep had a quick, keen intellect, was of a highly nervous temperament, and was quite above the average scholar in substantial attainments. He was a zealous worker in whatever he attempted to do, and had little patience with obstructive conservatism in the pulpit, the parish, or the school-room. His views were firmly held and expressed with vigor, and his decision and energy of purpose made his influence felt wherever he moved. Those who have been associated with him in his more vigorous days will not soon forget the bright, sparkling good nature with which he entered into the discussion of popular questions, nor the caustic wit with which he sometimes disclosed the weakness of an opponent's argument, in his zeal for the truth. He died at the age of seventy-four, and had been for several years in a decline.

Rev. Joseph Henry Isham.

Mr. Isham dropped his sickle in the field with a whitening harvest in full view, and a loyal heart yearning to gather in the sheaves. He was the son of Joseph G. and Christina B. Isham, and was born in Auburn, N. Y., March 2, 1842. He prepared for college at Irvington, N. Y., and at the Russell Institute in New Haven, and graduated at Yale College in 1865. He studied law at the Yale law school in 1866, and was in the Columbia College law school for a time. From June, 1867 to November, 1868, he was in Europe, and after his return spent the time in study and business until 1870, when, with a view to the improvement of his health, he traveled in Idaho, Oregon, Washington Territory, and California, and entered the Yale theological school in 1873. He took his degree of S. T. B. at this seminary in 1876, and was licensed by the New Haven West Association May 4, 1875. He was for a short time admiral's clerk in the U. S. N., and also instructor in the Hopkins grammar school. He held a high rank among the scholars of his time, and was moved by high and noble aspirations.

He was ordained and installed pastor of the church in Cheshire January 23, 1878, and continued in that relation until April 25, 1882. In the various labors of his short life Mr. Isham was actuated by a desire to make the most of his precarious health in the service of Christ, and struggled nobly against the impediments which from time to time fell in his way, until the Master gave him a full discharge from the hard warfare. He was never married, and died at Gordonsville, Va., of consumption, June 29, 1884, being at the time a member of the New Haven West Association.

Rev. Joel Mann.

This veteran servant of God was permitted to outlive three generations or more of his fellow men; was called to service in many fields of labor; and is remembered by those now in active life as the patriarch of our Connecticut ministers. For nearly twenty-five years he had resided in New Haven without charge, after an active service in the ministry elsewhere almost half a century. Yet the usual marks of age were not upon him. He was punctual and faithful to his covenant vows, and deeply interested in the prosperity of the church with which he worshiped to the very last, and his quiet presence graced and dignified every ministerial gathering within his reach, where he might properly be, either as a member or a guest. Another has said of him, "It is impossible in a few lines adequately to characterize this veteran minister He was a man of iron constitution. At ninety-five years of age his black hair was only slightly tinged with gray. He was clear, positive, intense in his convictions, and bold in his expression of them. His ministry was characterized by revival energy and decisive results."

Mr. Mann was the son of John and Lydia (Porter) Mann, residents of Oxford, N. H, and was born February 7, 1789. He graduated at Dartmouth College with the highest honor in 1810, and pursued his theological studies under private instructors while engaged in teaching. He was licensed October 28, 1812, and preached at Newbury, Vt.; Fairlee, Vt.; and Stafford Springs in this state, until November 15, 1815, when he was ordained and made associate pastor with Rev. Dr. Henry Wight, in Bristol, R. I. He married Catherine Vernon of Newport, R. I., May 12, 1816. From December 13, 1826 till December 2, 1829, he was the colleague of Rev. Ebenzer Gay in Suffield; and from September 1, 1830 to August 24, 1836, he was pastor of the Second church in Greenwich. From January 18, 1837 to May 5, 1838, he was pastor of the Fourth Free Presbyterian church in New York City. From May 6, 1840 to April 14, 1847, he was pastor of the Howard Street church in Salem, Mass. After this he ministered to a church in Kingston, R. I., then in Hanover, Mass., and after a short residence with his son in Morrisania, N. Y., removed to New Haven, where, as an active member of the Davenport church, he made himself in many ways very useful, and was greatly beloved. He died July 21, 1884, being a little more than ninety five years old. He was a member of the New Haven West Association.

Rev. Stephen A. Loper.

This cheerful, devout, and venerable servant of the Lord and his church, died in Hartford, December 12, 1884, at the age of eighty-four. He was born in Guilford, September 17, 1800, educated at Bangor Theological Seminary, and for a time preached at Hampden, Maine. He was ordained January 23, 1827. In January, 1834, he was installed pastor of the church in Middle Haddam, and continued in that relation until October, 1841. In March, 1842, he began his ministry in Hadlyme, and after three year's service was installed pastor of the church, remaining in that office until June, 1850. In July following he began his work as stated supply in Higganum, where he continued until June, 1856. He then served the church in Trumbull two years, or from June, 1856 until June, 1858. In September, 1858, he commenced work in Westbrook, and labored there with great fidelity, as afterwards also in Madison, New Fairfield, and Nepaug, until the infirmities of age compelled his retirement from active service, and he found a home with his daughter in Hadlyme. Few ministers have so large a claim upon the grateful remembrance of our Connecticut churches for cheerful and patient service in the fields which call for self-denying effort, as this beloved brother, whose practical economy and courageous spirit enabled him after a long service with an extremely limited income to give this testimony: "Light has shone generously upon my path. Sunshine has been the rule, shadow the exception."

Mr. Loper was married in 1829 to Sarah B., daughter of John and Phebe Meigs, of Madison. She died in New Fairfield, September 18, 1865, and of their five children two died in infancy.

Mr. Loper, at the time of his death, was a member of the Middlesex Association.

Rev. Samuel D. Gaylord.

Mr. Gaylord was born in Ashford, October 14, 1834. He pursued his theological studies while engaged in teaching at the West, and was licensed to preach by the Iowa Central Association in May, 1878. He was employed by the American Missionary Association in Charleston, S. C., for a brief period, but in 1880 became acting pastor of the church in West Avon. Here he labored from October 3, 1880 until November 13, 1882, when he took charge of the Olivet church, Bridgeport. He labored here until his death from heart disease, December 31, 1884. His brief ministry was such as gave promise of increasing usefulness, and he had certain qualities of mind which fitted him for great efficiency as a teacher and preacher. He leaves a widow and five children, who, with a large circle of friends in the different fields where he has labored, mourn his sudden death just when he seemed to be best equipped for service in the Master's vineyard. He married Miss Charlotte M. Woodford of West Avon, and at the time of his death was a member of the Hartford Union Association.

We aided five ministers, and one orphan daughter, and eleven widows of ministers, but were able to give them only seventy-four per cent. of what was reasonably asked of us. Two of these widows died—Mrs. Hough and Mrs. Marsh.

Mrs. Hannah Smith Hough, sister of the late Rev. Eli Smith, and widow of Rev. Lent S. Hough, died at Colchester Dec. 28, 1883, aged 80. Mr. Hough, a native of Connecticut, was pastor at Chaplin, 1831–1836; North Woodstock, 1837–1841; North Madison, 1842–1845; Bethel, 1845–1846; and Middletown, Third, 1847–1863; and acting pastor at Wolcott, 1863–1869; Salem, 1869–1870; and Niantic, 1870–1877; and died at Poquonock, Sept. 22, 1879, aged 76. They lived together forty-eight years, and had six children, all of whom are living. He received aid from this fund, also from the Root Fund.

Mrs. Mary H. Cooley Marsh, widow of Rev. Abram Marsh, died at Tolland Nov. 11, 1883, aged 80. Mr. Marsh, after service in Vermont, his native state, was pastor at Tolland, Conn, 1831–1869, and acting pastor at West Woodstock, 1874–1877, and died at Tolland Sept. 2, 1877, aged 75. She was his second wife, and lived with him thirty-five years, and left no children of her own.

We received contributions from one hundred and thirty-seven churches, and there are now only nine churches which have never given for this object.

In 1864–1883, twenty years, our net receipts have amounted to $56,707.97, which have been disposed of as follows: Beneficiaries, $51,082.43; invested by will of donor, $3,000.00; expenses $1,-641.14; remainder, $984.40.

We please God when we comfort such of our ministry and their families as come to want, whether from ill-health, old age, orphanage, or widowhood; and we are sure our good people rejoice with us that, in the last twenty years, with so little personal inconvenience, and so little interference with other interests, so much has been done in this service. We are also sure that the Spirit of our Master will prompt us to continue this ministration of relief.

By order of the Trustees,

WILLLIAM H. MOORE, Secretary.

The amount received in legacies was $15,832.46 more than in 1882; the amount in contributions was $3,795.08 more than in 1882; and the total of legacies and contributions was $19,627.54 more than in 1882. The total received, excluding remainder from 1882, was $32,230.16, or $12,068.55 more than in any former year.

The amount spent in Connecticut was $10,718.86, or including boxes, $11,068.86, or $1,416 63 more than in 1882, and was an average of twenty cents for each church member.

The American Home Missionary Society received directly from Connecticut in 1883, contributions, $17,812.08; boxes, $18,034.55; legacies, $25,773.81; total, $61,620.44. The amount in contributions was $3,114.33 more than in 1882; the amount in boxes was $2,394.10 more than in 1882; the amount in legacies was $36,832.76 less than in 1882; and the whole was $31,324.43 less than in 1882.

Both societies received from Connecticut in 1883, interest, $60.00; boxes, $18,384.53; contributions, $33,608.43; legacies, $41,797.62; total, $93,850 60; or $11,346.79 less than in 1882, but more than in any other year except 1874.

In 1883, of our 298 churches, 172 made offerings to this society; 184 to the American Home Missionary Society; 91 to both, and 33 to neither. Legacies came from 25 churches, and boxes from 69 churches.

The entire amount received by both societies from Connecticut makes an average of $1.72 for each church member. But this amount includes boxes which pay none of the expenses of either society and also legacies. The contributions of the living in money to carry on the regular operations of the two societies were $33,608.43, or an average of sixty cents for each church member; and of this sum 47 per cent. was paid to this society, and 53 per cent. to the American Home Missionary Society.

Grants and commissions in 1883.

The following list gives the names of the churches to which grants were voted in 1883, the rate for the year in each case, the names of those who were commissioned to serve them and the periods of service rendered.

A grant is available only while a church is served by a commissioned preacher. Grants were voted to thirty-five churches. Commissions were issued to thirty-seven preachers including one licentiate who was ordained during the year. The service under these commissions amounted to thirty-two years and three months.

The aided churches.

Of the thirty-five churches to which grants were voted in 1883, twenty-three had funds to an aggregate of $54,991; ten had pastors; twenty-one had acting pastors, of whom one became a pastor; three had stated preachers, and one had a licentiate who b came an acting pastor.

The average salary proposed to be paid by the aid asked of us was $703. Thirty-three churches reported the salary paid promptly. Two churches reported debts to an aggregate of $1,987. The average amount of the taxable property of these churches, counting only that of their resident members, was $20,857; and the average percentage paid by the churches on said property was .01027. All but five complied with the one per cent. rule, and they were made exceptions for "causes shown."

These churches had, January 1, 1884, a membership of 718 males and 1,404 females, in all, 2,122, including 390 absentees; or an average of 61 members for each church. In 1883, the additions were 39 by profession and 54 by letter, in all, 93; and the removals were 41 by death, 50 by letter and 1 by discipline, in all, 92. The additions exceeded the removals by 1, and the deaths exceeded the professions by 2. Twenty-two adults were baptized and 20 children. Twenty-eight churches, with 1,650 members, baptized no child, and 22 churches, with 1,259 members, added none by profession, and lost 23 by death. The Sunday-schools enrolled 2,809, and the congregations embraced 1,820 families.

The averages of pastoral visits for a quarter in the several parishes, one excepted, ranged from 7 to 124, and the common average for a quarter was 42. Every church had a weekly prayer-meeting, with interruptions in some cases. The averages of attendance at these meetings in the several parishes ranged from 7 to 35, and the common average was 16.

Twenty four churches had a monthly concert for a part or the whole of the year, and eleven had none. The charities were $2,568.07, or $1.21 for each church member, and 32 per cent. of the amount disbursed to the aided churches in 1883.

The state missionary.

In 1883, Mr. Moore visited four Sunday-schools and thirty-nine churches, and made seventy-nine addresses.

Conventions in behalf of the national Congregational charitable societies.

Rev. Azel W. Hazen, Rev. Elias B. Hillard, and David N. Camp, were appointed a committee, Nov. 13, 1882, "to act with the secretary in arranging for a series of meetings to be held early in 1883, in different parts of the state, in the interest of the corps of national Congregational charitable societies," similar to the conventions held in Connecticut in February–April, 1872.

The seven societies in question were pledged to provide speakers, and it was planned to hold the meetings in places convenient for groups of churches aggregating over seventeen hundred members; and to see that every church in the state was invited to some one of the meetings.

The conventions were held as follows:

February	6.	Tuesday, a. m. and p. m.,	at Stamford.
	7.	Wednesday, "	Danbury, First church.
	8.	Thursday, p. m. and eve.,	Hartford, Park Church.

	14.	Wednesday, "	New Milford.
	15.	Thursday, "	Bridgeport, Park St. church.

Thirty conventions were held, with an average attendance of one hundred and thirty-six, and reaching two hundred and thirty of our two hundred and ninety-eight churches. The conventions of 1872 had an average attendance of one hundred and four.

We make grateful mention of the coöperation of the ministry, of the cordial fellowship of the speakers of the seven societies, and of the hospitality of the churches.

Those meetings illustrated the mutual dependence and helpfulness of our national societies, gave information as to their operations, and made impressions as to the importance of supporting them as the appropriate, and the best, agencies through which our churches can work in extending the kingdom of God; and we are glad to record that the statistics of the churches show that these impressions are producing their legitimate effect.

General summary.

The amount of the four trusts, at market value, December 31, 1883, was as follows: Western Work, $54,793.29; Everest Fund, $9,158.75; Memorial Hall Estate, $30,607.00; State Work, $5,572.89. Total, $100,131.93.

Including Western Work, the whole amount raised in Connecticut for home missions was $96,564.10; the whole amount spent in Connecticut was $11,071.64; and the whole amount sent out of the state was $85,423 42.

Conclusion.

The value of Memorial Hall to our ministers and churches is already so obvious, and is so certain to increase, that we cannot help regretting that we have been so long without its advantages. It becomes us to hold in grateful remembrance the benefactors through whom principally we have received it,—and especially Rev. Lavalette Perrin, who originated the enterprise, and carried it to success,—and to do what we may to promote its usefulness.

The Everest Fund from year to year lightens the pecuniary burdens of young men of inadequate means but of intellectual and spiritual promise in our two theological seminaries, and becomes a factor in their future efficiency in the ministry of the gospel.

We commend to the entire satisfaction of this society the economical administration of the funds for Western Work, and the spending of their income in supporting jointly with the American Home Missionary Society, the western superintendents,—a class of home missionary laborers who have no superiors for ability, wisdom, fidelity, diligence, and usefulness in that service.

It is much to the credit of the aided churches in this state and their ministers, that the prayer-meetings are so well sustained, that the average of pastoral visits is so considerable, and that in respect to the number of families in charge and the enrollment in the Sunday-schools, these churches make relatively a better report than the self-supporting churches.

The ministers who occupy these dependent fields merit a larger share of the regards of our people; and we notice with gratification that during the past year some of them have been remembered in the distribution of "boxes."

The self-supporting churches may well consider the burdens and discouragements of the aided churches, and the certainty that the nurture of these churches bears directly upon the spiritual thrift of Connecticut, and the broader field outside.

We record with pleasure a handsome increase of contributions to this society during the year, and also that the legacies paid to our treasurer were larger than ever before. There are sound reasons why the friends of home missions should make their bequests to the Directors annually elected by this society—a body of men who, for more than two generations, have been found competent to the trusts and true to all the interests involved. If the legacies paid to the American Home Missionary Society from Connecticut in the last ten years, 1874–1883, had been made and paid to this society, we should have sent to that society, instead of the actual annual average of $3,935.80, an annual average of $39,738.21; and thus, in this respect, our society would have stood in honorable comparison with the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, our noblest coadjutor in sustaining the American Home Missionary Society.

The grandeur and urgency of the work of the national society, as one of the great forces for the evangelization of our country, entitle it to our steadfast sympathies, prayers, and benefactions.

By order of the Directors,

WILLIAM H. MOORE, Secretary.

VII.—REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FELLOWSHIP AND WORK.

The last Conference magnified the name of this committee, at least the work part of it, and gave us plenty to do. Besides the duty, "to consider, devise, and propose to the ministers and churches, such measures as it deems expedient," and "gathering from the churches and ministers, which they represent, full and reliable information respecting the Christian work done in their parishes, the means employed to promote the fellowship of neighboring churches, and the efforts put forth to reach and save those who neglect the ordinary means of grace," two special duties were laid upon us. One, to report to this meeting upon "the present relation of our Sunday-schools to our churches, to the ministers serving the churches, to the local bodies of churches represented in this Conference, to the General Conference, and to the general work of the Congregational churches; and that they offer such recommendations as in their view will be most profitable for the schools and the various other interests concerned." In order that the committee might properly discharge this duty, it instructed its secretary, at its first regular meeting after organization, to issue a circular to each church containing the following questions: 1. What supervision, if any, has your church over your Sunday-school, and what officers of the school are appointed by the church? 2. What office, if any, does your minister hold in your Sunday-school, and what is he accustomed to do for the school, and in it? 3. The registrar of each constituent body of the General Conference was requested to answer the following question: "What does your body do annually to make prominent the Sunday-school work in its district?"

Answers to the first two questions were returned by 149 churches out of the 298 of our order, one-half of the whole number in the state. Of these, 71, or nearly half, report that the Sabbath-school is under the formal supervision of the church, all the officers being appointed by it, and reporting to it. Thirty-seven report schools under the moral but not formal supervision of the church, the officers and teachers being for the most part members of the church, but not being in any way formally elected or appointed by it; and forty-one report the church as having no supervision over the school nor any part in the election of its officers or the appointment of its teachers.

Using these figures as a basis it appears that about one-half of our churches recognize the Sabbath-school by formal church action and care. A little less than one-quarter have an indirect care of the school, and a little more than one-quarter leave the school to shift for itself.

Ten, four, six are about the proportions as given in the reports. And this, on the whole, is not a bad showing. The deeper questions as to the result of all this care and the hindrances to the good hoped for from this instrumentality, will properly belong to another committee of another year to ask.

To the question, "What office, if any, does your minister hold in your Sunday-school, and what is he accustomed to do for the school, and in it?" ten report the pastor as superintendent. Twenty-one report pastors as having no regular work in the school, as one of them expresses it, "simply hanging around," and one hundred and seventeen are actively and regularly engaged in the work of the Sabbath-school, usually having a Bible-class and taking charge of a teachers' meeting, if there is one. One hundred and twenty-seven out of less than one hundred and fifty pastors taking regular work in the Sabbath-school, and the larger part of the remainder, even if only hanging around or kept from any stated work by reason of poor health, or interference of other appointments, taking an interest in the school, shows that, whatever may be the failures of the pastorate in Connecticut, neglect of the Sabbath-school cannot be put down as one of them. Certainly no one can read the reports without being deeply impressed with the evidence they afford of labor and care on the part of pastors in this part of the Master's service.

While we say this, we are also constrained to add that we doubt whether churches or pastors are sufficiently alive to the importance of this work in the Sabbath-school, have sufficiently clear ideas as to what may be expected from it, or how to get what they expect. We believe that aimlessness prevents much of the good that might result from the really good and hard work that is so lavishly expended in our Sabbath-schools; and that by reason of it our scholars often graduate unformed in habits of devoutness or reverence, benevolence or worship, untaught in the great and fundamental doctrines of our faith, untrained in Christian living, unconverted to God. The following resolutions passed by the committee at their meeting in April, will not be found out of place:

Resolved, That we commend to the General Conference the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, 1. That it is desirable that each of our churches have supervision of its Sunday-school so far, at least, as to appoint the leading officers and require an annual report from them.

Resolved, 2. That it is desirable that the ministers of our churches take a deeper interest in the Sunday-school, and that, where practicable, they take a leading part in the work of the school; and also, that they conduct teachers' meetings.

Resolved, 3. That the statistical circular be so amended as to contain the following questions relating to Sunday-schools:

(1) Whole number in Sunday-schools, home and mission, Jan. 1, 1885, including officers, teachers, and scholars?

(2) Average attendance in 1884?

(3) How many from your Sunday-school joined your church on profession in 1884?

(4) How much did your Sunday-school give for benevolence in 1884?

(5) How many mission-schools had you in 1884?

(6) The per cent. of scholars attending church services?

(7) The name and post-office address of the superintendent of your Sunday-school?

Resolved, 4. That the General Conference appoint annually a standing committee on Sunday-schools, to present the Sunday-school work for consideration from year to year, in some one or more of its manifold relations.

To the question sent out by the secretary, according to the instructions of the committee, to the registrar of each of the constituent bodies of the General Conference, "What does your body do annually to make prominent the Sabbath-school work in its district?" the answers are drearily monotonous. "Nothing." "Just nothing at all." "Reports from the churches include the Sabbath-school." "Subject passed over for lack of time," et cetera.

The State Sunday-school Teachers' Union supplies some of the deficiency that appears from this report. The Litchfield North West Union covers the territory of the Litchfield North West Conference and in the Hartford East Conference it has been voted to make one of the stated meetings of the Conference to be in the special interest of the Sabbath-school, but in spite of these redeeming features it must be said that the constituent bodies as yet come far short in this matter of the recommendation of the General Conference.

Another work was also given us by the General Conference of last year under the following resolution:

Resolved, That the committee on fellowship and work be requested to present at the next annual meeting of this Conference all the attainable facts with reference to the religious condition of the foreign population of the state, and the efforts which our churches are making in their behalf; and to offer suggestions or plans for more efficient work among them.

To attain the object of this resolution, the committee at their meeting in April, requested the secretary "to seek information from representative localities, cities, manufacturing villages, and rural towns, with the view of ascertaining the amount and kind of effort which our churches generally are putting forth in behalf of the foreign population around them, and the encouragement and success they are meeting with in the undertaking."

In the performance of this duty the secretary sent a blank to one minister in every town in the state, containing five questions. 1. Number of persons in this town of foreign birth, or whose parents were one or both of foreign birth, and the nationalities represented by these?

2. The religious condition of the above and their church connection?

3. What effort is being made by the churches of the town in behalf of this class?

4. With what success?

5. In your opinion what ought to be done?

The brother so addressed was requested to fill out the blank with as good a degree of accuracy as was possible. He could get such help as he pleased from brethren in other churches, or by a canvassing committee of his own church, but was himself to be responsible for the work.

Fifty four brethren from fifty-four towns have returned me their blanks filled out with more or less exactness.

Of these it must be said to begin with that they are for the most part worthless as tables of statistics. This is from necessity the case. They could not be expected to rival the census reports of 1880 unless they could command as perfect machinery and equal authority. We did not seek because we do not need similar exactness. The census reports gave us the precise number of foreigners in the state in 1880, 129,992 in a total population of 622,700, or less than one-quarter of the whole; and what need to count them over again? The number has doubtless increased, but the proportion in four years has not greatly changed, creeping up undoubtedly a little nearer a quarter of the whole. It is a matter of very small importance here or anywhere that we should be told to a unit how many immigrants there are in the state, or in any one of the 167 towns of the state, but it is of vast importance that some live minister in every one of those towns should be brought to look the scores and hundreds of this class in his own township in the face, who have been called there and led there by the same God that called and led him there; that he should ask the question for himself and get others to ask the question for themselves, what is God's design in it all; that when he looks upon this world of races gathered on the soil of our commonwealth, outnumbering the people that came together on the day of Pentecost, he might help to lift this matter above the petty questions of town rates and pauper labor, and be himself inspired and help to inspire others with the thought that this is one of God's great movements toward the salvation of the world; that this is the coming of the nations unto Zion as has been prophesied; that this is for salvation and not destruction; that it is God's grand preparation against the time when he shall pour out his Holy Spirit upon our churches according to promise; that these "Parthians and Medes and Elamites, these strangers and proselytes," may be on hand to come together to hear every one his own mother tongue of Christian sympathy and love; be led to inquire what must we do, and be sent out as witnesses each to his own home, or class, to tell what the Lord has done for him.

It is of vast importance that we ministers, placed in the midst of these sheep that have no shepherd, and wishing, it may be, to get rid of the responsibility and get to our studies and sermons and our delightful pastoral visits, saying as did the unbelieving disciples of old, Send them away that they may shift for themselves, should hear the words of the Master, saying, "Give ye them to eat," and bring what we have of power, and position, and knowledge, and skill, and faith, and love unto the Master to find that he accepts the consecration, and that our five small loaves after all are sufficient and more than sufficient for the feeding of this great multitude; that we should stand by the wayside as this company of pilgrims and strangers go by on their way to the judgment seat and should remember that these waifs and wanderers that stop but for a summer upon the farms of our parishes, this great mass of burly laborers that crowd together in the factories, and elbow us off the sidewalk in our villages, that these are or are to be the makers of our laws and the framers of our political policies. and higher than this, that they belong to that world for which Christ died, and for whose salvation we have been entrusted with the ministry of the gospel.

All this your committee thought was of vast importance, now and at once, and so they sent out the circular to make a beginning of it.

I have tabulated the returns, but can give only general results, or simply the language of the reports.

First of all, we are impressed with the difficulty of the work growing out of the fact of the great number of nationalities, more than twenty, represented in the State and sometimes in a single town. This becomes a more serious difficulty to us in New England than it would be to some others. The work to be done demands a facileness, a becoming all things to all men, that is not easy because not natural to us. We are rugged but not supple, and it will require a great deal of the oil of God's grace to make us limber enough to be able to adapt ourselves to the needs of this vast and heterogeneous multitude, and we must bring out a greater variety of power than has heretofore been called for.

As to their religious condition. It is a frequent report that not more neglect religious observances than from the same number of the native population.

The Irish, which constitute more than half the whole foreign element, are mostly Catholic. The English tend towards the Episcopal churches in one or the other of the two forms in which they appear in this state. The Germans and Swedes come readily to the Congregational or Baptist churches.

As to the efforts made, the answer that came from one of the churches, "Treated like the rest of our folks," would describe the kind and amount of work that is done mostly in the rural districts. The same gospel, the same pastoral care and attention, the same seeking the children for the Sabbath school, the constant but steady drill of what another brother styles "the great out-of-door university of American life and society."

In the larger towns they have mission chapels as at Fairfield and Salisbury, a missionary church as at Thomaston, a systematic monthly visitation and tract distribution as at Plainville, and occasional sermons in their own language are preached in many of the towns.

For results, the best seem to be borne where, as in the rural districts, it is possible to absorb them into the life both religious and secular of the place. The usual report from the larger places is that the results are very small, except among the children. And this suggests the bringing into play of the larger resources of home, social, business forces to work upon this great problem.

In answer to the question, "What ought to be done?" almost every good thing in the whole round of Christian labor is suggested. I give the substance of many in these various suggestions of the brethren. First, "Shine up the home element, that all foreigners seeing its good works shall glorify God, and want some of the same thing." Or as another one expresses it, "A new Methodism," "The Holy Spirit coming afresh to freshly prepared souls," "Becoming better Christians ourselves," "Stimulate deeper piety in our churches."

These indicate the fundamental want of a higher type of Christian experience and life that is needed if we are to deal successfully with this great matter.

Another class of suggestions looking to the great works of kindness and charity are like the following. "Greater activity in meeting and befriending the immigrant when he comes into a place." "Systematic arrangements for carrying people to and from church." "Treat them kindly and explain to them our faith." "More earnest care of Christians for their neighbors." "Have family religion extend to servants and employees."

Another class ask for more aggressive work. "Work the old lines, neighborhood prayer-meetings, Bible and tract distribution and the like, for all they are worth," "Treat Catholics as members of a Christian church and help them to be better Christians where they are." "Each church reach each soul it can." "Do not despair of converting the Catholics." "Continuous private and individual work."

Digitized by Google

These sufficiently indicate the lines of effort which to many men seem advisable. And some suggest a broader and more comprehensive treatment of this matter. "Concert of effort among all the denominations in a community." "The Missionary Society of Connecticut ought to make a careful canvass of the state, and send out German, Swedish, and French ministers. Churches should be aroused and encouraged in this work by the Connecticut Missionary Society."

It was voted by the committee at its last meeting in Hartford that the following resolutions be proposed to the General Conference for adoption at the next annual meeting.

Resolved, 1. That this Conference asks the earnest and prayerful attention of our churches to the facts presented by the committee on fellowship and work concerning the large and increasing number of foreigners distributed through the manufacturing towns and rural districts of our commonwealth, and urges upon each individual church the importance of special efforts in behalf of this class of our population, both in parochial work and Sabbath-school instruction.

Resolved, 2. That the Conference recommend to the consideration of the Directors of the Missionary Society of Connecticut the propriety of appointing special missionaries or establishing other agencies for the religious improvement of the foreigners of particular localities and nationalities within the bounds of our state.

In bringing forward these facts and resolutions concerning this class of our population, your committee are well aware that they fall far short of the perfect result aimed at. They only claim to have made a beginning, and wish their work to be considered as such only. Other committees and other years of work will be necessary before perfect or even approximately satisfactory results will be reached. In fact, we have an idea that in this we have one of those staying problems that will call for new figuring upon, if not a new solution, every year; that the foreigner like the poor we shall always have with us.

The great length of this report already, for which the secretary is not responsible—for the necessity was laid upon him by the Conference—makes it necessary that the remainder, respecting the Christian work done in the parishes of this commonwealth, the means employed to promote the fellowship of neighboring churches, and the efforts put forth to reach and save those who neglect the ordinary means of grace, shall be brief.

All but one of the committee on fellowship and work have sent us very excellent reports from the churches in their territories. Brother Dudley, bowed down by his great affliction, sent the blanks filled out, but very properly made no attempt to collate them into a report.

From these reports and other sources of information we are able to make the general statement that with all the failures, and they are many and apparent, the work of the churches is in a more prosperous condition than for several years past. Fellowship meetings have been held in most or all of the conferences, in one, the Central, with eight out of the eleven churches.

The meetings are reported as generally large and interesting; and this is the success. Yet in no case have they been followed by special reviving in the churches where they were held, nor were influences carried home from them which visibly elevated the piety and zeal of the churches of the conferences; and here is the failure.

The churches are at peace in themselves so far as anything appears and with one another, and this is good. But one of the brethren rises here and tells us "that as regards fellowship, there is very little among us; that in his conference we know little more about one another than we do about the inhabitants of the moon," and that is bad again.

The first question upon the blanks sent out had reference to the organic unity of the family under our polity: Is this great staying force of both nature and grace being lost in our intense individualism? Do our children come with us, or go out from us? When they marry do they bring to our ranks, or go into some other regiment? A matter that will be found to have much influence in determining which of our Connecticut churches are fittest to survive.

The reports are more favorable than we had feared, the large proportion saying that the parishes under their care are generally united in attendance upon the services of the church and in its fellowship,—and this is good.

But one reports that in his church there is but one family of four or more persons of responsible age that are united in its fellowship, and this again shows an evil existing, if not predominant.

According to the reports, at least nine out of ten churches in this state give some especial attention to the children, besides the regular Sabbath-school work, as through young people's meetings, societies of Christian endeavor, Bible reading bands, mission circles, and in other ways.

Increasing interest is reported from some quarters in infant baptism and several churches remember their children in giving to those baptized by that church, a Bible at the age of seven years.

And a still larger proportion of our churches, more than five-sixths, make some effort to supply the needs of outlying districts by school-house or cottage prayer-meetings, tract distribution, and similar agencies. New plans and experiments are in some cases devised, but one brother says that the "old axes cut just as well, if well sharpened."

No general marked religious interest during the year can be noted, yet there have been revivals of some power in nearly all the conferences, markedly in New London Conference, the church at Greeneville receiving eighty-four upon confession, and at Trumbull. Plymouth, Goshen and in many other places a good revival work has been enjoyed and the additions this year will largely outnumber the losses. Yet for the most part this falls far short of what we ought to expect or aim for in the future. One brother reports fifty converted in thirteen churches of more than two thousand members. This makes an average of only four to a church, and one to every forty members working with the minister with the advantages of well-equipped churches and Sabbath-schools.

No words more eloquent than facts like these, that appear in the statements of nearly all the reports, could bring before us the exceeding weakness of our churches in spiritual power. We believe there is improvement in this matter, but here remains still the weak link in our chain, the spiritual link. In other respects, in resources, education, conveniences, and machineries, our churches will compare favorably with any body of churches now or that ever were upon the earth, but in this respect there is reason for humiliation in the presence of all churches and all ages.

In this connection another thing is to be noted. A complaint from many quarters that those who seem to be converted decline to join the church. The reason of this anomalous state of things may well be inquired for. What in the church makes union with it to be avoided by converted men and women? What in the conversion makes such a state of things possible, and what is there in our preaching that permits such a state of things to exist?

Concerning plans for securing the co-operation of a large number of members in Christian work but little new is offered in the reports.

One brother says "the ability to do this, to enlist others in Christian work, is among the most desirable in a pastor's outfit." And, he might have added, well nigh the rarest.

One brother, and this in substance is done by several, sends out a circular having six departments of Christian labor in which his church is engaged with minor subdivisions, that each may signify the kind of work chosen.

Temperance and the Sabbath receive the attention given to most moral questions in our pulpits. Nothing special has been done except in single and isolated instances, and but few cases of discipline have engaged the attention of the churches. The temporalities, judging from the reports, have been well attended to and many marked improvements in church buildings, lecture rooms, parsonages, and in every department of material interests are noted. And there is probably not so large a number of churches in the world so generally out of debt and in so good financial condition as the Congregational churches of this state.

We know very well that the tenth question is a singular one, but it is scriptural, in line with the practice and instructions of both Jesus and of Paul his grandest preacher, and is adapted to lift us up and make us expectant and observant of the signs of the times. "Do you see any signs of the coming days of power and glory?" The answers to it were various. Many say, "No! no!" Some, "I wish I did." One brother answers, "Yes, I handed in my resignation last Sunday." Another, "The church is interested and the pastor feels the days of coming power and glory on all days but Monday." Another one, "We do, our church for years has not been in a better spiritual condition." And still another, "Yes, so many that Bellamay's description of the millennium which he prayed for falls far short of what we see around us at this present time."

And now in conclusion the committee join with all their brethren of this Conference in giving thanks to God for his great goodness to us through another year; for the fields he has permitted us to till; the hard work he has given us to do; the burdens he has enabled us to bear; the seed that has been sown, the harvests, or at least the gleanings, that have been gathered; and the hope of still better things that we cherish for the future.

Together we stand to-day looking back upon the way we have traversed, looking down upon the little companies over which we have been appointed, in this commonwealth, and most of all looking over upon the hills and mountains of the promised land that lies before us. The way may have been a hard one, a desert way, but the manna of God's grace, the living bread from heaven has not failed us for our daily food, and the rock smitten, and giving forth living water for our refreshing, has followed us. The camps may be wrapped in deadly slumber, but we know that there is a wind that can breathe upon them and they shall rise up an exceeding great army. The promised land flowing with milk and honey, where living springs burst from the hills, may seem afar off to the eye of sight, but to the eye of faith it is near, and we may confidently expect to lead some part of the Lord's host into it.

We know in whom we have believed. We know that he has chosen us, made us partakers of his heavenly calling, and appointed us our work. We know that he has entrusted us with the gospel, the power of God unto salvation, and given us the Holy Ghost to use this word as sword and seed. We know that he that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall without any manner of doubt, come again bringing his sheaves with him.

We know that the churches we serve are members of Christ's glorious body, parts of the church militant, which is to be, and even now is, in a measure, the church triumphant; that they are builded upon the Rock, and that the gates of hell pouring forth never so much unbelief or pernicious doctrine or hatred and contempt shall not be able to prevail against them. We know that God hath promised to his Son the islands of the sea, and that this promise is broad enough to include the whole coast line, the whole territory of Connecticut. We know that the millennium of Christ's especial presence with his people is near, and that heaven is not far off from any of us, and therefore we rejoice, and will rejoice evermore, and in all things give thanks.

By order of the committee,

SAMUEL SCOVILLE, Secretary.

STATISTICS.

EXPLANATIONS.

In the tables of the associations, ministerial ages are reckoned to January 1, 1885. Post-offices are not given in these tables, but with the alphabetical list of ministers and in the Church register.

In the tables of the constituent bodies of the General Conference, some non-consociated churches, for convenience of representation, are counted with consociations to which they do not belong.

In the tables of the churches, the towns are given in alphabetical order, and the churches in the towns in the order of age. The tables present the statistics of the churches for 1884, and their conditions as to membership and families on the morning of January 1, 1885. The first column gives towns, names, and years of organization of churches. The next seven columns show in what year the meeting-house was erected; the value of the meeting house and chapel, and the land on which they stand; the value of the parsonage owned by the society; the amount of other funds owned by the society; the debt of the society; the salary of the minister including the use of the parsonage owned by the society; and the amount of all parish expenses in 1884 including the salary of the minister. The next three columns give the names of the ministers, according to latest information, and years of ordination, and show whether the ministers are pastors, acting pastors, or stated preachers; whether the pastors were settled by ordination or installation, and when the relationship began.

The names of licentiates, and of ministers not known as members of any body of Congregational ministers or churches, and of ministers of other denominations, are inclosed in brackets. The word "None" in the column of names does not mean in every case that the church is without preaching, but only that it has no pastor, acting pastor, nor stated preacher, nor a licentiate hired for any considerable time; it may have different preachers at intervals, or from Sabbath to Sabbath, or a preacher without regular ministerial standing. The column of excommunicated includes, also, those from whom watch and care have been withdrawn for long absence, or other reasons. The column of families states the whole number of families in the flock, but does not include those reached by missionary efforts.

The six columns for Sunday-schools give the total membership January 1, 1885; the average attendance in 1884; the number from the school who joined the church on profession in 1884; the charities of the school in 1884; the number of mission schools in 1884, and the percentage of scholars attending church.

In the columns of charities, the first shows how much was given for the Fund for Ministers. The next seven show how much are given for each of the national Congregational charitable societies and objects connected with them. The next shows how much was given for all other charities. The next gives the total charities, so far as ascertained. The last shows the amount of charitable legacies paid. The charities and legacies paid are for the year 1884.

A blank shows that the question is not answered.

REMARKS.

THE ASSOCIATIONS.—January 1, 1885, the fifteen district associations reported 381 members, of whom 64 were residing out of the state. The average ministerial age was 23 years; in three associations, it was 16 years; in one, it was 34 years. The list consisted of 1 associate in pastoral work, 1 chaplain, 1 city missionary, 2 home missionaries, 2 foreign missions, 2 editors, 5 stated preachers, 7 teachers, 12 officers and agents of charitable institutions and societies, 16 officers in colleges and theological seminaries, 107 having no charge, 106 acting pastors, and 119 pastors.

The large number having no charge included some in secular pursuits, candidates for ministerial work, and aged persons, and the average ministerial age of the whole was 31 years.

In 1884, 45 were licensed; 74 licentiates were responsible to the district associations, January 1, 1885.

THE CONFERENCES AND CONSOCIATIONS.—There are 13 conferences and 4 consociations which send delegates to the General Conference, and through these 17 bodies, all the churches in the state are represented in the General Conference, except Pawcatuck, in Stonington, which belongs to Rhode Island Conference, and is called Westerly in their roll.

THE CHURCHES.—The annual statistics report contributions, legacies, baptisms, and changes in membership in 1884, and families and membership in churches, January 1, 1885; also for Sunday-schools, in 1884, the average attendance, the number joining the church on profession, the charities, the number of mission-schools, the percentage of scholars attending church, and the membership January 1, 1885.

The quinquennial statistics give the year of the erection of the meeting-house and its value, including chapel and ground, the value of the parsonage, the funds other than parsonage, debt, salary in 1885, including use of parsonage, and expenses in 1884.

In 1884, the North and Third churches in New Haven became the United church—taking the date of organization of the North church, and using its meeting-house. The number of churches, January 1, 1885, was 297. The statistics of all are given with a few gaps in the quinquennial department.

MINISTERS.—January 1, 1885, 47 churches had no minister, in the sense of having neither pastor, acting pastor, nor stated preacher; one of these churches had a minister without ministerial standing, and four were vacant through the year. The remainder were served regularly, or for part of the year, by ministers, or licentiates employed from Sabbath to Sabbath, or for a longer period. Five had stated preachers; 116 had acting pastors; 128 had pastors. In two cases, two churches united in employing one minister. One church had a pastor and an associate in pastoral work. The average term of stated preachers was 3 years; of acting pastors, 5 years; of pastors, 8 years.

Of the pastors, 10 were not members of any district association in this state; and among the acting pastors and stated preachers, were 3 Methodists, 3 Presbyterians, 1 Reformed, and 1 responsible to no body of ministers or churches.

In 1884, five candidates, members of these churches, were ordained, two for service under A. B. C. F. M., and three as pastors, namely, a member of Cheshire, Davenport in New Haven, Old Saybrook, West Haven, and Mystic Bridge.

The number pursuing theological studies in the two seminaries, in the year ending in 1884, was—in Hartford, 51; in New Haven, 96; in both, 147.

In 1884, eleven licentiates were ordained, two without charge and nine as pastors. Sixteen ministers were installed as pastors; eighteen pastors were dismissed, and seven ministers, including one acting pastor, died, whose average age was 73 years.

Members.—The churches reported, January 1, 1885, 18,643 males, and 36,296 females; in all, 54,939, including 7,148 absentees. In 1884, the additions were—1,658 by profession and 1,265 by letter; in all, 2,923; the removals—953 by death, 1,180 by letter, 159 by discipline; in all 2,292. The additions by profession exceeded the removals by death by 705. The total additions exceeded the total removals by 631. This would make the total membership, on the basis of January 1, 1884, 55,140; but, instead of this, it is, as reported, 54,939; and thus, there is a difference of 201 members, not accounted for in the statistical tables, to be charged to the revision of rolls and other causes. The rate of mortality was 17 for a thousand members. Ninety-three churches with 10,369 members added none by profession and lost 185 by death.

Fifty churches received additions by profession in numbers ranging from 10 to 86, as follows:

Berlin, Second,	17	Newtown,	12
Bethel,	24	Norfolk,	12
Branford, Stony Creek,	11	Norwalk, First,	44
Bridgeport, First,	17	Norwich. Second,	23

Fairfield,	13	New Haven,	7
Hartford,	14	New London,	5
Litchfield,	5	Tolland,	3
Middlesex,	1	Windham,	2

Baptisms.—711 adults were baptized and 735 infants. The ratio was 13 children for a thousand members. One hundred and twenty-five churches with 14,685 members baptized no child.

Sabbath-schools.—Three churches having no stated worship have no Sunday-school. Only one church with stated worship has no Sunday-school,—the church in Yale College. Fourteen churches have Sunday-school rolls ranging from 400 to 1,036; 135 churches have a Sunday-school larger than the church roll.

The total enrollment, January 1, 1885, was 52,372, or 995 larger than January 1, 1884. In six of the constituent bodies of the General Conference, and also in Tolland and Windham counties, the Sunday school exceeds the church roll.

In the towns embracing the ten cities of the state, the enrollment in churches and Sunday schools is as follows:

	Churches.	Sunday-schools.		Churches.	Sunday-schools.
Bridgeport,	1,415	1,535	New Haven,	5,483	4,097
Hartford,	3,254	2,722	New London,	639	685
Meriden,	866	717	Norwalk,	865	628
Middletown,	865	808	Norwich,	1,886	2,063
New Britain,	1,336	1,612	Waterbury,	1,036	908

Total in churches, 17,645; in Sunday-schools, 15,775.

The aggregate average attendance in 1884 was 31,455, or 60 per cent. of the whole enrollment.

Of the additions to the churches on profession, 1,268, or 76 per cent. of the whole, came from the Sunday-schools; but none came from 114 schools with an enrollment of 14,610.

Brackets inclose the names of ministers not known to be in regular standing in some body of Congregational ministers or churches, and not known to be under ecclesiastical censure, and of ministers of other denominations. The post-offices are as given at latest dates in 1885.

Missionary Society of Connecticut—
The General Association was the Society from June 19, 1798 till October 27, 1880, when the General Conference became the society. Antecedents, origin, and history, with lists of officers and missionaries till 1880, 168–181
Account of transfer to General Conference—
In 1877, the General Association appointed a committee to report in 1878 on a suggestion from Hartford South Association, that the funds of the Missionary Society of Connecticut be committed to the Connecticut Home Missionary Society; that the annual income of said funds be sent to the American Home Missionary Society, to be expended according to the intent of the donors and the usage of the Missionary Society of Connecticut; and that the Missionary Society of Connecticut be discontinued.
In 1878, the committee reported resolutions, which were discussed and referred to said committee made larger—to report in 1879.
In 1879, on recommendation of said committee, it was voted, that "it is desirable that the General Conference become the Missionary Society of Connecticut; that the Connecticut Home Missionary Society be merged in the Missionary Society of Connecticut; that the Missionary Society of Connecticut administer its vested funds and their income as hitherto; that it also take the place and do the work of the Connecticut Home Missionary Society in relation to Connecticut and the American Home Missionary Society; that the accounts of these two branches of its duties be kept distinct; and that its affairs be conducted by a board of not less than fifteen directors, of whom at least one-third shall be lay members of Congregational churches in Connecticut;" and a committee was appointed "to present the above action to the General Conference for its concurrence, and to cooperate with such committee as may be appointed by that body to apply to the General Assembly for such changes of charters as may be necessary to carry said action into effect." The same year said committee laid the plan before the General Conference — which accepted it, and appointed a committee to act with the committee of the General Association in carrying it into effect. These committees met December 1, 1879, and appointed a sub-committee to make a draft of a charter to meet the case. The two committees approved said draft December 29, 1879, and instructed said sub-committee to take measures to secure its enactment by the General Assembly. It was enacted at the January session of the General Assembly in 1880, was approved by the governor, March 12, 1880, was duly accepted by the General Association, June 15, 1880, by a vote of thirty-six yeas and four nays, and by the General Conference, October 27, 1880, 14–19, 164–168
